STEAMBOAT DISASTERS.—The recent terrible disaster to the steamer McGill, on the Mississippi River, by which fifty-eight lives were lost, has elicited a letter from Secretary Boutwell to the supervising Inspector of steamboats at Louisville, Kentucky, in which he calls urgently on Government officers to ascertain the causes of such calamities and bring to punishment offenders against the laws for the protection of human life. Speaking of this important subject, the Pittsburgh Chronicle truthfully says:

It may seem a little singular that even at this late date such diversity of opinion should exist as to the causes of boiler explosions on the rivers. That there is no settled conclusion is certain. The most experienced Captains disagree on this important matter. The destruction of steamboats by fire, however, presents no such difficulties. In nearly every instance there is gross neglect when a steamer is destroyed by fire. The laws have made regulations prohibiting the transportation of certain inflammable articles on passenger boats. What is chiefly needed is that the officers of boats should be held to a strictly accountability.

In the Eighteenth Annual meeting of the Board of Supervising Inspectors of steam vessels, held in Washington City a year ago, it was stated that the prominent cause leading to disaster was the frequent employment of persons as commanders, pilots and engineers of steam vessels "wholly disqualified by want of training or experience for such duties." Is it not a fearful shame to risk a cargo of human life with such men?

We desire in this connection to call attention to some statements made by Samuel Houston, a Western Supervising Inspector, in 1869. They are of significance.

"There is no doubt but that the captains of our western steamers have great influence over the engineer and the pilot, and very often cause them to run when in their judgement it is not safe, thereby violating the laws and often causing loss of life.

"I am compelled to say that the present steamboat laws are, to a very great extent, insufficient to punish violation of the law. I know of no instance in the western country (and the records of the Supervising Board justify me in the assertion) of an engineer, pilot or captain being punished (except in a trifling manner) for neglect of duty, thereby violating their oaths and the laws.

"I have been Supervising Inspector for seven months, and during that short time I have known of two hundred lives being lost, (men, women and children,) and this destruction of life caused by violation of the laws; yet in no instances have the instigators or parties causing this serious destruction even been deprived of their liberty, and very often no punishment at all inflicted."

A good deal has been done to remedy the crying evils of which Mr. Houston complains, but what is of imperative moment is that the laws should be enforced in this country as they are in England and other European States. We must teach those having life under custody to respect life.

SOBEL'S HALL.—Owing to the extremely bad weather, last evening, there was not so large an audience in attendance to witness the performance of the New York Olympic Aggregation as there would have been had the evening proved pleasant. For a general variety troupe the Olympic is far above the average that have heretofore visited this place. The singing of Misses Fannie Archer and Minnie Cummings would be hard to excel, in proof of which they were repeatedly encored. As a banjo soloist and general burnt cork performer Mr. Ned De Haven has few superiors. The fancy dancing of M'lie Louise and Miss Cummings was good. By far the finest performance of the evening was the "Champion Drum Solo" by M'lie Louise, the Drummer Girl of the Potomac. She handles the sticks with a grace and rapidity of movement that is truly astonishing, giving imitations of a train of cars entering and leaving stations, crossing bridges, &c. The drum solo alone is well worth the price of admission. The company give their last performance this evening, and we would advise all who wish to see a first-class variety troupe to attend by all means.

MARRIED.—At Columbia Farm, Pa. Jan. 19th, 1871, by Rev. R. W. Hawkins, SAMUEL K. McKALIP to AMANDA E. HUPPE, all of Columbia Farm.

Carrying out the spirit of the old adage that "it is better late than never," our old friend Sam. has at last read himself out of the bachelor crew and set sail on the sea of matrimony. In common with his many friends we wish him and his fair young bride a safe and prosperous voyage through life. May they meet with no adverse winds or storms, but continued joy and happiness, and when the sun of their existence grows dim, and the mystic shadows gather, may it fade away into the brightness of Heaven.

From the committee, Messrs. H. I. Beers, A. J. Greenfield, and R. C. Beveridge, we are in receipt of an invitation to attend the opening services of St. Johns Episcopal Church, Rouseville, Sunday, Jan'y 22d.—Services—Eleven A. M. and Three, and Quarter past Seven, P. M. The services promise to be of a most interesting character. Eminent divines from abroad will be in attendance.

For being intoxicated and insulting people on the street, last evening, Pat. Dunnigan was arrested by officer Hill, and committed to the lock-up to get sober.

On Monday and Tuesday evenings the celebrated Fox & Denier Pantomime troupe appear at Sobel's Hall, on which occasion will be produced their ever new and original pantomime, written by C. K. Fox, entitled, "The Three Blind Mice." They will be greeted with crowded houses no doubt.

Quarterly meeting services will be held at the Methodist Church, this (Saturday) evening, at 7 1/2 o'clock, and to-morrow (Sunday) forenoon, commencing at 10 o'clock. Presiding Elder J. Leslie will be in attendance.

A key-hole interviewer makes the startling revelation that Kellogg whiles away her hours of recreation by "picking a banjo."

MATRIMONIAL.

THREE WEEKS AFTER MARRIAGE.
My dearest you are going out,
Indeed 'tis very cold;
Let me, sweet love, around your neck
This handkerchief unfold.

You know how anxious for your health,
My own dear George, am I;
One loving kiss before we part—
Good-by, sweet chuck, good-by!

THREE YEARS AFTER MARRIAGE.
You're going out!—why don't you go?
I cannot help the rain;
You wouldn't grieve me mightily
To ne'er come back again!

Umbrella? I don't know where 'tis!
What'll you want next, I wonder?
Don't pester me about your cold;
Good graces! go to thunder!

On Thursday evening next, Jan. 26th, Miss Ada Tesman's Female Minstrel and Olio Troupe will re-appear at Sobel's Opera House for one night only, in an entire new and original programme. This troupe is a first-class one and embraces some of the best talent, both male and female, the profession affords, among whom we may mention Miss Alice Somers, champion female clog song and dance artiste; Miss Jennie Boswell, trapeze and slackwire performer; Miss Ada Tesman, the beautiful and charming ballad singer, and a number of others. The programme will consist of new songs, dances, burlesques, &c., &c., which cannot fail to please all who attend, and no doubt they will draw a crowded house.

A child now living in Detroit is no larger round than a man's forefinger. It is a month old, about six inches long, weighs one pound two ounces, and has never cried since born.

The children's new missionary ship, the Morning Star, will be launched from the yard in East Boston about the end of January and will sail about February 15th.

In an Iowa breach of promise case the woman swore that the accused had hugged her every night for several months, and Sunday nights until three o'clock in the morning. The villain was fined one dollar and costs. He said it was the most reasonable hugging he ever experienced.

The "oldest inhabitant" has been reading a series of articles on the adulteration of liquors and has arrived at a somewhat singular conclusion. The analysis of these liquors showed an average of about sixty-five parts of water to thirty-five of spirits. "They don't give the spirits a fair chance," said the bacchanal; "they'll keep on fooling with water till it depopulates the earth again."

The knife with which Payne the assassin assaulted Secretary Seward has been returned by order of War Department, to Mr. Robinson, who was Mr. Seward's only helper in that perilous hour. It is a murderous looking weapon, about two inches wide, the blade firmly fastened into a bone handle, and without spring or clasp. It is marked "Rio Grande camp knife," and was evidently made for just such uses as it was put to.

The Erie Dispatch heartlessly says:—Colonel James Flisk has something to live for. The editor of the Titusville Courier says: "Mr. Flisk is personally unknown to us, but we confess to an admiration for the man."
