ROBBERY AND ESCAPE OF THE PRISONER.

James Lynch, who it will be remembered was arrested and held to bail a few days since for highway robbery, was arrested again yesterday for robbing a stranger named James Shinnery, of $100 in greenbacks.

Lynch was taken before Justice Reynolds, and after an examination was committed in default of bail to answer—

While being taken to the lock-up a gang of ruffians surrounded the officer, one of whom pushed him down the steps leading to the Justice office and another one drew or attempted to draw a revolver on him, and during the melee the prisoner escaped.

The morning officer Lawrence, assisted by Deputy Hill, arrested James Early alias "Plug," and Charles Kennedy, charged with resisting the officer and aiding and abetting the prisoner to escape. They were taken before Justice Reynolds, and after an examination, were bound over in the sum of $1,000 to appear at Franklin to answer.

Falling to procure the required bail they were taken to Franklin on the 11:20 train. These men are notorious scoundrels, and Justice Reynolds is deserving the thanks of the public for his prompt action in ridding the town of their presence.

Callie Curtis and Frank Swift, the two champion skaters of America, are to skate a match at the rink in Jamestown, N. Y., this winter.

LECTURE.—James B. Nicholson, Past Grand Sire of the Grand Lodge of the United States, and Secretary of the Grand Lodge of the State of Pennsylvania, I. O. of O. F., will lecture at Sobel's Hall on the evening of Oct. 31st.

Two new palace sleeping cars have been put on the O. C. & A. R. R. within the last week. This makes six on the road at present.

A Sample of Kentucky Poetry.

A fellow named Stanton, of Frankfort, has it bad, and pours his barrowing tale into the ears of a sympathizing world through the medium of the Yeoman. He was ass enough to love a very pretty piece of Blue Grass statuary, who is—

"—colder than all
Of the flakes that fall,
And the bitterest winds that be,
Than the Mer de Glace
In the Northern Pass,
Than the Pole itself—is she."
He didn't let concealment, etc., but told his love in the following highly melodramatic fashion:

"In the amber light
Of the sky—one night—
I tore my bosom apart,
And under a moon
Of the fervid June
Was 'offered' to her my heart."
Different people have different ways of doing it. With our limited experience we should advise against evisceration, except in extreme cases, as an accompaniment to a declaration of love. But what is the use of doing a thing by halves? Having given up his heart, why didn't he tender the other entrails, liver, lungs, spleen, midriff and transverse colon—sciatim. That might have "fetched" her.

"For I tore it out
Of its red redoubt,
And laid it over the pyre,
Where the torrid heat
Of its lever beat
Went soul to soul, with the fire."
He shouldn't have done that. Perhaps she would have preferred it raw.

"What the bodice robes
For her mammal globes,
Is only an lay lie—
Though the lace may rest
On her milk white bosom,
A babe, at the place, would die."

This is growing libelous, and we dare not copy further. We should be pleased, however, to hear from Mr. Stanton at some future time. We are anxious to know how he gets along without his "wards."

THEATRE.—There was a large audience in attendance at Sobel's Opera House, last evening, to witness the performance of the great drama of "Frou-Frou." Miss Price's rendition of the character of "Gilberte," was excellent, if anything excelling the acting of the night previous. Miss Price is not only a popular and talented actress, but is a lady of rare accomplishments, and during her short stay here has made hosts of friends. The balance of the company ably supported her, carrying out their several parts in a manner true to life.

To-night will be produced the great drama in five acts, entitled "Little Barefoot," in which Miss Price will appear in her great character of "Farmer Pease," and the entire company in the cast. As this is positively her last appearance in this place, a complimentary benefit has been tendered by many citizens, and we hope to see a crowded house.

BURGLARS ABOUT.—An attempt was made by two burglars on Monday night, to enter the house of Isaac H. Hilliard on Buffalo street, but the thieves were frightened by some of the inmates hoisting a window. The same parties were driven away from Pike's barn by the dogs, shortly after their failure at Mr. Hilliard's.—Spectator.

By a letter from Mr. M. Van Sickle, agent for La Rue's Carnival Minstrels, we learn that this troupe are to appear at Sobel's Opera House, on Monday, Oct. 31st. This company is highly spoken of and will no doubt draw crowded house.

