To-day is the third anniversary of the publication of the RECORD in Petroleum Centre, and as such is deserving of a passing mention on our part. Many changes have occurred in our town during the past three years. The place has been devastated by fire on two different occasions, but to rise again Phoenix, like from its ashes. During that time we have witnessed the rise and decline of several oil excitements in the immediate vicinity, and heard the old story told over again. "Petroleum Centre has got to die now; there is nothing in the world can keep it alive!" With this cry sounding in their ears many people moved away to the scene of new developments, only to return again, finding out in their absence that the Centre was the best place after all; and to-day we venture the assertion that in no other town in the oil region in proportion to the population is more business transacted, or more money in circulation, than in Petroleum Centre. On the part we have taken towards advancing the interests of the place we leave our readers to judge, merely stating that it has always been our aim to advocate all measures that would tend to add to the general prosperity of our business men, and advance the oil interests of this section of the great Pennsylvania oil region. In doing this we have not grown rich by any means, but have made a living, our citizens with few exceptions, having extended us a liberal support. The RECORD has outlined several more pretentious sheets that have started in the oil region during the last three years, and thanks to the public spirit and liberality of its patrons, bids fair to exist for an unlimited time to come. In the future as in the past we shall do our "level best" for the welfare of Petroleum Centre and its interests. Bless!

CRANBERRY OIL FIELD.—Oil matters at Bredinsburg are still very lively. The big well continues to yield 100 barrels daily. It was eight weeks on Wednesday last since it commenced pumping. Such a steady and uniform yield is a rarity in oil wells, and shows that the Cranberry field is lasting. There are thirty-eight wells either drilling or about ready to drill on the line from the Dale farm on the Clarion road to the Allegheny river. One of these wells will be finished in a few days. The next nearest completed is the Shirk well, which is over 510 feet deep.

The place bears evidences of a new oil town in the character of its buildings and the number of lunch shanties stuck up here and there. One indication of an oil town we saw there the other day was a chsp running around with a pair of eyes as artistically done up, in mourning as could be. There had been a slight skirmish on last Sunday, and our walking monument of the liveliness of Bredinsburg got badly pummeled.—Spectator.

A man named Fleming was arrested at Reno on last Sunday just because he opened a store at New Vernon, Mercer county. The store, and $200 worth of goods found at Reno, belonged to S. H. M'Cormick.

An oil company has been formed at Middlesex, Mercer county, to put down a test well at that point.

Four insurance companies have withdrawn their agencies from New Castle because that place has no fire department.

The Erie Conference Sunday School Convention is now in session at Franklin. It is largely attended by delegates, and much interest is manifested.

A militia company is being organized at Franklin.

The Sugar Creek Memorial Presbyterian church will be dedicated on Sunday, May 28.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT OIL CITY.—An Oil City correspondent of the Forest Republican says: "The United Petroleum Farmers' Association have generously donated between three and four acres of land for the site of the Collegiate Institute that I mentioned two weeks ago. The land is situated on Cottage Hill, and has a front of three hundred feet; it commands a fine view of the surrounding country and is a beautiful spot as can be found. If the citizens devise as liberal things in regard to the institution as the Association has, the project will be a grand success. The school is to be under the control of the Presbyterians."

Carric Barker, a well known courtesan of Little Rock, was fatally burned by an explosion of coal oil last Sunday evening.

Miss Maggie Thompson who was shockingly burned in St. Louis last Saturday by the bursting of a coal oil lamp, died of her injuries on Tuesday.

The circus has come and gone, and quiet once more reigns within our borders. It will be some days, however, before the visions of prize package vendors and loud mouthed quacks will cease to disturb our slumbers.

The G. A. R. of Corry will decorate the graves of the fallen brave of that vicinity on the 30th of May.

The green leaves are fast making their appearance.

This is the style in which irreverent Chicago announces a great revival:—"Elder Knapp, having converted three sinners in 7.26 1/2, will 'rastrate' with the Fiend next Sunday."

A clergyman strayed into a gambling-house in Memphis last Tuesday. Yielding to the temptation to win filthy lucre, he lost all the money he had and had to thank the police for rescuing the spoil from the man of Belial.

The jewelry stores of Denver exhibit specimens of the highest workmanship, bijoux of every description, cunningly wrought from native gold, and set with mountain rubies, agates, topaz and amethyst.

