We are informed that a paper is in circulation on the Story Farm to raise money for the purpose of replacing the instruments and uniforms belonging to members of the Columbia Cornet Band, and which were destroyed by the late fire on that farm. This is a move in the right direction, as those who lost their instruments are poor hard-working men and not able to pay out the sum necessary to replace them.

The champion billiard match of the United States and for the diamond cue, took place in Buffalo, N. Y., on Wednesday evening, between Rudolphe, of New York, and Parker, of Chicago. The result was the defeat of the champion (Rudolphe,) by Parker, greatly to the surprise of those present. Eighty-two innings were played, when Parker ran out, the game standing: Parker, 1,502; Rudolphe, 1,234. Parker's average 18-26-82; Rudolphe's average, 15-4-82. The best run of the evening was made by Rudolphe in the 16th inning of 162. Parker's best run was 144 in the 9th inning.

The roads are getting muddy.

THOUGHTS—ANNIE.

The old, old clock,
That on the mantle-piece stands—
You have watched,
I have watched,
We both have watched it well;
And nestled together, as bound by a spell.
I'd look at my Annie—
She'd look at me,
With her head on my breast,
How happy were we,
We both watched its hands
A turning around,
And heard the tick, tick, ticking sound.
Soe! those hands on the dial have met—
It is twelve o'clock,
And we are standing yet;
The hour is midnight
I must go—we must part—
Yet stay! I hear the throbbing of your heart.
I look at the clock, and it seems to say
I've given you warning,
And you must away,
To part—it were for the best—
For that old, old clock
Would give us no rest,
So good night, good night
Dearest Annie, good night once more,
Oh! how I've wished the old, old clock
Would fall on the floor.
It matters not now, old keeper of time,
Annie has gone to a beautiful clime
And those that I love are far, far away—
Yet I still seem to hear the ticking sound,
Of the old, old clock
As the hands go round.

VON E. P. C.

A few days ago a man named Blauer and his son started on a hunt for venison, in the vicinity of President Furnace this county, and soon struck a track, which they followed some distance. Two other persons were also hunting in the same vicinity, and struck the same track, in the rear of Blauer. After following some distance, Merchant saw something move, and supposing it to be a deer, fired his own gun, without any seeming effect, and then seizing his companion's rifle, fired again, with better aim, and the bullet struck Blauer in the point of the chin, shattering the jaw bone, but turning from a direct course, it followed the jaw bone, and lodged in the neck. The wounded man was attended by Dr. Hunter, of Tionesta, and pronounced not dangerously wounded. We copy the above from the Venango Citizen.

DEATH OF HON. JOHN COVODE.

A special telegram received from Harrisburg Thursday forenoon, announces the death of Hon. John Covode, ex-member of the House of Representatives from the XXII District of this State. Mr. Covode retired to his room in the United States Hotel Wednesday night in his usual health, but died quite suddenly at an early hour Thursday morning, it is supposed of apoplexy. Deceased was born in Westmoreland county on the 17th of March, 1808, and was a very prominent man in political circles. His demise will be sincerely regretted by the party with which he has been identified and others.

A HEAVY AFFIDAVIT.—The Venango Spectator is responsible for the following: In a rule to show cause of action in a slander case before the Court on Monday last, the affidavit produced by the party complainant closed as follows: "Defendant called deponent a liar, a thief and a d-d son —, all of which is true" to the best of deponent's knowledge "and belief."
The complainant's reliance upon the legal maxim—"the greater the truth the greater the libel,"—may account for the frank acknowledgment in his affidavit.

The gratifying intelligence is reported in England, on apparently good authority, that Livingstone, the African explorer, has arrived at Mozambique, and is waiting for a vessel bound for England.

Ex-Sheriff John Scott, of Lawrenceburg, has recently been elected Justice of the Peace. Only six weeks have elapsed since he took the oath of office, and two hundred cases are already on his docket. That must be a lively young borough.

The receipts of crude oil at Pittsburgh for the year just closed was 1,039,472 barrels, principally confined to the refineries in the vicinity of Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

Latest and Most Important War News.

London, Jan. 11.
There is important news from Versailles. The German columns operating against Chansey have driven him within a mile of the city of Lemans, after a series of engagements, in which one cannon, three mitrailleuses, and two thousand prisoners were captured.

The loss of General Von Werder's German army, at the storming of Villiers, was only two hundred killed and wounded.

A large German army is being formed in the eastern department of France which will be under the special command of a distinguished officer and will include the corps of Von Werder, Sarstro and others.

London, Jan. 11.
Balloon advices from Paris to the evening of the 10th have been received.

Many slight engagements have occurred near Malmaison and Reul, and also on the line of the Paris and Strasbourg Railroads, in all of which the Germans were repulsed with considerable loss.

Thousands of balls from the German guns fall during the night on the outskirts of Paris, creating havoc in all directions, killing women and children, striking ambulances, churches, museums, school houses, etc.

The population of Paris are more than ever resolved in their determination to resist to the utmost, and no fear is entertained of surrender, as General Trochu had issued a proclamation to the citizens to the effect that the Army of Paris will not capitulate.

Bordeaux, Jan. 11.
Official announcement is made that the Germans, yesterday, 10th, redoubled their efforts against the army of Gen Chansey, who, pressed on all sides, retired to his original position.

The action was hotly disputed, one of the French brigades resisting the incessant attack of the enemy for six hours. The losses were considerable on both sides.

Gen. Bourbaki, commanding the Army of the East, telegraphs that his troops passed the whole of Tuesday night in driving the enemy from the houses of Villeer-sixel.

Advices from Lille represent that the Army of the North under Gen. Faidherbe, has advanced beyond Bordeaux.

London, Jan. 11—midnight.
A despatch from Lille states that General Faidherbe surprised the rear guard of the German army, and thirty of the enemy were killed and fifty-nine taken prisoners. The French did not lose a man.

The French have again entered Bipaum. London, Jan. 12—6 a. m.

A despatch from Versailles says: A large fire is raging without the outer walls of Paris and on the north side of the city.

We are in receipt of a copy of the New York Observer Year Book and Almanac for 1871. The book is a handsomely printed volume of 200 pages, and contains a vast amount of valuable statistical information, astronomical observations, calendar, &c. A reprint of the first Directory of New York city published in 1786 appears in this volume, which until now was so extremely rare that a single copy brought $100. All subscribers to the Observer will receive a copy of this work gratuitously, upon paying their subscription for one year in advance. Price one dollar. Published by Sidney M. Morse, Jr., & Co., 37 Park Row, New York city.

Reese Clark met with a shocking death on Bear Creek, Forest county, about eleven o'clock on Wednesday, the 20th ult. He was carrying logs to the mill, and alone, when killed. One or two men were with him in the woods, assisting to load, we suppose, and Clark not returning at the time expected, one of them started for the mill to ascertain the cause, and found his mangled remains but a short distance from the starting point. One of the logs had rolled off and thrown him with his head against an oak stem by the side of the road, and another log immediately followed, which struck him on the other side, breaking his neck and crushing his skull, undoubtedly causing instant death. Deceased was about twenty-nine years of age, and leaves a wife and two small children.—Forest Press.

General McClellan, in reply to a letter of inquiry from the President of the Buffalo and Springville Railroad, says that he is one of the trustees under the proposed reorganization of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, but says until that reorganization is completed nothing can be done in the way of extending the connection of the road. In reference to the rumored extension to Buffalo he says he is not aware to what extent, if any, the subject has been discussed.
