Well No. 3, Kepler & Watson lease, McCray farm, was completed yesterday and is being tubed to-day preparatory to testing.

On a recent visit to Titusville we were shown by Mr. Edward Fox, an elegant oil painting of his two young daughters. The picture was painted by a cousin of his, Miss Leonora Fox of Cleveland, O., and is a beautiful specimen of the art, reflecting great credit on her ability as an artist.

Game of all kinds is quite plentiful in the woods in this vicinity.

THEATRE.—There was a large and fashionable audience in attendance at Sobel's Opera House, last evening, to witness the performance of the great drama entitled, "Pearl of Savoy; or, A Mother's Prayer," by Miss Fanny B. Price and company. The play was well rendered throughout. In the character of "Marie," Miss Price fully sustained her old-time reputation as a star of the first magnitude in the dramatic horizon.

The new married woman's property law in England has gone into effect. A woman's earnings are hereafter her own; a policy of insurance is her own; she may sue and be sued separately; a husband is not liable for his wife's anti-marriage debts.

The silver mines of Nevada are found to be exceedingly prolific and apparently inexhaustible, at least for years to come. The best ore yields, after being milled, from $2,000 to $3,000 per ton; while some will yield $4,000, and some only $300. The richest deposits are said to be in Elko county.

This thing of woman's rights may go too far, thought Mrs. Elizabeth Garland, in New York, the other night, when three females knocked her down and robbed her of her valuables and tried to cut off her finger to secure a valuable ring.

From the special correspondence of the Pittsburgh Commercial we copy the following in regard to the big well on Armstrong Run:

Brady's Bend, Nov. 2, 1870.

The greatest of the oil excitement having concentrated at this point, a line or two of information in reference to it may not be without interest to your readers. It is generally conceded that this is the best territory yet developed. In no instance has there been a failure, and all of the wells have proved to be paying institutions, none of them flowing less than one hundred barrels per day on an average. Pumps are unheeded, and engines useless except for drilling. I am not certain as to the date of the first wells put down, but these were regarded at the time as doubtful experiments and having proved in both instances success, fullventures, the excitement gradually increased until Tuesday last, when the Jennings well struck and flowed largely, and then fell off to about one hundred and sixty barrels, until to-day, when the flow was five hundred barrels, being a steady stream through three pipes.

The two wells of Dr. James are doing well, and the Doctor's loss of two hundred barrels by the fire on Sunday will hardly affect his good nature. He is well known in your city, and his many friends congratulate him on his good success.

The great point of interest for the past two days has been the Meldrum well, which did not disappoint its noisy well-wishers, and is now flowing at the rate of 1,200 barrels.

The excitement is intense, and every lease in the immediate vicinity has been taken, and a dozen wells will be progressing downward in a few days. Parties in your city are interested to some extent in a number of the leases recently given.

The Clark farm, which could not have been sold for $2,000 six months ago, has recently been disposed of at $38,500, Mr. John H. Haines, formerly of the Brady's Bend Iron Company being one of the lucky purchasers. This farm is now valued at $200,000, and not for sale at any price. If I had time I should like to give you a readable letter, but at the moment can only detail a few facts and figures.

Our usual monthly oil report will appear on Monday.

The loss by the Parker's Landing fire is estimated at $100,000.

The Lancet says:—"It is a curious fact that of the passengers in the train which met with a terrible accident lately, all or very near all, who were asleep at the time escaped uninjured—nature's anaesthetic insuring them not only against fractures and contusions, but even against the bad effects of shaking and concussion.

A Montana paper, speaking of a poet out there, says he begins to claim the usual privileges of talent. He has been drunk four times within the last week.

Lawyers mouths are like turpentine gates—never open except for pay.

Bakers, in one respect at least; follow Nature—they rise in the yeast.

Rev. M. Crozier, formerly of the city of Indianapolis, Ind., will preach in the public school house, of Petroleum Centre, on Sabbath next, at 11 a. m., and 2 p. m.—Subject—the opening of the seals, (Rev. 6, 1-8) the Final Judgement, Acts 17-31. All are invited.

A STRANGE DREAM.—The following lines are supposed to have been written by an editor who was insane, for certainly no sane man could dream anything so improbable:

I had a dream the other night, When everything was still; I dreamed that each subscriber Came up and paid his bill; Each wore a look of honesty, And smiles were round each eye, As they hand o'er the stamps They yelled, "how's that for high?"

Berlin, Nov. 4.

The North German Gazette to-day says: Before the capitulation of Metz, Bazaine ordered his men not to destroy or throw away their arms, because if they were surrendered to the Prussians they would be restored at the close of the war, along with all the fortresses, etc.

This, the Gazette (semi-official organ) pronounces a deceptive and unwarranted statement.

NATURE'S WONDERS IN THE FAR WEST.—A remarkable series of falls has been, it is said, found in the Yellowstone river, in Montana Territory. According to the accounts we get, the river is several hundred yards wide. Within sixty yards above the first fall, it makes three plunges, respectively ten, fifteen and twenty feet in height.

At the brink it has narrowed down to about thirty yards in width, and gushing in one huge volume of froth between two boulders fifty feet in height, it is almost lost from sight in the midst of the canon below, the perpendicular height of the fall being a hundred and twenty feet. At its foot the water strikes a shelving rock, and shoots out horizontally a distance of twenty feet rushing on through a deep and narrow gorge a third of a mile, the river widens out to forty yards and takes a second plunge falling this time a distance of three hundred and fifty feet, or more than twice that of Niagara. The water here enters a chasm eighteen miles long, and varying in depth from seven hundred to fifteen hundred feet. So deep is this gorge that the roar of the cataract can scarcely be heard a quarter of a mile distant, and so steep are the banks that the foot of the falls is wholly inaccessible.

Another great natural curiosity in the same region is said to be the Fire Hole Basin, on the Madison river, which is full of springs of boiling water like the Iceland Geysers, with vents varying from three to fifteen feet in diameter, and sending up columns of water from sixty to two hundred and twenty feet in height. If these stories are true, Montana ought to rival the Yosemite Valley as a field for tourists.

A remarkable case of suspended animation recently occurred at Washington, D. C. The remains of a young lady, sixteen years of age, daughter of Capt. Freerer, were found to be quite limber, after having been brought from Maryland in a close coffin. By the aid of a galvanic battery a pulse of five beats to the minute was produced, but the doctor was finally compelled to desist, on the sad conviction that all further attempts at resuscitation would be fruitless. He was of opinion, however, that had medical assistance been rendered at an earlier period, the life of the young lady would have been saved.

BE TRUE.

Thou must be true thyself, If thou the truth would'st teach; Thy soul must overthrow, if thou Another's soul would'st reach; It needs the overflow of heart To give the lips full speech.

Think truly, and thy thoughts Shall the world's famine feed; Speak truly, and each word of thine Shall be a faithful seed; Live truly, and thy life shall be A great and noble creed.

Worthington, Indiana, boasts of a billiard-table of the old fashioned kind, and the only one of the kind in the State. It is a six pocket table twelve feet wide by eighteen feet long, and was manufactured in New Orleans in 1821, and often used as a dancing floor, accommodating two cotillions.