A Sacramento paper reports that recently six Chinamen were seen in a hairdresser's negotiating the sale of their 'tails,' which were finally purchased at the rate of $3 each, to be manufactured into ladies' 'switches.'

The Mexican Congress sits forty minutes a day, for which the members draw $10.

The famous Still-Huldekeper case was concluded Tuesday morning, at Pittsburgh, the jury refusing a verdict for the defendant.

This case has been on trial for several years, and grew out of a contract for the refusal of oil lands. Judge Strong of the Supreme Court presiding.

Dick Holywood, referee in the Mace-Coburn fight, has addressed a letter to the sporting fraternity of the United States, in which he says: "I desire it to be fully understood that I shall use every honorable means in my power to have the affair terminate in a fair and square stand up fight in accordance with the rules of the Prize Ring, and to effect this end, I am not to be intimidated by the friends of either party, or by outsiders. On my arrival at Erie, I met with representatives of Mace and of Coburn to determine the next place of meeting. Without regard to the claim of either party, each urging different places, I named the place and time of meeting to be at Kansas City on the second day of June, and will give the principals sufficient notice of the hour and place for the toss up. Both men object to the location on account of distance, but believing it equally as fair for the one as for the other, I see no reason to change my decision. Both men claim the championship of the world, and for the public interested I am in my position as referee determined that such honor shall no longer remain a question on paper between them, but must be decided by a fair fight in the ring. May the best man win."

MY LITTLE BED.
"Oh, put me in my little bed!"
A "serenader" sung;
And then his nose grew awful red,
And silent was his tongue;

For as he cast his eyes above,
There, in the window-pane,
He saw his pet, his lovely-love,
His sweet-heart, Peggy Jane.

"I'll 'put you in a little bed!"
Was uttered, with a roar
Which filled the youth with awful dread,
As "dad" shot out the door.

In accents wild that old man's che-lid
Wept as her lover fled;
But the old fellow, was awful "riled,"
And swore as how he'd 'larn the blaggard to come 'round there a singin' about his 'little bed.'"

Livingstone, the African traveller, describes an ingenious method by which the Africans obtain water in the desert: The women tie a bunch of grass to a reed about two feet long, and insert it in a hole dug as deep as the arms will reach, then ram down the wet sand around it. Applying the mouth to the free end of the reed, they form a vacuum in the grass beneath, in which the water collects, and in a short time rises to the mouth. It will be perceived that this simple, but truly philosophical and effectual method might have been applied in many cases in different countries, where water was greatly needed to the saving of life. It seems wonderful that it should have been now first known to the world, and that it should have been habitually practiced in Africa probably for centuries. It seems worthy of being particularly noticed, that it may no longer be neglected from ignorance. It may be highly important to travelers in our deserts and prairies, in some parts of which water is known to exist below the surface.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump for Pumping Oil or Water in Deep Wells.

Kenyon's New Double Acting Oil Pump is acknowledged to be the best pump now in use. One of its leading features is that it not only produces a continuous flow of oil or other fluid, but that it creates and sustains a constant and powerful suction, by means of which the seams or veins of the well are in a great measure cleared of paraffine and other obstructions, and the oil in the veins is drawn towards the well. It has been ascertained by actual test that the use of this pump causes a gradually increasing flow of oil. It is well known by oil operators that this improvement is of great value, and one that has been long sought for. The ablest mechanics of our country have for years been at work trying to find out some new and untried plan to prolong the life time of an oil well; and nothing yet to our knowledge has been brought before the public that in any way equals the power of the Kenyon Pump, experience having taught that it is the long continued suction that has the power to keep up and increase the production of oil wells. Oil operators are referred to Mr. Geo. Bonilton, Superintendent of the Columbia Farm, for information in regard to the practical workings of the Kenyon Pump. We append the following testimonial from the managers of the Columbia Farm:

OFFICE COLUMBIA OIL Co.
Columbia Farm, Jan. 28.

Mr. H. K. KENYON:
Dear Sir:—We are using your Double Acting Oil Pumps in three of our oil wells and take pleasure in stating that we are getting more oil and gas from each of them than was previously obtained by the use of working barrels. We believe your oil pump to be the best in use.
Respectfully yours,
G. W. BAULTON, Supt.
