· ANOTHER GREAT FIRE AT PAR-KER'S LANDING!

THIRTY BUILDINGS DESTROYED ?

LOSS $125,000 !

By the following dispatch it will be seen that Parker's Landing has again been visited by a destructive fire:

Parker's Landing, Dec. 4th. Parker's again in ashes. Fire broke out about two c'clock this a. m., conspining nearly thirty buildings. Loss will not fall short of $125,000.

The "corner" in oil has been the all abeorbing topic among oil men to-day. It is a very unusual quarrel and has never before occurred in such proportions on the Creek. The "bulls" present a strong front to-day, and are pushing the cars on to the upper road at so lively a rate, that the "bears" made a concentrated move at this point for more oil, and on the arrival of the 1:27 p. m. train, "wentfor" the beavy holders of oil with their most persuasive arguments. Should they succeed it will be a heavy blow to the "bulls," who are on hand with legal advice. Unless these differences are settled amicably, the law will probably be appealed is to decide the subject.

A party of gamblers sat down to a small game of eachre on election day on the unbrageous bank of a Kausas creek. The sport went on peacefully for a while, until one of the gentlemen was discovered making use of that ignorance of the game which proved so exasperating to William Oye and James Truthful in a famous passage on Table Mountain. The ordeal by battle was decided upon for a settlement of points at issue. Two combatants fought a duel on horseback, in which they dissected each other like zealous young surgeons, and their horses, catching the chivalrous in fection. bit and tore each other's necks and cheeks into shreds. When the fight and one of the gamblers were finished, the survivor was promptly shot by a spectator, who had robably bet on a different result, and the fighting became general. The whole party was soon stretched out on the Autumnal terbage, when, unfortunately, a physician (Dr. Lawrence, who tells the story) passed that way and rendered' professional amietsnoe, and it is feared some of the gamblere may recover.

Dorne HER DUTY .- During the war, cays the Bosteft Times, there was a little girl and she always felt "like she was in Gregory," because she lived there. Writing to a northern friend one day, she remurked that there was a wounded Yank at their house, and that she was going to pizen bim. Writing again she said that there were southern girls Feverisatingly "going" for these blue-coated "Yanks," but she for one would never be "subjuggated," and she should never speak to them no more. Another letter said that the wounded Yank, who was stopping at her house was getting along finely, and she hated to kill him, because she knew her do ooty. There were several letters after that, and the last one concluded: "By the way, dear, that wounded Yank wants to marry me, and I have finally determined to let bim do so, and pizen him afterward. I think f no my do coty." She certainly did, for she and the unhappy Yank, shortly after the last letter was written, began one of the best Amilies that Vermont ever had.

There was a large crowd in attendance a Madame Susle Dunkerson's concert, on Saturday evening. The singing was excellent in every respect and the performers were frequently encored by these present. In this, her maiden effort, Mad. Susie has made a decided success, and should she continue to improve will undoubtedly draw crowded houses wherever she appears. The burlesque opera of "Ye Prince, Ye Devil and Ye Princess," was well rendered and created great amusement among the audience. Miss Cushman as "Prince Pretty," carried out the character in excellent style, as also did the balance of the company in their several parts. We commend Mad. D. and her company to the favorable notice of our brethren of the press in the oil region and elsewhere.

A man named Rowland Knightlinger, was shot and instantly killed by a man named George Turner, at Hydelown, Crawford county, on Saturday night last. Whiskey was at the bottom of the affair.

Old Bill W. was dying. He was an ignorant man, and a very wicked one. Dr. D., an excellent physician and a very plous man, was attending him. The old fellow asked for bread. The doctor approached the bedside, and in a very solemn tone remarked: "My dear friend, a man connot live by bread alone." "No," said the old fellow, slightly revived, "he's 'bleged to have a few v dropped.
