Why will the pulpit still persist in speaking of the Chicago fire as a dispensation of Providence? Why not say, as is the truth, that the fire was invited, and that the only wonder is it has so long declined the invitation to come.

The terrible fires in the woodsections of Wisconsin and Michigan, may draw upon our Faith. It is impossible to fathom the Providence there concealed, and we do not wonder that the wretched survivors of these flames hold up their hands and cry out "Why should this be so?"

Nearly one hundred season tickets have already been sold for the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course, in this place the coming winter. Parties desiring tickets should call at the P. O. Newsroom, J. W. Thompson's grocery store, or of J. M. Dickey.

The party at Plumer, last evening, was a very pleasant affair. About thirty couple were in attendance from this place and the surrounding towns. The supper was gotten up in elegant style—oysters cooked in every way, elegant frosted cakes, trimmed with beautiful bouquets of flowers, and almost everything that could tempt the palate and please the eye, was to be found on the table.

The celebrated breach of promise case, between Miss McBride and Mr. Wagner, which was tried at Franklin last summer, and created great interest, will come up during the next session of the Supreme Court in this city. It will be remembered that the jury gave the lady something over three thousand dollars damages for a broken heart.

The Oil Creek Railroad Company are about to erect new buildings on the site of those recently destroyed by fire at Corry.

The letter of our Arizona correspondent shows how Uncle Sam's boys improve each shining hour in that unpromising region. When not hunting Apache scalps they read the papers, sport in a debating club, or play base ball.

A band of musicians, representing themselves as sufferers by the Chicago fire, played some excellent music on the streets, this forenoon.

Gladstone will write a novel. Paris steam omnibuses have fizzled out. Schoofs claims to be the wickedest town

NECK AND NECK.—This great piece, with E. T. Stetson in the principal role, will be produced at the Opera House, to-morrow evening, with an excellent stock company. Messrs. Furbish & Wilton, the managers of this company, intend visiting this city a number of times during the present amusement season, and will introduce to this city a number of the leading stars of the country.

This great drama will be performed at Sobel's Opera House, on Monday evening, Nov. 6th, 1871.

BORING FOR OIL.—Our townsman, Mr. J. W. Beatty, has invented a new toy for children which is decidedly novel and cannot fail of affording great amusement to the little ones.

Mr. B. needs't caveat on our account.—We are "one of the boys" that don't need any such toy to remind us of our oil experience. We can recall the days when we were intent on striking a hundred barrel well, at any time, by taking a squint at our pocket book.

It's a likely story to tell that an editor ever had money enough to drill a well, or even enough to pay for digging the conductor hole. When the local editor of the Journal was in the oil region he was not contented a millionaire, in fact people did say that he was possessed of a very small share of the "Root of all evil," and now he says "twas because he bored for oil that his pocket book is lean." It won't wash, Root, because it's too poor a quality.

Yesterday and to-day have been pleasant autumn days—too pleasant to last any length of time. As the poet says— "By the lengthening twilight hours; By the chill and fragrant showers; By the flowerets pale and faded; By the leaves with russet shaded; By the gray and clouded morn; By the drooping ears of corn; By the meadows over spread With the spiders wavy thread; By the soft and shadowy sky; By the thousand tears that lie Every weeping bow beneath— Summer, we perceive thy death

The Titusville editors are engaged in the pleasant labor of exposing one another's private characters. Good enough for them but hard on the public.

Our townsman, Mr. G. J. Cross, returned from a visit to Chicago, a day or two since. Represents business as good, and the burnt district rapidly being built up.

