NATURAL GAS.

The developments of natural gas in Northeastern and Central Ohio promise to approach in importance those which have attracted so much attention to Erie. At Conneaut, O., wells have been successfully sunk and others are in progress. At Cleveland no little interest is taken in recent discoveries made in the vicinity. So far as now known the breadth of the gas belt, east and west, is about two hundred miles. West Bloomfield, N. Y., is, we believe, its eastern limit and, on the west, it is not known that any developments have been made beyond Cleveland. It is somewhat surprising, however, to find natural gas developed as far south as New Orleans, at such a distance from any known oil territory. The following extract from the New Orleans Republican, of the 10th inst., must be accepted as proof that gas has been found there and, instead of burning it as here, the owners of the well have applied it directly to an engine as a motive power in place of steam. The Republican says:

Yesterday morning (April 9) Mr. J. B. Knight, agent of the Watertown Steam Engine Company, sunk a drove well in the rear of his office, with a view to getting a supply of water, and when at the depth of forty-six feet a sudden and very powerful draft of gas was observed to flow from the mouth of the pipe. He immediately closed the pipe, thinking to utilize this gas for illuminating purposes, but found the pressure too great, when the idea then struck him to direct it into the boiler of one of his engines and experiment with it in making steam. But no sooner had the connection been made than the engine began to run entirely by the pressure of the gas acting upon the piston, at a pressure of twelve pounds to the square inch; and as it continued all day yesterday, giving no sign of exhaustion. Here is a discovery. A motive power which costs absolutely nothing, sufficient to be made available in running many kinds of light machinery, perfectly controllable and seemingly inexhaustible. What shall we find next under our city?

Sobel's Opera House was crowded with people, last evening, who had assembled to listen to Gen. Kilpatrick's celebrated military lecture entitled, "Battle Scenes and Incidents of the Rebellion." The lecture is everything that has been said or written regarding it. The descriptions of the battle scenes of Lookout Mountain and Mission Ridge were rendered with a vividness that almost carried one back to the "dark and bloody days of the rebellion," and in imagination again to march and battle on many a sanguinary field. The humorous sketches of military and camp life were well rendered. On the whole the lecture gave general satisfaction, and the hope is expressed that the General will deliver his lecture again at some future time.

He lectures at the Marshall Opera House, Titusville, this evening.

A day or two since a XVth Amendment went into a grocery store on Washington street, and called for some coffee, in the meantime, while the clerk was engaged in putting up the coffee, our American citizen of African descent was also busily engaged in the pleasant occupation of filling his coat pocket with eggs, in anticipation of eggs for dinner one day in Easter at least. As it happened, however, the owner of the store, who appreciates a good joke, was behind his desk and saw the colored individual pocket the eggs to the amount of a dozen or two. Coming out from behind the desk he walked up to the man and brother, and with a hearty slap across the pocket containing the eggs, enquired after his health, &c. The new plank in the Constitution immediately left, and it is fair to presume did not enjoy the pleasure of eating stolen eggs for dinner. The storekeeper lost his eggs but is "one point ahead" yet.

David Johnson, while at work in a gravel bank at Corry, day before yesterday, was buried alive by the caving of the bank. When rescued he was insensible but recovered shortly by the use of stimulants.

The mud is rapidly drying up. A much needed shower of rain fell yesterday afternoon.

Many of our citizens are engaged in making gardens.

Two oil trains on the branch of the Erie Railway near the oil docks at Weebawken, N. J., collided on Sunday, wrecking the locomotives Nos. 150 and 154, smashing six oil cars. The two engineers leaped from their places and escaped death. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

The Wallace Sisters' troupe received an addition to its number while performing in Johnstown, Pa. Mrs. Villa (Agnes Wallace) gave birth to a daughter.

"Victoria Woodruff" is the title of a new brand of Pittsburgh whiskey.

A correspondent of the Pittsburgh Commercial, writing from West Hickory, says:

The decrease in the production has not been so noticeable during the past month as during the month of February, the use of the patent gas pumps keeping up the production to some extent. The introduction of these pumps into this section caused quite a sensation among some of our heaviest operators. As they are only used on territory that is about played out, they claimed that those using them were rushing the season, and that they would bring things to a focus here sooner than was advisable; but the majority did not look at it in this light, and consequently about every other well has one in operation.

