LARGE INCREASE.—By a special telegram from Pitchole, dated March 22, we learn that well No. 1, Phillips Bros. lease, Rouker farm, has increased in production, and is now yielding fully eighty (80) barrels per day by actual measurement. When struck the well only yielded forty barrels daily.—An increase of nearly double over the first production.

The Datzel Petroleum Co., having recently plugged up nearly all the old wells which were drilled on their property on the Funkville flats during the excitement of 1865-66, and subsequently abandoned by the owners, have erected new derricks over five of the wells, cleaned out the holes, and are re-testing them with fair prospects of getting oil in paying quantities. The steam power necessary for pumping the five wells is furnished from a large boiler and engine set up especially for that purpose. As soon as the water is exhausted the Company feel confident that the wells will produce oil in sufficient quantities to remunerate them for the money paid out in stopping up the old holes, putting up derricks, &c. In 1865 the Funkville flats and adjoining territory was among the most productive in the oil regions, and undoubtedly would have been producing to-day had not the surface water run in and drowned out the oil. If they succeed in exhausting the water, good results are anticipated.

The home concert at Sobel's Opera House last evening, was greeted with a crowded audience. The performance, both vocal and instrumental, is highly spoken of by all who attended, and the wish is universally expressed that Prof. Chamberlain will at some future day re-organize his singing classes and favor our citizens with another concert similar to that of last evening.

A new well was recently struck on the Shaw farm, near Russellville, which is said to be yielding 100 barrels per day.

The firm of Mease & Armstrong, flour and feed dealers, Washington street, adjoining the McClintock House, are among our most enterprising and energetic business men.—As fast as their stock diminishes they replenish with the best the market affords, in evidence of which they have just received several car loads of shelled corn, flour, oats, &c., from the grain markets of the great west. Their rates are exceedingly reasonable, and are governed entirely by the retail prices current in the large cities. As an evidence of their energy in keeping the market supplied, Mr. Armstrong leaves this afternoon on a purchasing tour, expecting to be absent for several days, during which time he intends purchasing enough potatoes, apples and provisions to feed a small army. We advise our citizens to pay this firm a call and examine their stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere. Satisfaction will be guaranteed.

A correspondent of the Erie Dispatch writes as follows from Parker's Landing:

A large vein of oil has been struck at the Whykes' well, No. 2, on the mountains across Bear Creek from Lawrenceburg.—The well is owned by Mr. T. Keyk. The gas caught fire from the force, at the instant the vein was struck, causing an explosion which severely burned Mr. Charles Wilson and a boy who was in the derrick at the time. The physicians express the belief that both of them will recover. An engineer at work thirty-four feet from the well was blown by the force of the explosion outside the engine house, but escaped without serious injury. The spectacle of the burning well is a grand one. At the hour of writing all efforts to extinguish the flame have proved unavailing. The pressure of the gas throws the oil, which comes in sufficient quantities to fill a four inch pipe, to the height of full thirty feet. The flame lower at least a hundred feet in the air, throwing off a black venomous cloud of smoke. The tenants of a house at least fifteen rods distant from the burning well, have been driven from their home by the intensity of the heat.

Fire and Accident.

Mr. Squires living in a house at Triumph which was supplied with gas for culinary purposes from an adjacent well; rose early on Monday morning, and lighted a match, when a terrific explosion took place, the room being full of gas which had escaped during the night. The roof was blown off, and the sides curved in and immediately caught fire. Men rushed to his assistance, and found him crawling about on his hands and knees in the flames. He was rescued, but terribly burned so much so that his life is despaired of. Mr. Jaquines was also burned quite severely in rescuing him. The building and contents were entirely consumed.—Titusville Journal.

Caring a boy for whetting on the Sabbath is perhaps the best, yet perhaps the very best, way to make him cordially detest that weekly event forever afterward; it is quite as sure a way as taking him three times to church every Sunday of his holidays.

Last Saturday Bryan, Dilloughin & Company shipped the 90-horse power boiler, of which we have previously made mention, to Chautauque Lake. It was drawn to the O. C. & A. R. R. by sixteen horses, and placed on a platform car. It is the largest boiler ever built in the oil region, and will be fitted up on board the steamer Chautauque, intended to run between Jamestown and Mayville this summer.—Herald.

The Titusville Courier of this morning has several items which are original with the Record, copied almost bodily, a few words changed over, and to all intents and purposes they appear as original in that enterprising journal. The Titusville Herald copies a portion of the same items and gives the proper credit. "Which we wish to remark" is all right.

The Johnson House, at Union, will be opened to-morrow evening, with a grand social party. A special train will run over the Union & Titusville Railroad, for the accommodation of Mr. Maho's friends in the oil region who desire to attend.—A good time may be expected.

BOILER EXPLOSIONS.

Horses Pease, of Dayton, writes to the Cincinnati Gazette:

The subject of steam boiler explosions being now under legislative consideration, some suggestions are here offered to elicit a wider discussion on the subject.