NEW CROCKERY WARE.—There has just been received at Schoonblom's Grocery Store next door to the Record office, a large and complete stock of Crockery ware and Lamps of crockery and table ware the assortment comprised new and elegant designs suitable both as to price and quality for all classes of community. Of table and glass ware everything is represented from a salt holder to a magnificent milk pitcher, also, including many varieties of tumblers, &c. Lamps and Lamp Fixtures in great variety and "cheap as dirt" almost. It's well worth a person's time to go through and examine the new stock of Crockery, and we would advise all to "see how it is their self"

It is reported C. D. Angell Esq., the oil prince of Forestville, has sold his interest in the Angell and Prentice tract in oildom for $225,000. We trust this is so and that Angell has got the money—$225,000 is enough for any man to have in a rural village like Forestville. We have always thought that when we could make $225,000 we should retire from active business. We despise the idea of riches.—Jamestown Journal.

The Oil Creek Railroad Company are about to erect new buildings on the site of those recently destroyed by fire at Corry.

The letter of our Arizona correspondent shows how Uncle Sam's boys improve each shining hour in that unpromising region.—When not hunting Apache scalps they read the papers, sport in a debating club, or play base ball. About this time, when the Eastern blue, red, and white "legs" are running their last base of the year, the Arizona blue legs are playing the opening match of the season.—Clara, Herald.

ITEMS.—Andy Johnson's nurses are beginning to die. Ten cigarettes a day is Eugenie's allowance. Germany will adopt the decimal money system. The "Chicago sufferer" is becoming mercurous. Three large acrolites have been picked up in Greenland. In a recent syndicate a Savannah man had his nose bitten of. Rev. J. L. Vallandigham is preparing a memoir of his brother. A precocious Philadelphia youth, burglarized his father's house. And now a Wisconsin blacksmith has fallen heir to that "million dollars. A blood stained star which lately horrified Texas proved to be a signal light. When Vincennes citizens meet they do not ask concerning each other's health. They simply "shake," and go directly to the nearest drug store for quinine. Two St. Louisans, one white and the other colored, organized a war of races, and plugged one another with slung-shot for the possession of an old plug hat. Two slopists of very tender age halted in a Virginia village, refreshed themselves with ginger cake, and then pursued their way toward North Carolina and liberty. The following affecting lines are copied from an English life insurance pamphlet entitled "Thanks for the Thoughtful." We consider them suggestive: When poor pa died and went to heaven, What grief mamma endured; But oh! that grief was soon assuaged, For pa he was insured; And when ma went there oh, how funny! The officer paid her, all the money.

Society and Fashion. The newest fall out-door garment is the Marquise mantle. It is a loose sacque covered half way down with a large cape, which is looped up to the collar in the back with a large, flat, Arabian bow. All richly braided. Basques have entirely superseded round waists, except in case of the plaited blouse waists, and these made up in heavier material are frequently worn as a basque, the plaits being let loose below the waist and over instead of under skirts. A bored out girl of Chicago, wrote to her lover at Washington, that he would have been surprised to see her the morning after the fire, "with a pair of Jim's old pants on, one slipper, one shoe and a waterproof cloak." And, she remarked, "that would make a splendid wedding suit wouldn't it?" The young man, if he is worthy of the girl, should reply that he seeks the bird and not the feathers.

We have heretofore inadvertently omitted to mention the fact that Dr. V. McAlpine, long connected with the dental office in this place, had established an office at Rousseville, over Shepard's dry goods store. The Dr. is a thorough master of the dental profession, and we doubt not will give entire satisfaction to the good people of Rousseville. Success attend him.

On next Wednesday evening, Nov. 8th the Colloquial Actor and Popular Author, Mr. Albert W. Aiken, supported by a full New York Company, will appear in his own very successful realistic play of city life, entitled "The Witches of New York." The play will be presented with new Scenery, Dresses, &c., and a magnificent cast of characters. Mr. Aiken is supported by his own company, selected by him expressly for the play, which of course ensures a perfect performance. In the double roles of author and actor, Mr. Aiken has won the praise of the Metropolitan Press; and the bare mention of the fact that he has played the "Witches of New York" over two hundred nights in New York and in the principal cities of the United States and Canada, fully testifies how popular he is with the public.