There are several wells going down in this vicinity, but the chances for hundred barrel wells are somewhat meagre. The Economites have struck a ten barrel well on the opposite side of the river, about two miles from here. They have two other wells rapidly approaching completion, which will be tested in a few days. The shipments for last month will foot up a total of twenty thousand barrels.

How TOWNS GROW IN OILDOM.—"G. W. B." our Warren county correspondent, sends the following interesting account of the juvenile town of the oil regions: "Prudence Station is situated on the Allegheny Valley railroad, three and a half miles from Oil City, and about midway between there and Franklin. Ten days ago trains run by the place at full speed. Prudence Station was unknown, for no station was there, not even a side track on the railway. Now mark the change wrought in less than a fortnight. Every passenger train of the Allegheny railway now make a stop here; a new siding is in, a station-house erected, a lumber-yard started, lots surveyed preparatory to building, and, on the average, fifty to a hundred passengers arrive at the new made station by every train. This is the work of a four-inch hole in the ground, in other words, an oil well a mile from the railroad, which is yielding a hundred barrels a day.—Erie Dispatch.

The City of Regulus, which our readers will remember crossed the Atlantic from Liverpool and reached Boston in September, 1870, after a perilous and miraculous voyage, is now on her way to Lake Erie, via the Hudson river and Erie canal. The craft is only one ton in weight, one and three quarters tons measurement, and but nineteen feet long.

The body of a man apparently fifty years of age, was found in one of the water tanks at the shops of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company in Scranton on Wednesday. It was far advanced in decomposition, and no one could furnish a clue to its identity. The hands in the shops had been drinking water from the tank all the time.

The new well of Redfield & King, on lease No. 12 1/2, McMillan farm, Scrubgrass, is producing seventy-five barrels per day, and increasing. There is unusual activity, both on the McMillan and Philadelphia and Boston leases. Quite a number of new rigs, are going up, and several wells are expected to be tested within a couple of weeks.

Justices of the Peace are required by law to have a fee bill put up in their office. The penalty for neglecting this is ten dollars and double the amount of the fee charged.

Olive Logan says she is thirty-two years old.

Mary had a little lamb, with hair as fine as silk; The longer Mary lived, the more she found the lamb a blisk. For all the hair was only flax, on that deceitful brute; But Mary hadn't much to say, for her's was only jute.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump for Pumping Oil or Water in Deep Wells.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump is acknowledged to be the best pump now in use. One of its leading features is that it not only produces a continuous flow of clear oil from the well, but that it creates and sustains a constant and powerful suction, by means of which the seams or veins of the well are in a great measure cleared of paraffine and other obstructions, and the oil in the veins is drawn towards the well. It has been ascertained by actual test that the use of this pump causes a gradually increasing flow of oil. It is well known by oil operators that the improvement is of great value, and one that has been long sought for. The latest mechanical of our country have for years been at work trying to find out some new and untried plan to prolong the life time of an oil well; and nothing yet to our knowledge has been brought before the public that in any way equals the power of the Kenyon Pump, experience having taught that it is the long continued suction that has the power to keep up and increase the production of oil wells. Oil operators are referred to Mr. Geo. Bonilton, Superintendent of the Columbia Farm, for information in regard to the practical workings of the Kenyon Pump. We append the following testimonial from the managers of the Columbia Farm:

Office COLUMBIA OIL Co. Columbia Farm, Jan. 25. Mr. H. K. KENYON: Dear Sir:—We are using your Double-Acting Oil Pumps in three of our oil wells and take pleasure in stating that we are getting more oil and gas from each of them than was previously obtained by the use of working barrels. We believe your oil pump to be the best in use. Respectfully yours, G. W. BOUTON, Supt. J. P. BARCROFT, Manager For further particulars address H. K. KENYON, Petroleum Centre, P. O. box 547. Jan 31.
