Several of our citizens have started a movement for a Fourth of July celebration in this place. It is proposed to have an oration, Declaration of Independence read, music, foot racing, horse racing, jumping match, pulling match for teams, fire works and a grand ball for the benefit of the fire department in the evening. As there is to be no celebration at Titusville, or any of the surrounding towns, we hope our citizens will encourage the movement. By all means let us have an old-fashioned 4th of July celebration.

How to keep cool—patronize Griffes Bros. Soda Fountain.

A new well located on the Coldwater Oil Co's lease, Central Petroleum Co's farm, is being tubed to-day preparatory to testing. The show is excellent.

The fight in Crawford county, between Geo. K. Anderson and G. B. Delamater, for State Senate from the Erie District, is waxing exceedingly warm, outside influence having been brought to bear in the canvass. The Oil City paper is dealing heavy blows against Mr. Anderson in every issue, which provokes the Titusville Herald to using such hard names as "small fry newspaper," "ignorant slubbering newspaper," &c., whereas the Oil City paper becomes wrathful and retaliates in the same fashion. Next Monday, however, will end the contest, and if we mistake not the Oil City paper will have poor satisfaction for its trouble in publishing Mr. Anderson.

Messrs Innis & Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Innis Sucker rods, are about to remove from Pioneer to Oil City, having constructed a large and commodious work shop at the latter place, for the manufacture of this celebrated rod. The removal is made necessary by the constantly increasing demand for this article.

A Remarkable Invention Petroleum as a Fuel—Practical Operators of the Process.

From the Oswego Times.

Yesterday we were present at the foundry of Messrs. Barrows, Savory & Co., at the corner of Reed and Front street to witness the practical operation of Messrs. Whipple and Dicklason's new process for converting petroleum to the production of motive power. A large number of persons interested in a discovery so pregnant with importance as affecting the whole question of fuel in the future, were present, and were perfectly satisfied with the value and feasibility of the same.

The new process does not bring the petroleum in contact with the fire at all. By a most ingenious and exceedingly simple machine, it is first evaporated into hydro-carbon gas or vapor, and the gas is conducted to the fire-box by ordinary pipes, and there burned as you would burn ordinary gas under a kettle in a gas stove.

The process of evaporation and its product is the secret of this discovery. The objection which was urged in 1867 by the Secretary of the Navy, that in all tests of the value of Petroleum as a fuel, it had been discovered that carbonization resulted to such an extent as to stop up the tubes used in a short time, cannot be raised against the present mode of burning petroleum, as the fire does not come in contact with the crude petroleum, but merely with its vapor, as stated. In regard to its perfect safety, also, there can be no question, for the same reason. At the foundry which we visited, yesterday, and in which this process is in operation, there has been a saving of nearly one-half in coal, with an increased efficiency. The same boiler is in use as before, and while by the use of coal a pressure of not higher than forty pounds to a square inch could be obtained, with a great decline in this pressure when there was heavy work being done in the foundry, with the use of petroleum by this process a constant pressure of sixty pounds is attained, never varying no matter how great the call upon the motive power. These engines aggregating sixty horse power, are driven by the steam generated in this way. This will show the great demand for a large and an invariable supply of steam, as also the efficiency of the newly utilized fuel.

Of the solid value of the invention we have no doubt, and believe that the new process is destined to revolutionize the entire question of fuel, at least as a generator of steam.

Yesterday afternoon as the up river train on the Allegheny Valley Railroad was rounding the curve near Scrubgrass Station, the engineer discovered a man lying with his head directly across one of the rails.—He whistled "down brakes" and the train was stopped, but not until the cowcatcher had struck the man and thrown him from the track into the bushes on one side. He was picked up by the railroad employees, taken aboard the train and brought to Franklin, where his wounds were dressed. His head was badly bruised. Had the engineer not discovered the man at the moment he did, there would undoubtedly have been a coroner's inquest. The man was so intoxicated that he did not realize the narrow escape he had made.

DEATH BY SNAKE BITE.—On Friday last Mr. Charles Heberling, of Crauberry township, was bitten by a snake of the copperhead species while drinking from a spring on the Cochran farm. While lying down to drink he felt a sharp stinging sensation in his hand and discovered that he had been bitten by a snake. A copperhead was seen crawling away from the spot and it was killed. The usual remedy in such cases—whisky—was given to Mr. Heberling as soon as it could be procured, but without effect. The unfortunate man died in a few hours. He leaves a wife and seven children.—Spectator.

Do not forget the lecture for the benefit of the Catholic School house and reading room, at Sobel's hall, Sunday evening. The subject is an interesting one, and as the object is in aid of a worthy cause, we hope to see a crowded house.