"Who that hath redness of the eyes?"—The man who neglects his wife's request to subscribe for the DAILY RECORD.

A woman went to a circus in Terre Haute, Indiana, accompanied by eleven children, and when a neighbor asked her where the old man was, she said he was at home taking care of the children. Another neighbor called at the house and seeing the old man trying to smuse nine young ones, asked where the old lady was. He said he had let her go to the circus with the children.

A certain party from down East came to Storm Lake, Wis., the other day to view the farm he had purchased, having paid $4,500 per acre for the whole of section 10, range, etc. He found that his farm was in the very center of the lake, many feet under water at the shallowest point. He takes no more stock in real estate in that immediate vicinity. It is too badly watered.

LOSS OF THE STEAMER CAMBRIA

London, Oct. 21.

The steamer Enterprise from Galveston to Londonderry, picked up a boat off Inishowen Head, at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, containing a sailor and corpse of a girl. The sailor stated that the steamer Cambria, of the Anchor Line from New York, struck at ten o'clock the night previous, on Inishowen Island and became a total wreck. Four other boats containing passengers left the steamer but have not yet been heard of. The sailor reports his own boat upset and all in it but himself drowned.

London, Oct. 21.

The agents of the Anchor Line, at Glasgow, have received full confirmation of the loss of their Steamer Cambria on Wednesday night. The sailor who was saved is now in Londonderry. His name is Gartland, and is a native of Armaugh, Ireland. No tidings of the missing boats.

New York, Oct. 21.

The steamer Cambria took out 127 passengers—42 cabin, 18 intermediate and 67 steerage. Among the passengers was Gen. Davis, of Chicago. The cargo consisted of wheat, flour, cotton, cheese, fish, oil, apples, and barrel stores.

A Beautiful Thought.

God knows what keys in the human soul to touch, in order to draw out its sweetest and most perfect harmonies. They may be in the minor strains of sadness and sorrow; they may be in the loftier notes of joy and gladness. God knows where the melodies of nature are, and what discipline will call them forth. Some with plaintive songs must walk in lowly vales of life's weary way; others in loftier hymns, shall sing of nothing but joy, as they tread the mountain tops of life; but they all unite without a discord or a jar, as the ascending anthem of loving and believing hearts, finds its way into the chorus of the redeemed in Heaven.

The Good Templar Convention at Corry adjourned last evening, after a three days session. About 300 delegates were present, representing four counties. Delegates were in attendance from Titusville Centreville, Riceville, Saegertown and Townsville, Crawford county; and from Rousseville, Petroleum Centre, Oil City, Pleasantville, Shamburg and Franklin, Venango county. Also from various points in Erie and Warren counties. S. B. Chase G. W. C. T. of this State, presided, and delivered an address at the Academy of Music on Wednesday evening. The business sessions were held at Good Templar Hall. Last evening there was a social assembly under the auspices of the Corry Lodge at the Academy of Music, which was largely attended by members of the order and citizens generally. It was a pleasant and profitable occasion to all concerned.

JOSH BILLINGS' ALMANAX.—Josh Billings tells us that he shall let loose about the middle of October, 1870, "Josh Billings' Farmers' Almanax for 1871," and notices the same in the following touching language: "No family who keeps a two horse carriage should be without this almanax. As Asahunt Knooper, phull of phalth, let slip the pure and innocent dove from his ark, so do I let slip this almanax, and hope it won't come back. To the weary wanderer this Almanax will be a guide board, showing the nearest cut to the next town and to the sorry a soda fountain of gymnastic delight. This Almanax gives the biography, etymology, syntax and prosody of bugs, beasts and little codfishes, and tells us, with the fondness of a step parent the right time to trade oph a dog."

The Allegheny River has not been as low for many years as at present. The recent rains have had no perceptible effect upon it. One can wade across it in places. If the "lumber flood" don't come soon, little will be sent to the lower markets until next spring.

At Nosalton, Illinois, recently, John Frazer was killed by his brother "Hick." The former, who had been in the habit of abusing their widowed mother, whom "Hick" was accustomed to defend, had that day threatened his brother's death, and on "Hick's" return home with a load of wood was approaching him with an ax, while the latter was unhitching the horses, when "Hick" drew a revolver and shot John through the head, killing him instantly.

Billings says, "to bring up a child in the way, he should go, travel that way yourself."