The chemical conditions that precede an explosion do not appear to be clearly understood, if they are not indeed entirely unknown; and the reasoning upon which legislation has heretofore been based would seem to be defective, as reenactments are constantly called for. For instance, the Inspector subjects a boiler to a certain pressure and certifies that steam should be used at a point somewhere below this. Now what is gained by this except the single fact of pressure?

Now a very great explosion would not be expected from a very weak boiler; but on the contrary, if a very strong boiler should explode, a very disastrous explosion should be expected, and this seems to be the experience upon the subject.

In constructing torpedoes, the strength of the shell is the entire dependence for the destructive effect expected. And the common Chinese fire cracker illustrates how a very strong inclosure produces a large effect with a very small explosion.

I here suggest that if a sheet of copper, of sufficient size to vent any explosion that could take place, be inserted on the top of a boiler, in a position that would not tend to move the boiler from its bed, being of a thickness that would rupture at a known pressure, would relieve the boiler of any further damage.

Thus having a known point of direction of an explosion, it would be so enclosed as to protect the vicinity from damage, as the firing of a cannon does, with comparative safety.

It is a common opinion that the economy of generating steam is below a pressure of one hundred pounds to the inch. If this is true, and the copper sheet made to give vent at that pressure, no very formidable explosion could take place.

The mechanical arrangements to adapt the above suggestion to use have been considered, but it is not necessary to further notice the process here.

Last fall a party of thieves stole a train on the Central Pacific Railroad, and robbed the express car; but were followed so closely that they were obliged to conceal a part of their booty in the mountainous region west of Salt Lake City. The robbers were apprehended and brought to trial at Elko, where they secured the services of two lawyers to defend them. The agents of Wells, Fargo & Co. suspected that the accused might turn over some of the stolen property to the lawyers to payment for their professional services, and determined to keep a watch on the latter. The legal gentlemen started for the mountains, closely followed by detectives. When they had found and secured the hidden property, amounting to several thousand dollars in value, they were apprehended and taken to Salt Lake City, where they were examined before Judge Hawly and bound over to appear at the District Court in the sum of $5,000 each. The stolen property was returned to its owners.

Wheat sowing is progressing in Wisconsin, and with a continuance of mild weather the bulk of the crop will be sown during the present month. When this has been accomplished in past years, the crop has invariably been a good one, and in past instances superior.

The latest invention for gentlemen is the billiard coat. This is a coat without any sleeves, for these are made part of the vest. By this arrangement, removing the coat for billiards, you have a sleeved jacket on to play in.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump for Pumping Oil or Water in Deep Wells.
Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump is acknowledged to be the best pump now in use. One of its leading features is that it not only produces a continuous flow of oil or other fluid, but that it creates and sustains a constant and powerful suction, by means of which the seams or veins of the well are in a great measure cleared of paraffine and other obstructions, and the oil in the veins is drawn towards the well. It has been ascertained by actual test that the use of this pump causes a gradually increasing flow of oil. It is well known by oil operators that this improvement is of great value, and one that has been long sought for. The old si mechanics of our country have for years been at work trying to find out some new and untried plan to prolong the life time of an oil well; and nothing yet to our knowledge has been brought before the public that in any way equals the power of the Kenyon Pump, experience having taught that it is the long continued suction that has the power to keep up and increase the production of oil wells. Oil operators are referred to Mr. Geo. Boulton, Superintendent of the Columbia Farm, for information in regard to the practical workings of the Kenyon Pump. We append the following testimonial from the managers of the Columbia Farm:

OFFICE COLUMBIA OIL CO.,
Columbia Farm, Jan. 28.
Mr. H. K. KENYON:
Dear Sir:—We are using your Double Acting Oil Pumps in three of our oil wells and take pleasure in stating that we are getting more oil and gas from each of them than was previously obtained by the use of working barrels. We believe your oil pump to be the best in use.

Respectfully yours,
G. W. BOULTON, Supt.

Friends and patrons, one and all,
Your attention to my "biz" I would call;
Times are dull and money tight,
But in these times I'm looking for light;

To those who are building fires without number,
I would inform—this is the place to buy Lumber;
My motto is this: "Quick Sales and Small Profits;"
For business is healthy and I think much of it.

In quality my Lumber is second to none,
And as for Shingles, Deep No. 1;

Some may not look at it in the light I do,
And for a one I have a quality No. 2;

And to those who are particular—as some may be,
I still have another quality called No.

have good seasoned Lumber, Dress'd up nice,
Which I will sell at a low cash price;

Such as "Piering, Ceiling and Siding, both Rough and Dress'd,
Lath, Buttens and Surfaced Lumber, all of the best;

I also have Big Lumber of all kinds,
At price to compare with oil and hard times;

All kinds of Timber kept constantly on hand,
and a box of Cigars of a very good brand;

My facilities for selling are surely without number,
I always keep good texture to deliver good Lumber

so if you want Lumber, Rough, "Dressed, Soft or Hard,
You will find just what you want at L. M. Sternburg's Lumber Yard.
