West Virginia Oil Field.

A correspondent of the Harrisburg Topic says: "Parkersburg oil district, comprising an area of fifty miles in the vicinity of the town, contains, now in operation, from sixty to seventy-five oil producing wells, which are paying as a legitimate investment at the present time. The fever and wild speculation of the past has given way to the steady and profitable trade of the present. It may be comforting to our Pennsylvania friends who invested in companies in this district and sold out at a song, to know that many of the old companies have been bought out, and are now being run by private parties at good profits. An instance of this kind is now in our mind. The Anderson wells, two in number, were sold by order of a receiver for the companies to the highest bidder, about eighteen months since, for the sum of four thousand two hundred dollars. Since that time the parties, two brothers, have paid for the wells out of the oil produced, and had a net gain of thirty-five hundred dollars in addition. This shows the advantages of individual management over the oftentimes swindling working of stock companies.

Dr. Marbeeny, of Washington, D. C., in August last sunk a shaft at an expense of $10,000, and since that time has netted $100,000—having struck a flowing well of 160 barrels, which has been constantly discharging since that time. These are a few of the successful operators. I have omitted to state that nearly, if not fully one thousand wells have been sunk in this district during the first excitement to this time, the average striking of oil being about one in eighteen or twenty times.

The parties now operating are the old parties who have lived here during the excitement. No new parties are in the field. The old ones are making all developments, and there is now produced at this time more oil in this district than at any time since the commencement of the developments. The oil wells are usually put down 1,000 to 1,500 feet; from 400 to 500 feet the heavy oil is pumped. When this is exhausted, boring operations are continued until the lighter fluid oil is struck at the usual distance of 1,000 to 1,200 feet. This flows up naturally until the supply is exhausted, being forced up by gas. The Laurel Fork and Sand Hill Railroad connecting with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was built for the accommodation of the oil trade—a distance of twenty miles, into the very heart of the producing country. The price of the lubricating oil, first quality, at the wells, in bulk is $10 per barrel. The crude, light or burning fluid oil is worth $4 to $5 per barrel. At Parkersburg large quantities of this oil is received, and then shipped direct to the market.

The Rev. Father Dunn, pastor of the Catholic Society of this place, is now engaged in the very laudable work of building a school house, the basement of the church, where the school has heretofore been held, being too small for the number of scholars in attendance, and so damp that it had become very unhealthy. The new school house is to be two stories high, and large and commodious in every respect. It is the intention of Father Dunn to establish a reading room in the second story, where a select library will be kept, in addition to the latest newspapers and periodicals, thereby supplying a want that has long been felt, and where the young men of the place can pass their evenings in a manner both pleasant and beneficial. Such enterprises are worthy of support, and we trust the public, independent of their religious creed, will extend Father Dunn liberal aid to enable him to carry forward the work to completion.

The Morehead well, on Shaffer Run, near Oil City, has increased its production to 25 barrels daily. When struck its yield was only 15 barrels.

The Lady Corintha well, Jas. S. McCray farm, is down about 500 feet, and will be completed in the course of two weeks.—This well has been named in honor of daughter of Mr. McCray. The indications are good.

We are pleased to notice the return to town of our old friend, Mr. Jas. A. Wharry White on a visit to his home in West Virginia. Mr. W. was taken seriously ill, and was confined to his bed for several weeks, but has nearly recovered.

NEW WELL.—A new well was struck yesterday on the side hill opposite Tarr Farm. It started up at the rate of 250 barrels per day. This morning it was yielding at the rate of 100 barrels daily, and since then has dropped off considerably. It is owned by John McLaughlin & Co., of Tarr Farm.

The following poetic effusion is said to have been sung by a nice young man at an evening party:

Lady, ope thy we-be-hindow, And lueh-bi-bine thine ear, While the moon is be-be-beaming, Deign my lay to be-be-bear.

Softly steal the bee-bee-beezes, O'er the scented la-be-heaves, Birds among the tree-be-beezes, Slumber si-bi-bi-lently.

Lady from thy la-la-lattice, Pray look down on me-be-be; Mollify your la-ha-hather, And ask me, in to-te-be.

Success lies behind the door of exertion, and the man who would win success must be a constant worker. Work is the only means of being independent. If a man lives on inherited property, he is enjoying the fruits of the labors of those who came before him, while the man who earns his own living is truly independent.

SAD CASE OF DROWNING.—On Wednesday the 1st, two boys named Billinger and Wilkins were out in an old skiff fishing on Oil Creek Lake when the heavy storm came up and their boat was capsized and both were drowned. The accident was not discovered at the time, and it was not until their families became alarmed because they did not return in the evening, that search was made. The team they drove was found tied in the woods near the Lake, and after some search the boat was found bottom upwards about some distance from shore.—Their fishing tackle and a hat worn by one of them was found on the shore, and some hours afterwards the body of one of them was recovered. The other had not been found at last accounts. The sad calamity cast a gloom over the entire community.—Meadville Republican.

The New York Tribune says: "Mrs. A. D. Richardson has been fairly overwhelmed with letters and other expressions of sympathy, since her last publication in the Tribune. She has been too unwell to make such acknowledgement of these as she would desire, and has therefore requested us to express for her the gratitude she feels and her regret at not being able to send individual replies."

A broad shouldered Fenian, just returned from Pigeon Hill, was met near the depot on Saturday by a gentleman of an inquiring turn of mind, who innocently asked if he liked "Pigeon pie." Shortly afterwards the inquisitive gent was very busy stuffing cotton up his nostrils to keep the blood from spotting his shirt front.—Eric Dispatch.

From the following law, which passed the Legislature last winter, it will be seen that in criminal cases which have been settled, the prosecutor and defendant are liable for the costs instead of the county having to pay them as heretofore.

Section 1. That the laws relating to payment of costs in criminal cases shall not be so construed as to compel the payment of costs by the county where the case has been settled or arranged by the parties to the case, the prosecutor and defendants shall be liable for the payment of the costs in all such cases.

NOTICE.—The quarterly meeting of the Petroleum Producers Association and the Board of Managers will be held at Liberty Hall, in Oil City, on Wednesday, June 8th 1870 at 10 o'clock a. m. A full attendance of the members and of the managers is desired as business of importance will be presented to the meeting for decision. WM. BROUN, President.

An oil company has been organized to test Wolf creek land, in the northeastern portion of Lawrence county. There was in operation at one time in that locality, a salt well, the water of which became so impregnated with oil that it was abandoned. It is proposed to sink a well 1200 feet deep.
