Several old wells on Allender Run, near Plumer, have been started up within the past few weeks. We learn that several operators from Chambersburg are about to test a portion of the territory between Plumer and Chambersburg, believing that an oil belt exists in that vicinity and that good paying wells will be struck. At the old wells on Allender Run there is a strong volume of gas, and from many of them gas has been emitted for several years.

Oil City is agitating the subject of having a college built at that place. They need something to awaken them from the "Rip Van Winkle sleep" into which they have fallen. Oil City might be the liveliest place in the oil region but for the large collection of old fossils gathered together there, who it is well known always resist the march of improvement.

An old well on the Metropolitan tract, Oberrtree Run, has recently been started up and is yielding five or six barrels of oil per day. This well is run by water power, a large overshot water wheel and race way having been constructed which furnishes the motive power for pumping the well.—It is decidedly a new and novel way of producing oil, there being but one other well in the region that we know of—the Van Schaick well on Kane Run—that is pumped by water power.

ACCIDENT.—About five o'clock yesterday afternoon, a man named A. Grishobber, at work on Freeman's new warehouse near the railroad freight house, missed his foothold and fell from the roof to the ground, breaking two ribs in his right side, and one of the small bones in his left leg. His injuries would not have been so serious had it not been for the fact that he struck on a pile of bricks. Mr. G. was conveyed to his home in Oberrtree village, last night, by Capt. Monroe, his employer.

The coal trade getting livelier as the cold weather approaches.

About an Oil Prince—John Fagundas.

We have read many accounts of late about John Fagundas, the oil prince of this County, stealing a trunk in May last, of one Humason, a hotel keeper at Trunksville, Forest County. John is a young and single man, and last spring became possessed of money by means of the Fagundas Farm, now owned by Neyhart & Grandin. They paid for the farm something over $100,000. There were of the family, the mother of John and her daughter. In the sale the old lady reserved one sixth interest in the farm, the daughter one sixth, and we believe there was an interest reserved for John. Soon after the sale, the old lady died, and also the daughter, leaving John inheritor of all the property. That he, a wealthy man, as he is, should be accused of stealing an old trunk, filled with articles of but little value to any one—though there was some money in the missing trunk—caused much talk, and the newspapers have published it far and near. He was taken before a Justice of the Peace of Forest Co., to appear and answer, the alleged theft having been in Forest County, while the defendant lives in Warren County.—Therefore, by agreement, he was on Monday last, brought before Esq. Parmlee, of this place, and had his examination. The day was given up to the investigation of the case, and on its conclusion, John Fagundas was acquitted—no proof having been adduced that he did or could have stolen it.—For at the time he was at home attending to his sick mother and sister, and we believe he was sick himself. The trunk was taken by mistake and left in a barn for many weeks, the owner not being able to find any clue to it. While lying in the barn, which several parties occupied for keeping the oil teams, some one did break it open and take out the valuables; but John Fagundas knew nothing of it; and after a full and careful impartial hearing, he was acquitted. Brown & Stone appeared for the defense, and F. D. Reeves for the prosecution.

We have given a little space to this matter, for the purpose of putting young Fagundas right before the community. We are satisfied that he has not had full justice done him in this matter before. It is a very great injury to a man to have such charges preferred against him; and when untrue the mistake should be rectified as the charge was given to the world.—Warren Ledger.

The Erie Dispatch says:

The many friends of Dr. James L. Thayer will be pained to learn that his pecuniary venture has wound up with disaster. In the early part of the season he did well, but latterly he has been in the Southern States, where the money is too scarce to make amusements profitable. The entire circus property is in the hands of the Sheriff at High Point, N. C., and as a letter from one of the performers pitifully expresses it, "the boys are all walking home."—This is the second time that financial misfortune has fallen on Dr. Thayer. May be the wheel will take a turn for the better, soon.

Messrs. Codrington & Cornwell have just received at their Coal yard next the depot a large supply of the celebrated old Ormsby coal, which is by far the best coal in the market. Give them a call and secure a supply.

The post office at Canal, this county, has been discontinued; letters and papers should now go to Utica. The Venango Spectator lays the discontinuing of this office to Hon. C. W. Gilliland, in revenge for the people of that section voting against him at the late election.

The O. C. & A. R. R. Co. have applied to the Court of Common Pleas of Crawford county for an injunction to restrain the Union & Titusville Railroad Company from crossing the tracks of the former in the city of Titusville.

Scranton has twenty-eight clergymen, forty-three doctors, sixty-nine lawyers, and only one policeman.

At Salt Lake a man went into a shaft to see what was the reason that a blast didn't go off. An itemizer states that he came up directly, in instalments, with a lot of pieces of stone.

Anybody can lead a horse to a drinking place, but nobody can force him to drink.—How different with men.

The Corry Kerosene Oil Works has received an order for five barrels of refined oil from the Zion's Co-Operative Mercantile Institution of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Well No. 2, on lease 8, Wilkins farm, West Hickory, owned by Humphrey & Tomlinson, commenced pumping on Friday, and is now producing one hundred and twenty-five barrels per day.—Herald.