Mr. Joseph H. Barnard of Wisconsin, will preach in the Presbyterian Church at this place next Sunday, morning, and evening. Sunday School as usual at 2¼ o'clock.

From Postmaster Miller, of this place we learn that the injuries sustained by our contemporary, F. H. Braggins, of the Greenville Argus, who was recently thrown from his carriage, are not so serious as at first represented. It was reported that his skull was fractured and that he could not live, but a close examination by the physician proved it otherwise. We are glad to learn that such is the fact and hope that he will soon be able to attend to his editorial duties again.

The Presbyterian church at Cooperstown, will be dedicated on Sunday June, 26th.—Rev. S. J. M. Eaton of Franklin, will preach the dedicatory sermon.

THIRD SAND ROCK

A rascally bachelor calls the friendship of two women "always a plot against a third."

A shrewd Trojan, the other day, got a valid marriage ceremony and the clergyman's new hat, all for two dollars.

Edward Everett's son is to harp on revolutionary themes at Boston's Fourth of July.

The names of the authoresses Lucy Larcom and Virginia Vaughn are the real names of the writers, and not alliterative fancies like Jenny June, Minnie Mondays, et al.

A Chicago thief stole a pocket book from a lady the other day which contained only a subscription list for the poor. The pocket book was returned with a note assuring the lady he was "like herself a friend of the poor."

An astute New Orleans Judge has just shown what an ass he can make of himself by tating his judicial horn at Caroline Riching's Opera Troupe. He thinks a woman should not manage a troupe of any kind.

Place not your trust in strangers. A farmer named Cox attended a circus at Springfield on Saturday, became intimate with a trio of "nice young men" attached to the show, drank freely, got drunk and into the calaboose. On coming to his senses he found that he had been "done to the tune of a $500 check and $120 in greenbacks."

A Nevada editor says that Olive Logan is "the most right up and snappy ebullient of womanly git up and git that we ever had the pleasure of meeting."

Newton Seiberland has recovered $2,000 in the Supreme Court at Baltimore, from John Leeson, for kissing his wife's hand against her will. This fearful verdict will no doubt prompt all the women to have their hands kissed against their will. Happy Seiberland! His wife is a treasure—a genuine golden egg darling!

Cincinnati is described during the Saengerfest as a "gigantic beer garden, with a few houses interspersed here and there."

A New Jersey paper is printing a morning tale, entitled "Kasper, or the Cross-eyed Carpenter of Kalamazoo."

The employees of one firm in Montreal were paid by the firm for the time they were absent repelling the Fenians.

"The White Element in Our Midst" was the subject of a colored gentleman's discourse at Indianapolis the other day.

"When a great man dies," says Quill, "the first thing done is to resolve to build a monument to his memory, and the second is—to not to build it."

A. B. Woodcock, late postmaster at Piedmont, West Virginia, was arrested at Baltimore, on Friday, by a special agent of the Postoffice Department, for embezzling money of the United States. He was committed to await the action of the grand jury, and is not in love with Uncle Sam's style of woodcock hunting.

A correspondent asks: "Did you ever observe how obtuse a car full of passengers becomes when a homely woman enters? Au contraire, let a pretty face, bright eyes, and soft complexion appear at the door, and, voilà! every seat is at her service."

A company of Pennsylvania capitalists have purchased territory in Allegheny county, Virginia, and established a colony, made up of emigrants from this State.—Twelve thousand acres have lately been purchased that are rich in coal and iron, and well wooded. The iron is found cropping out above the water level, and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad will run near to it. A furnace is still in operation from which the famous Tredgar Works, at Richmond, have drawn their best ore. There are evidences of oil in the neighborhood.—The Pennsylvania will, before long, strike Charleston, the heart of the country, and open it to the north; while until that time the Baltimore & Ohio enables access from another quarter, and steamboat communication enables Cincinnati to be reached with ease. The Chesapeake & Ohio road penetrates the country, and will materially assist the movement. In addition to the company from Pennsylvania, a New England company, and another from New York are on the ground, to increase the activity.

C. H. William's new coal advertisement will appear to-morrow.

A refinery is being built on the banks of the Schuylkill, which will be the largest in the world. The capital of the firm is $1,000,000.

David Lennon was arrested a day or two since on oath of Willis Stark, for surety of the peace, he having threatened to reduce Stark to the consistency of mince meat.—David was held in the sum of $200 to keep the peace, by that lover of peace Justice Reynolds, and the probability is that Willis will not become Stark and cold for some time to come.

Clifton, the publisher of Dickens' works, published a statement yesterday, that only one-half of Dickens' story mystery of "Edwin Drood" had been written. The story will be published as far as written, and no one will be permitted to finish it.
