Winter is coming on, and with it long evenings. Our young men—and there are many in this community—should ask themselves, in all seriousness, how these evenings are to be spent? Is it more profitable to cultivate the heels than the head? In other words shall balls and dances predominate? Dances and social parties are all well enough, indulged in properly, but they do not improve the intellect. Our Lecture Committee have provided for a course of excellent and able lectures, but this does not fill the entire bill. We would advise our young men to organize a Literary Association, and hold meetings once a week for debates, reading of essays, and other intellectual exercises. This would prove beneficial to all engaged. Who will take the initiative in this worthy movement? We certainly have material enough from which to organize an association of this kind, and it would be an institution creditable to our town.—Titusville Journal.

The words of the Journal are wise and truthful and apply equally as well to the young men of this place. There is ample material in this town to organize a literary society and we hope to see a movement made in that direction. Who will take the initiative?

The recent strike on the Wilkins tract, West Hickory, is said to be yielding 400 barrels per day. The Titusville Journal reports it as yielding 200 barrels per day.—It is known as the Sutherland, Hogan & Co. well. The company intend sinking several more wells. This is probably as large a well as the region affords.

The Mayor of Shelbyville, Ind., sued six or seven boys for playing base ball in the square. In retaliation, the Mayor has been impeached before the city council by the boys, and charged "with wilful neglect of duties of his office, also with adultery and fornication with prostitute."

LOSING SITUATIONS.

It is a bad business this, of losing situations. It is a bad sign, too, for it is presumptive proof that the loser does not deserve the situation he fails to retain. It may not be on account of dishonesty, or drunkenness, or immorality; these are great vices, that condemn their victim in all places and circumstances. The young man who is dishonest, or addicted to dissipation and licentiousness, need not expect to be trusted with the business of others; it is a wonder that he should ever get a place—much more that he should keep it. But the severe exactions of business in these times require something else of a young man than exemption from faults and vices; they demand positive virtues and aptitude. A young man may possess exemplary morals; he may have no bad habits; he may flatter himself that he has a good education that he writes a good hand, that he is quick at figures, a mathematician, a linguist, and scholar. All this is well; but it is not enough; these accomplishments are graces that adorn a character, and give satisfaction to their possessor; but they do not mean business. Situations demand not merely the absence of bad habits; the exact good habits, such as diligence, industry, cheerful willingness to work, without measuring the allotted task; a vigilant watchfulness over the employer's interest; the practice of doing things thoroughly and effectively; promptness and reliability. All these may be possessed by men of only ordinary talents and indifferent education; but they will enable such a man to hold his situation, and rise higher and higher in his employer's favor, while a young man of superior talents, education, and accomplishments, who is destitute of these sterling qualities, will lose one position after another. It is a pitiable sight to see a man out of business, and without means, appealing to personal friends to assist him to get a place. He deserves sympathy and aid, and his friends should not fail to encourage and assist him. But there are too many young men seeking clerkships and agencies, who want not the situation, but its salary; they desire good wages with little labor; they want to do as little work and to earn as much money as possible.—They perform their duties, but decline to perform more than their duties, they are languid, listless, and indifferent; they take no active interest in the fortunes of their employer, and put themselves to no trouble to win his favor. These are the men who lose situations without exactly knowing why. If a man, young or old, would always retain his situation and win favor, let him make himself indispensable to his employers. The task is not a difficult one, and will be worth more than he imagines.—Exchange.

Mr. Wm. G. Ladd, a resident of Pottsville City, was robbed of a valuable silk dress purchased for his wife, at the Corry depot a day or two since. The robber, a XVth amendment, was arrested.

A typographical union has been organized at Titusville. It is known as the Titusville Typographical Union No. 144.

The work of laying the track for the Titusville & Union railroad is being pushed rapidly ahead and will be completed before cold weather.

It is understood that Mr. W. E. Johns has decided not to issue the Oil City Register as a daily paper. We are sorry that such is not to be the case. Oil City has long needed a first-class daily, and we know of no man more capable of publishing one than him.

The New York World says: Pool selling on the elections, among politicians on Saturday night at Twenty-eight street and Broadway, resulted in bets on Hoffman of 50,000 majority, and on Mayor Hall of 20,000 majority in the city.

