The average daily production of the oil region for the month of February is placed at 14,372 barrels, according to the Herald's monthly report, published this morning, a decrease of 1,105 barrels per day from their January report. According to the report there are now only 159 wells drilling in the entire region, a less number than in any preceding month for a long time.

The Corry papers are having a discussion over the doings of an employee of the Telegraph, who, it appears, went to Petroleum Centre and acted so Fick-like as to get his name in the Record. The Telegraph man wants to smooth it over, and the Republican man to rough it up. It is all very fine, this thing of charity for faults of this kind, but a good sharp reproof is sometimes more effective than a whole sermon of gentle words, for that particular kind of cases.—Forest Republican.

The Republican is right. Its of no use for a man to undertake to "serve God and mammon" both at the same time. It cannot be done.

Romance—Chapter one. Mr. Pat. Dunne spent the forenoon getting drunk—Chat ter two—About noon the "evil spirit" overtook him, and he commenced his old game of smashing in windows. Reality—Chapter three—Officer Hill assigns the errand Patrick to the Bastille, where he now amuses himself in endeavoring to balance a straw on his nose. To be continued at the time of the next "window smashing" jubilee by Patrick.

The oil men of Petrolia, O., have organized a Petroleum Exchange.

A good deal of lumber is accumulated at Titusville waiting shipment to the Pittsburgh market.

The regular monthly meeting of the Petroleum Producers' Association will be held at Oil City, today.

The Kansas City Bulletin tells a story of a young man named Conover Almsworth who belonged to a band of jayhawkers during the rebellion, and who on one occasion burned the house of a rebel farmer which had been used as the headquarters of a band of guerrillas. While the house was burning Almsworth amused himself by ridiculing the distress of a little girl, the daughter of the farmer, preventing the poor child, out of sheer wantonness, from saving some trifling trinkets from the flames.—Seven years afterwards he met the little rustic maiden, and fell desperately in love with her; but she recognized him at once as the unfeeling man who had made sport of her children's sufferings, and repulsed his unwelcome attentions. For two years he persevered in his attempts to gain the affections of the beautiful Missouri girl without avail, and at last, in a moment of despair, committed suicide within sight of the ruins of the farm house he had first met the object of his passion.

Another large and fashionable audience greeted the Wallace Sisters, at the Opera House, last evening, on their second appearance. The historical burlesque of "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," with all its splendid appointments, gorgeous costumes, &c., was performed in a manner simply unexcelled. Mr. Villa as "Queen Catherine," Miss Agnes as "Earl Darinley," and Miss Jennie as "Lady Constance de Gray," are deserving of special praise for the fine acting displayed by them. They were repeatedly encored. Miss Jennie's banjo solo, and the song "Tassels on her Boots" by Miss Agnes, were loudly applauded. In the farce as usual Mr. Webster kept the audience in a roar by his faithful delineations of the Irish character. Minnie and Maud's terpsichorean achievements was a leading attraction of the evening's entertainment.

This evening Villa's operatic burlesque of "The Girl of the Period," Mr. Villa appearing as "Clorinda," Miss Agnes as Prince Popetti, and Miss Jennie as Dandina, with the entire company in the cast. Preceding the burlesque the glorious farce of "The Two Buzzards," Mr. Chas. Webster as John Small, Misses Minnie and Maud in new songs and dances.

A CARD.

Having heard a great deal of criticism concerning my treatment of Mr. Wolf's child during its last illness, and being unable to trace it to any responsible source, I beg leave to say to the liberal portion of the public, that I have been misrepresented in the matter from first to last. At no time of the child's sickness did I order cold applications or a bath of any description. I am no wandering peddler, and if any one feels so terribly aggrieved, I can be found at my post, ready, in any manner, to answer for what I have done. This explanation I offer to my friends, and those who are inclined to be just. The tongues of hired claqueurs and boot-licks cannot very well be stopped, and I think it hardly worth while to attempt a desultory fight with a class of people who are not responsible in person or purse. Let us have less talk or something tangible.

W. E. ROSLING, M. D.

Jenkins has much to contend with. In describing a recent ball at Columbus, S. C., he attempted to speak of Mrs. Theodore Hammond as "exceedingly lovely in long train and short sleeves;" but the demagogical printers made him mention "Mr. Theodore Hammond exceeding lovely on a fast train in his shirt sleeves."

"If the stars," writes Emerson, "should appear only one night in a thousand years, how would men believe and adore, and preserve for many generations the remembrance of the city of God which had been shown. But every night come out these preachers of beauty, and light the universe with their admonishing smile."

In illustrating the fruits of advertising an exchange says: "A family in Florida lost their little boy and advertised for him in a daily paper. That very afternoon an alligator crawled up out of a swamp and died on the front door step. In his stomach was a handful of red hair, some bone buttons, a pair of boot heels, a glass alley, a pair of checked pants and a paper collar. The advertisement did it."

The "Little Church Around the Corner," is so popular in Chicago, that a man has written a waltz on the subject, and a patent medicine man invented a "Little Church around the Corner Cathartic Pill."

