How's this for cats? If a cat doth meet a cat upon a garden wall, and if a cat doth greet a cat, O, need they both to squall? Every Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall; and yet he welcomes her approach by an unceremonious yowl. And if a kitten wish to court upon the garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile, and not stand up and bawl, and lift his precious back up high, and show his teeth and mow, as if 'twere colic more than love that made that fellow groan!

It is a fact that M. V. B. Fisher, Main street, opposite the McClintock House, has a large and complete assortment of groceries and provisions, and it is a fact that he is selling the same at a remarkably low rate for cash. Everything usually found in a first-class grocery house can be found at his store. Call and examine.

The Erie Dispatch advertises one H. L. Van Cleave, or Prof. H. L. Van Cleave, of Knoxville, Tenn., as a brat and swindler, and advises landlords of hotels to be on the watch for him.

A mission will commence at the Catholic Church, to-morrow.

A slight fire occurred at the Western Union telegraph office day before yesterday. No material damage was done.

The Presbyterian Sunday School of Franklin is to celebrate its forty-seventh anniversary, in the Presbyterian Church, in that city, at half past two o'clock, to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon.

"Every Saturday," an illustrated journal published at Boston, Mass., by James R. Osgood & Co., in this week's issue commences a series of illustrations of scenes in the oil region of Pennsylvania, among the rest being a sketch of Petroleum Centre, so-called, which bears about as much resemblance to our live town, as Titusville does to Jerusalem Four Corners, or Oil City to Allemaogetum. The scene represents a dilapidated looking pair of horses, looking as if the crows had been at them, up to the neck almost in mud, drawing something that looks like an old-fashioned go-cart, which said cart is supposed to contain three barrels of oil, (it would take a microscope or bird's eye view to tell whether they were intended for oil barrels or basswood stumps,) the whole concern being driven by a man or intended for one. What was probably intended for the brick bank building has the appearance of having been subject to a violent shock of South American earthquake. Beautiful scenery in front of the bank consists of three ancient porkers wallowing in imaginary mud; man in the distance carrying something which was either intended for a sand-pump or a derrick, but is probably a cross between both, and the most forlorn looking female it has ever been our fortune to behold, setting on the steps in front of a building that has no existence in this vicinity, gazing in mournful silence at the man, horse, go-cart, porkers, &c., and probably ruminating as to whether she had better swim across the vast unboundless sea of mud or pull off shoes and stockings and run the risk of "wading it." That artist must have been asphyxiated by the gas or under the influence of benzine or B. S. oil, when he sketched that sketch for all the sketches that ever was sketch-ied it out-sketched and takes the "rag tag and bob-tail" out of any sketch yet published of the oil regions!

In a written account of the adventures of this "swell operator" or sketeber from "the Hub," Mr. Jas. S. McCray, owner of the McCray farm, and one of our most enterprising citizens, is spoken of in anything but a complimentary manner, himself and family being vulgarly termed "buckwheats" &c. No doubt Mr. McCray will feel highly gratified at having his name appear in Every Saturday as being an "ignorant buckwheat" and "eating the buckwheat of poverty," when the truth of the matter is that he has been engaged in the oil business for years, and possessed of large wealth long before oil was struck on McCray Hill, or Every Saturday heard of. The star is unmerited and exceedingly "small."

"What though the field be lost?
All is not lost; th' unconquerable will
And courage never to submit or yield."

Although the field appeared to be lost to our friend, Mr. Owen Gaffney, the well known wholesale liquor dealer, after the recent disastrous fire, by which he was a heavy loser, still with "th' unconquerable will, and courage never to submit or yield," he immediately commenced re-building and opened business again to-day, a little over ten days from the date of the fire, with a superior stock of wines, liquors and cigars of the finest brands to be found in the market. His new place of business is fitted up in elegant style, and will bear comparison with any similar establishment in the oil region or out of it for that matter. The superior quality of the wines and liquors sold by him are well known, especially that Sunday Comfort, and need no commendation; suffice it to say he will keep none but the best and purest.

"Owen" will "put in his first appearance before the footlights" in his new place on the burnt district, this evening, and cordially invites his old friends and customers to be present at the opening.

Rocheater is the great center of railroad thieves. The Union gives several reasons why this is so. Five branches of the Central road meet there. There is more baggage checked, more tickets sold, and a greater number of arrivals and departures than at any other station on the Central railroad. There are upwards of sixty passenger trains which arrive and depart from that station each day.

Navigation opened on Chautauqua Lake this year on Tuesday, March 21st. The Jamestown went to Mayville and back that day. She will commence regular trips on Monday next. The Chautauqua will not start for ten days or two weeks yet, her repairs not being completed.—Jamestown Journal.

William F. Packer, Esq., a son of the late ex-Governor Packer, died on Thursday last at St. Paul, Minn., of consumption. His remains will be forwarded to Williamsport for interment.

On the Columbia Farm several new wells will soon be completed. An increase of production is anticipated.

A correspondent of Every Saturday says that England has now on trial a heavy piece of ordnance, weighing 35 tons. It has already fired several rounds with 700 lb. projectiles and heavy charge, the largest weighing 130 lb. The writer further says that the progress England has made in heavy ordnance will be understood when he says that one shot discharged from the 35 ton gun would exceed the weight of all those thrown from the whole broadside of a 75-gun frigate in Lord Nelson's time.—He also claims that the gun is capable of sending a projectile weighing over a quarter of a ton through an iron plate a foot in thickness, at a range of half a mile. With a 100-lb. charge a projectile is propelled from the muzzle with a velocity of 1,300 feet in a second, and is capable of penetrating the strongest iron-clad armor, or likely to be about for several years. The total length of the gun is 15 feet, 9 inches; its diameter at the breach is 4 ft., 8 in., and its calibre is 11.6 inches.

A long article in one of the city papers on the subject of rich men's committing suicide so much, shows conclusively that a wealthy man does not give away a lot of money, he is almost sure to cut his throat sooner or later. If any rich man feels as though there is danger of his committing suicide, and he wants to keep on living, all he has got to do is to send some of us a check for a hundred thousand or so, and be saved. Office hours from ten to six; or they call at the house at any time of night.

To show how much better real estate is than live stock for speculative purposes, it is only necessary to mention the case of the Chicago man, who a few years ago traded a piece of land in that city for a mule.—To-day the land is worth a million dollars, while the mule has been gathered to his fathers and isn't worth a continental.

An Elmira farmer wrote Mr. Greeley for his experience in raising geese for market. Horace said there was no trouble at all about it, if the goslings were not weaned too young. He says they should be allowed to run with the old cow and suck at will until their horns get out an inch or two, when they will be hardy enough to pick and salt down for market.

There are so many people committing suicide nowadays that a description of the new method invented by a man at Geneseo will no doubt be interesting. He filled his mouth with gunpowder and then took in a few percussion caps, and went to chewing them. There was no opportunity for a phrenologist to distinguish himself on that man's head. His widow will apply for a patent.
