SHODDY DON'T BODDER ME!

"There was a rumor on the streets to-day of the striking of a 1000 barrel well at Brady's Bend. By a telegram from that place we learn that the Meldrum well, No. 2, Armstrong Run, commenced flowing yesterday, it was rumored at the rate of 1000 barrels per day. The well is on a branch of Armstrong Run, on territory hitherto undeveloped. The rumor is doubtless started to affect the oil market. From several operators who are 'posted' on the Armstrong Run territory, we are informed that the big flowing wells in that vicinity are a myth nearly, newspaper accounts to the contrary."

Such is the language of the Petroleum Centre Record. It is also the language of nearly every paper in that region as well as the wish of many of its inhabitants. If the Meldrum well is a myth, we would like to know how it comes that, on Friday morning of last week two days and a half after the well was struck, the owners of this well sold and delivered 2000 barrels of oil, and had 500 barrels yet in tank. Does that look mythical? If the James well with its hundred barrels a day, the Jennings well with its hundred barrels a day are myths, we have only to say that they are the most tangible myths we have ever seen. If the James well in thirty days sold $8,500 worth of oil and had 400 barrels yet in tank, don't you think that either "myth" should be changed to mean something substantial, or oil itself is only a conception of diseased imagination?

Now, Mr. Record, we have the biggest wells in the country; and numbers of leases being taken, the derricks that are going up on this field, give incontestable evidence of territory that puts to blush all other localities, and only equaled by the great wells of Pitohole, whose glory has vanquished.—East Brady Independent.

By the above it will be seen that the Independent man is getting riled up somewhat. That the wells on Armstrong Run have flowed oil we do not deny, but that they have flowed the vast amounts per day as set down by the Independent and the correspondent of the Pittsburgh Commercial, we have good authority for stating is not the case, that is if the owners of the wells themselves are to be taken for authority. If the Independent man is at all posted in oil matters he should know very well that the published account of such a large production while it may benefit a few parties interested in giving out leases or owning territory in the neighborhood, results in an almost incalculable injury to the entire region by knocking the "bottom out" of the oil market, upon which the entire business of the oil region has its foundation, as when the market is dull every other business suffers in proportion. To show that the Independent man is in error in many respects we give a few facts in regard to Armstrong Run which we have from the contractor who drilled the Walker well and from the owners themselves:

EAST BRADY, Nov. 16, 1870.

Mr. Editor—Walker well is reported by the Independent as flowing 250 barrels daily till the "bottom was punched out." The fact is the well never flowed 250 barrels all its production together. It is stated as having been completed in April, whereas the first blow was struck by the drill May 23d, 1870; the last Sept. 21st, 1870. This item is about a fair specimen of the reports that get into the Independent and Pittsburgh Commercial. On Saturday, Nov. 12th, I have it from men interested in keeping the production as high as consistent (on paper) that the Jennings well No. 2 was yielding 140 barrels a day and falling off every day.

Again in his report of the depth of wells he puts Scarsdale 1,026 feet, while its true depth was 1,250 feet, only 225 feet out of the way.

These particular instances are only noticed to show the public what small reliability there is in reports from that quarter.

Yours, &c. N. B. P.

The above are but specimens of the "facts" published in the Independent and Pittsburgh Commercial. We shall continue to give correct reports of this second Pitohole (!) from time to time as occasion may require. Let the Independent man continue to "puff" the territory as long as he gets well paid for it, but let him place the production as near correct as possible and not send broad cast reports tending to mislead the public and injure the oil market.

For true kindness commend us to your far western towns. Thus, in Santa Fe the other day, a teamster had a fit of the blues, and appealed to a companion to shoot him. He didn't suffer more than a minute more and the coroner's jury not only agreed that it was the teamster's misfortune, but didn't say anything when the shooter rode away with the dead man's mule.

It is well to bear in mind that police officers who bring fugitive persons to a halt, by shooting at them, do it at their own peril. The law does not warrant the shooting of persons as a means of arresting them. A police officer is now serving out a term in the penitentiary for shooting a person whom he had arrested, and who ran away from him.
