PATENT OIL PUMP.—Mr. H. K. Kenyon, of Steubenville, O., has been at work for the past year on a new invention for pumping oil, and in June last took out a patent right on what he terms "Kenyon's Patent Double Acting Pump."

The following cases were disposed of by the Court at Franklin, yesterday: Commonwealth vs. George Curtis, alias Snorty, charged with the killing of Anthony Hummel, at Oil City, a few weeks since, was found guilty of manslaughter.

New Well.—The Ladies' well, J. S. McCray farm, commenced testing at 7 o'clock last evening, getting oil almost immediately after pumping began.

THE ORIGIN OF OIL AT PITTSBURGH.—The Romeville Evening Bulletin gives the origin of oil wells at Pittsburgh, and it is quite amusing. An impecunious farmer, with a large family of boys to maintain, wanted to procure employment of some kind.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—A young servant girl living in the Third Ward had a fall out with her lover, and in the distress caused by disappointed affections threatened to drown herself, or do something else equally foolish and desperate.

The Editor of the North East Star attended the recent female suffrage convention at Cleveland. He expresses his opinion of the delegates as follows: With few exceptions the female delegates present were a set of brazen-faced, ranting old maids, whom no decent man would want to marry.

The Catholic School of this place, under the tuition of Miss M. Kennedy, is in an exceedingly flourishing condition. In addition to its usual studies taught, the young ladies and gentlemen issue every week two small papers entitled the Morning Sun and the Evening Star.

Sherry's New York Theatre, open at Sobel's Opera House, on the evening of Dec. 22th, in the great drama of "Rip Van Winkle; or, The Sleep of Twenty Years."

"I sail tell you how it was, I drink mine lager; den I put mine hand on mine ead, and dere vas yone pane. Den I put mine hand on mine body, and dere vas anoder pane. Den I put mine hand in mine pecke and der vas notting. So I jine mid de demperance. Now der is no pain more in mine head, and de pain in mine body vas all gone away. I put mine hand in mine pecket, and dere vas dwenty dollars. So I sthay mid de demperance."

Our citizens should bear in mind that tomorrow evening Mad. Susie Dankerson and troupe give a concert at Sobel's Opera House. An extra bill will be presented.—Let the house be crowded.

Latest and Most Important War News.

Versailles, Dec. 1. After the recent battle the Army of the Loire retreated in a disorderly manner toward the North, leaving four guns in their abandoned entrenchments, and the retreat still continues.

The greater part of the French army was completely routed. Prisoners increase hourly. The German loss is less than at first reported, and will not exceed 1,000.

It is said the Prussians have suddenly evacuated Amiens, retiring on Paris. This movement is regarded at Lille as very significant and it is believed a great battle is progressing around Paris today.

The Paris Monitor chronicles six military executions in its last number.

The French army in the North has abandoned the project of joining the Army of the Loire and is retiring on Lille, without even holding Arras.

The Times' Versailles dispatches say: The acceptance of Prussia's conditions of peace by the Paris branch of the French Government will be required before the capitulation of the city will be received.

About one-third of the town of Thionville was destroyed by fire during the bombardment by the Prussians.

The Army of the Loire is retreating. Its present position and numbers are unknown.

Advices are received of a battle between the French under Bryan and the Prussians under Eterphanngay, at which the Prussians were beaten with severe loss.

The French captured three officers and a number of cannon and horses as well as a quantity of small arms.

The Times has a special from Versailles announcing that negotiations for a conference are progressing.

A Cautious View.—The Mayor of Louisville has a weakness for pretty women; he likes to look at them, he doesn't blame any one else for showing that weakness; he is like the Judge who would not sentence a man for getting drunk on "old Post."

"For my part, I think there is nothing on earth more pleasing than a handsome, well behaved woman and the man that cannot appreciate and be grateful for such ought to be fined; but to fine a man for looking with admiration upon the ladies is something I cannot approve of. If, however, there should be found men so degraded as to behave with vulgarity and rudeness to the ladies on the streets, they can be arrested for disorderly conduct, and will be spurned by every true man.

"Mother, who was Job?" "Why, Job, my son, was a very good man, whom an old Hebrew poem celebrates."

"But mother, what was he celebrated for? Did he print?"

"No, child, he was celebrated because being very rich, he was also very good, and when he lost everything he still kept up a good heart, and believed all the time that God's will was best. There was no such thing as printing done in those days."

"Well, then, you are talking about some other Job. That ain't the Job I mean! I mean Job who was a printer."

"I never heard of him, Sammy. Who told you anything about him?" "Good gracious, mother! Never heard of him! Why, I never take up the Record or any other paper, without reading something about Job Printing. That's the one I mean."

John Bull—"Got all the arms you want?—all the ammunition?—all the coal?" France—"Yes, all." J. B.—"And you don't want anything more from me?" France—"No." J. B.—"Then I think it is time for me to interfere."—Punchinello.

Mr. Connelly, a Missouri gentleman, who had an engagement to be hanged on the 25th, is disposed to be querulous. On being informed that his sentence had been commuted, he said: "This is the meanest county on earth and has the poorest laws. I have been lying here in prison for months. My execution, for which everything has been made ready, has been twice put off, and now I am going to the Penitentiary for life instead of being hanged, as I wanted to be."