The following letter was picked up near the depot at this place. It will be seen that the "pballer" continues to love, although badly treated by the "gal's" father. We give the letter verbatim, with the exception of the names:

Trunksville, Pa.

My Dear Corey: I heard that you was in the Senter and I thought I would drop you a few lines to merely find out whether you was there I was a fraid that you was dead. o, when I heard from you as I thought my hart leaped with Joy but I am a fraid that you are not there. I am the woa that Your father made leve town So fast but I left my hart with you and I never seen eney bodey that could tak your Place in my hart. I love you and you a lone if you are there and get this Pleasee anser if a mediatley. from an old lover

John Falliber made a run of 2,000 points at billiards in Buffalo on Thursday last.—The run was made on the candle table without the usual stop.

Latest and Most Important War News.

London, Nov. 7.

The French Government have ordered the arrest of Marshal Bazaine and the officers of his staff wherever found.

The troops in Paris have been divided into three armies, one of which is called the Garde Sedentaire.

The Hamburg Vorsehalls newspaper says: Nine French vessels are in sight west of Helligoland.

Tours, Nov. 7.

The Monitor says: Prussia as she would neither consent to the revivification of Paris nor allow Alsace and Lorraine to vote in the election for delegates to the Constitutional Assembly, assumed the responsibility for the continuance of the war.

All the Journals here express the bitterest resentment at the duplicity of Bismarck, who to negotiate for a suspension of the war thus gains time for the approach of reinforcements and warded off an attack from the army of the Loire, which could have taken the offensive with advantage.

Versailles, Nov. 7.

Everything is quiet about here.

There has been no fighting for several days.

Fort Mortier, at New Breisach, capitulated Sunday night.

A fire had occurred inside which rendered it untenable.

Two hundred and twenty prisoners and thirty-five cannon were captured.

A reporter says and says it boldly: "Last evening, as soon as Tithonus had retired for the night, and was enjoying his first snooze, his spouse the very fingered Anora daughter of the morning, snatched the saffron colored coverlet from his bed, and wrapping it about her, danced a jig in the northern sky!"

A wrestling match for $5,000 a side is in process of arrangement between Harrison P. Comstock and James McLaughlin of Titusville.

The oldest vessel afloat on the Lakes is the Harriet Ross, and she has something of a historic interest. In 1812 she was flagship to Commodore Perry on Lake Erie.—She has been lengthened and rebuilt several times, yet in every instance a portion of the old craft was retained. She stranded during the last storm, but receiving immediate assistance, was not injured, and is still a staunch craft.

A careless man in Shenectady threw a kiss to his little daughter in the street.—Another man's wife stood in range, and thought the kiss was meant for her so she made a similar demonstration. Her husband just then, unthinkingly, came upon the scene and witnessed the transaction. He was very mad, and his anger caused him to thrash the father of the aforementioned little daughter. The result is an assault and battery suit.

Messrs. Nicholson & Blackmon, Fisher, Norris & Co., and other business men on Main street, are entitled to the thanks of the public for building a new cross walk at a point hitherto impassable.

The familiar monogram of McFarland, Smith & Co., the well known Clothing Merchants of Titusville, appears in the advertising columns of every paper in the oil regions.

At Painesville, Ohio, a few days ago, a man digging a well heard a sudden and unaccountable noise at a depth of twelve feet, which at first frightened him, but proved to be escaping gas, which was readily ignited with a lighted match. The Ashland Telegram thinks that gas in sufficient quantity may be found in the neighborhood of Painesville to repay the citizens for some united effort in boring for it.

Quite a number of our citizens left town yesterday for New York State, in order to vote at the election held to-day.

The silver mines of Nevada are found to be exceedingly prolific and apparently inexhaustible, at least for years to come.—The best ore yields, after being milled, from $2,000 to $3,000 per ton; while some will yield $1,000, and some only $300. The richest deposits are said to be in Elk county.

We defy Competition in Buck skin Gloves! We know what we say when we assert that we can and do sell the best of Buck skin Gloves cheaper than any other place in town.

$5 REWARD.—A reward of $5 will be paid for the arrest of any person caught detecting or tearing down show bills from my boards. J. H. D. TAYLOR, Bill Poster.

BIRDS.—The best Singing and cheapest Canary Birds in the oil regions are to be had at J. W. BEATTY'S.
