We re-publish to-day in corrected form the table giving the production of the Jas. S. McCray farm up to January 24, 1871.

It will be remembered that we published an item a day or two since in regard to the arrest of Isaac Simon, alias 'Champagne Charley,' on a charge of forging his brother's name to a telegraph dispatch...

The report was current on the streets last evening and this forenoon, that a 500-barrel well, some placing it as high as 1,000 barrels, had been struck on Armstrong Run, near Brady's Bend, on Wednesday last.

Well No. 30, Columbia farm, was completed to-day, and will commence testing this evening. The indications are good.

Capt. Travis' shooting gallery will get open to the public before Monday.

James S. McCray Farm—The Production of Each Lease—Total Production of the Farm—Amount held by Mr. McCray in Iron Tanks.

In the table below we give the whole number of barrels of oil produced by the James S. McCray farm, including the production of each lease, from July 16th, 1870 at the time the Donoghue well was struck up to January 24, 1871. Also, the amount of oil held by Mr. McCray in iron tank Jan. 24, 1871:

A woman named Annie L. Wilder, connected with Ada Tesman's Female minister troupe, died at Erie day before yesterday from taking an overdose of morphine, accidentally it is supposed. Her residence was in New York, and the name she went under to the profession was Annie L. Davenport.

She was buried in the cemetery yesterday, a number of citizens following her remains to their quiet resting place. A subscription was taken among the boarders of the Ellsworth House, where she died, and a neat slab of marble is to be placed at the head of her grave.

Since the gas pumps have been attached to the wells on the McCray farm, the flow of gas has increased more than double. The gas lights at nearly all the wells were lighted up last night forming a splendid illumination, lighting up the town and the surrounding hills for a long distance.

A new well was struck on the Fagundes farm, West Hickory, a day or two since, which is said to be yielding at the rate of 150 barrels per day. Owned by the Fagundes Farm Oil Company.

Sleighing is reported as being good in the surrounding country, and all seem to be taking advantage of it.

The third sand was struck in the Button well, Central Petroleum Co's farm, this forenoon. Splendid indications.

The production of the wells on the Phillips & Boyles lease, J. S. McCray farm, eight in number, since the gas pumps have been put in operation have increased in production from 150 barrels per day to over 300.

The wells on the McCray & Adams lease, same farm, have also largely increased by the use of these pumps.

Quite a number of our citizens went to Titusville, last evening, for the purpose of attending Miss Olive Logan's lecture.

The new M. E. Church in Tionesta will be dedicated on the 19th day of February next. Rev. Geo. Loomis, D. D., and Rev. O. L. Mead will officiate.

On Monday morning, as five miners were descending a coal shaft near Sharon, the rope by which they were being lowered, broke, and the men fell to the bottom, a distance of 110 feet. Four of them were killed instantly, and the other severely injured, but may recover. The cause of the accident is not known, the rope and all the machinery connected with the mine being considered first-class.

Last week a man named Austin was fearfully beaten in a house of ill-fame in New Castle, Pa., from the effects of which he died on Monday. Five men were arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the killing, and one of them has confessed to striking Austin on the head with a broken shovel.

PETROLEUM TRADE WITH NAPLES.—The Washington Patriot of the 20th says: The Secretary of State recently transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, for his information and action, a copy of a dispatch from the United States Consul at Naples, relating to the orders issued by the authorities of that city, requiring vessels laden with petroleum for Naples to discharge their cargoes at the port of Nisida. The Secretary of State, in his communication, thinks this regulation seems to work injuriously to American commerce.

Our Consul at Naples, Mr. Duncan, says on this point that the port of Nisida is a little dangerous port about four or five miles to the west of Naples; that in time of a west or south west wind it is almost entirely unprotected, and in bad weather not only can no progress at all be made in discharging cargo, but the captains inform him that their vessels are in great danger.

The immediate cause of this change was the great fire that occurred at Bordeaux a year or so ago. An additional objection to the regulation is that the petroleum yard is near Portici, as far out of Naples on one side as Nisida is on the other. The consequence is, that transportation is slow and difficult, so that even in fine weather vessels cannot be discharged in a reasonable time. In conclusion, Mr. Duncan says: "As most of the petroleum is brought there in American vessels, so that this change may be said to affect somewhat seriously American shipping, I have deemed it my duty to notice it. I might mention that Nisida is also the quarantine for Naples, which might make it a very serious matter in time of any epidemic. Vessels arriving from Spain are now detained there for fear of yellow fever."

SHOOTING MATCH.—An affray occurred at Brady's Bend on Saturday afternoon, which resulted in the death of Benj. Waters, a colored barber. A foot race was announced to take place there on Saturday, and a number of the "fancy" from Parker's Landing went down to witness it. The race was delayed for some time, and during the interval several fights occurred, during one of which Oswald, a "rough" from Parker's Landing, drew a revolver and fired several shots into the crowd. One of the balls passed through the door of the barber shop in which Benj. Waters was at work, and struck him in the breast, causing a wound from the effects of which he died on Sunday. Oswald was promptly arrested and committed to jail for a hearing.—Vernano Spectator.

A European critic reckons that at least 100,000 men have perished—killed outright or slowly by wounds and disease—since August 4, when Welsenberg was stormed and the first big fight of the war took place; that half as many more have been maimed for life; that another hundred thousand have imbibed the seeds of disease which will not only shorten the natural duration of their lives but be transmitted to generations yet unborn; that probably 50,000 widows and more than 200,000 orphans mourn the loss of husbands and fathers; that from 70,000 to 80,000 other homes have been made desolate by the loss of sons or brothers, who were their stay, and that little short of 400,000 are in captivity. By this war fully 1,000,000 human beings have, directly, either been robbed of existence or deprived of their fair share of happiness within the brief space of five months, and upon a comparatively limited area, of the surface of Europe. Then there are the destruction of the means of material comfort, and the longing for revenge which the struggle is engendering.

Pleasantville is to have a Mush and Milk Festival on next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the M. E. Sunday School.

Commissioner Pleasonton admits that the income tax this year will amount to twelve million seven hundred thousand dollars. With these facts before Congress it is doubtful if the bill is repeated this session.