The Oil City Register will soon appear as a morning paper.

Oil City is to have a new Baptist Church.

Ruloff's Brother Visiting him in his Cell.

From the Blighampton Republican. Ruloff Ruloffson, of Clarion, Pa., brother of Edward H. Ruloff, was here to see the prisoner on Thursday, and was admitted to an interview with him on the evening of day, in company, it is understood, with Mr. Becker, the prisoner's counsel, and the sheriff. The interview, it is said, was very affecting. The persons who witnessed it decline, of course, to give any particulars.

Mr. Ruloffson, it is understood, is a gentleman of large means, intelligence, and respectability, and extensively engaged in the oil and lumber business. At the time of the interview he was on his way to New York to attend to a business engagement. He was very much attached to Edward in their boyhood, and his pleasure at the respite granted by Judge Rapallo, was apparent; but he has expressed no desire, and probably has no purpose, to defeat the ends of justice.

Although Ruloffson's visit here was private, he registered his name in full at Lee's Hotel, and was introduced to several gentlemen.

Walter Brown's Death.

The celebrated oarsman, Walter Brown, so well known in this community, is dead. He died at the residence of his mother, in Newburg, New York, on Friday, from enlargement of spleen, complicated with dropsy. The disease was contracted during the destruction of his boat house at Boston, a few weeks ago. He suffered terribly from illness for three weeks, but retained his consciousness to the last, recognizing his friends around him. He was thirty-one years old last November. His home was in Portland, Maine, where he leaves a wife.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

In the way of juvenile composition we have nothing of late more amusing than the following, from a mature youngster of seven to his sister in Washington. It comes with high official indorsement:

DEAR SISTER:

I have learned how to shoot, and I went gunning last Saturday, and killed a roben and shot at a rabbit. The other day I went gunning and killed a plover. The plover is better, and I can drink without throwing its head back. I have to write a composition every Friday. Mary said that she was making a shirt for herself. Mary tried on her shirt and it was too wide; it was wide enough for old Ben the ox.

From HARRY W.

Freddy, a fair haired youngster of four summers, the other day after being for some time lost in thought, broke out thus, addressing his father:

"Pa, can God do anything?"
"Yes, dear."
"Can he make a two year old colt in two minutes?"
"Why," said the astonished parent, "He would not wish to do that, Freddy."
"But if he did want to, could he?" insisted Freddy.
"Yes, certainly, if he wished to."
"What in two minutes?"
"Yes, in two minutes."
"Well, then, he wouldn't be two years old, would he?"
The old man collapsed.

The Nevada State Journal says: "The Rocky Mountain coal trade is beginning to be quite an item in the way of freight at least. Scarcely a freight train from the east passes through here but has from five to twenty cars loaded with coal. Evanton, on the Union Pacific Railroad, twenty-six miles east of Ogden, is the place from whence the coal is shipped, and is mostly consigned to San Francisco dealers."

Jackson Thomas, an oleaginous XVIIth in Tennessee, who had been drinking whisky for the demijohn for three months, was induced by his brother to change to apple-jack. He never took but one dose, but that was a big one—three pints. That night he dece sed of a spontaneous combustion, and people looking into his stanty saw blue flames proceeding from his mouth.

A musical instrument resembling a flageolet, made and used by Russian American Indians, has been presented to the Gilbert Museum at Amherst. The Student says: "It is made of the black, fine grained shale, which is so much used by them in the manufacture of pipes, idols and other implements for use or ornament. It is a beautiful work of art, and reminds one very strongly of many Egyptian relics."

The beauty of holiness, like the sun, is seen by its own light.

The contented man is never poor—the discontented never rich.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump for Pumping Oil or Water in Deep Wells.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump is acknowledged to be the best pump now in use. One of its leading features is that it not only produces a continuous flow of oil or other fluid, but that it creates and sustains a constant and powerful suction, by means of which the seams or veins of the well are in a great measure cleared of paraffine and other obstructions, and the oil in the veins is drawn towards the well. It has been ascertained by actual test that the use of this pump causes a gradually increasing flow of oil. It is well known by oil operators that this improvement is of great value, and one that has been long sought for. The ablest mechanics of our country have for years been at work trying to find out some new and untried plan to prolong the life time of an oil well; and nothing yet to our knowledge has been brought before the public that in any way equals the power of the Kenyon Pump, experience having taught that it is the long continued suction that has the power to keep up and increase the production of oil wells. Oil operators are referred to Mr. Geo. Benton, Superintendent of the Columbia Farm, for information in regard to the practical workings of the Kenyon Pump. We append the following testimonial from the managers of the Columbia Farm:

Mr. H. K. KENTON:

Dear Sir:—We are using your Double Acting Oil Pump in three of our oil wells and take pleasure in stating that we are getting more oil and gas from each of them than was previously obtained by the use of working barrels. We believe your oil pump to be the best in use.

Respectfully yours,

G. W. BOUTWELL, Sup't.
