The fast-sailing fore and aft clipper oil scow Arkansas, H. H. Warner, Captain, and John . Walters, Pilote with a full complement of able-bodied seamen and longaboremen, left the dock in rear of Briggs' feed store, this foremon, bound for Oil City, Parker's Landing, Kittanning, Pittsburgh, and adjacent ports. The boat was loaded down to gunwales with old junk, iron, &c. It was a grand sight, was the departure of this noble craft, with all sails set and the national pennon proudly floating from the main-top, and was witnessed by a large and admiring crowd of landsmen. The jolly song of "Yo heave ho!" was heard about 11 a. m., as the crew weighed anchor and hauled taut the jib-boom, and furled the main top stay sail, reefed out the bin-nacie abaft the quarter deck, and at preclerly 11:20 the last farewells were said, the eaptain sung out to the bostswain-"Aboy! there my bearty, cast off the bawser, pitch the bencoop overboard, and prepare for a engaged in manufacturing Heinz's Patent safe voyage or a speedy trip to Davy Jones' locker." Once underway, with a fair wind blowing west by son' west, the staunch craft glided swiftly along, passed safely under the Eghert farm bridge, rounded the bend in Oil Creek, everybody predicting a safe yoyage to the good ship and its gallant crew, when suddenly the barometer commenced falling, the maintopman shouted-"Breakers ahead!" and despite the burculean efforts of the pilot and belmeman, the huge waves drove the vessel on the lee shore near the the capital and the interior ge Columbia farm where she stranded. After common farm where she stranded. After suffering untold perils the captain and crew reached the shore in safety. The vessel and cargo are uninjured but will have to remain on the rocks until a "rise" or "pond fresh" in the Greek floats it off. Thus endeth the history of the "Voyage of the Clipper Ship Arkansas, whereof Warner is Master."

WHITE SWAN SHOT .- Yesterday forenoon, Mr. Richard W. Redfield, (who don't know jelly good natured Dick.) shot a large White Swan, in the Alleghens River, near Forubgrass. The swan measured seven leet from tip to tip of its wings, and is a magnificent specimen of the swan species. It will be served up by mise host Jack Showles at the Gregory House, Scrubgrass. While we are about it we might as well say, and with justice, that there is not a better stop. ping place for travelers along the Allegheny River, than the Gregory House, at Scrubgrass. Our word for it, Jack will treat you well.

Mr. S. J. Steraburg, the well known lumber dealer, met with quite a serious accident a day or two since. He was engaged in unloading a car of lumber, when his foot slipped and he fell to the ground, landing across the railroad ties, bruising him quite severely about the head and shoulders, and also bedly injuring the bone in his right leg. [CorryBlade. The injury will not prove permanent.

A Greeide tatt- l'an cat's

Fire having destroyed a large part of the forest wealth of Northern Michigan the greed of owners bids fair to finish what is left .-The Saginaw Enterprise says that at no time in its history as a lumber producing region has the Saginaw country undertaken such gigantic tumbering operations as is contemplated during the, coming (season, and the same is true of other pine producing regions in the state. The demand for lumber has been greatly increased by the extensive destraction of buildings, whilst the same conflagrations have seriously diminished the sources of supply. The evils of wholesale denudation of the country have been repeatedly dwelt upon, but the fire and the wood man's ax threaten to increase those evils tenfold in a single year.

RAILROADING. - The order has been given by the managers of the P. E. Rai Irond to complete a double track between Warren and Irvine forthwith. There are several long switches constructed now so the job will not be a long one. They will put on a hundred men or more and complete the work by the first of January. This is done in part to accommodate the D. W. & P. & Allegheny Valley roads. When it is done we understand the cars on the Allegheny Valley road will stop at Warren instead of Irvine-The oil business on this route is getting so beavy that a continuous line is found to be Decessary.

A lively struggle is going on between the Pennsylvania Central, Lake Shore and D. W. & P. road, backed by the New York Central, for the construction of a new line from here to Titusville. Three different gauge of hands are grading and surveying on the other end of the route and figuring for the right of way. The route is up the Brokenstraw from Irvine to Garland, and thence on the original survey to the Oil Creek road to Titueville. The New York interests desire to run to Oil City and thus securidg a Western connection through the Oil Regions. We suppose this will be opposed by other high contracting parties so that the contest will be lively and the longest pole will knock off the persimmons.

[Warren Mail.

A party of surveyors are engaged in laying out the new railroad route across the Egbert, McCray and Boyd. It seem to be the prevailing opinion that the Pennsylvania Petroleum Railroad is to be pushed through to Oil City, connecting at that point with the Franklin Division of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad, thereby giving the N. Y. Central or Vanderbilt railroad interest both an eastern and western connection.

At present the grading is done from near Titusville to some distance this side of Shaffer farm, and is being pushed ahead as fast as nearly seven hundred men armed with picks and shovels can do the work.

Pioneer is exceedingly dull at present in business point of view, but yet has one live institution which is in a flourishing condition. We allude to the tool repairing and machine shop of Mr. P. C. Heinz, who does a general business of manufacturing and repairing oil tools. He is also largely Seed-Bag, a useful invention of his own for oil wells, the demand for which he informs us is largely on the increase. Those having deal with Mr. H. will find bim fair and honorable in every respect. They will also discover the fact that Pioneer has one live institution in full blast

Nothing decisive lappears to have tak en place in Mexico since we referred to the subjest a few days ago. Communications with still interrupted, and near the United States border the rebels and the Juarlate were watching each other. In a cavalry jengagement the troops of the former seems to have been victorious, and Gen. Trevino's army was slowly growing stronger. He was still under the walls of Sattle waiting for the arrival of artillery to enable , bim to make an attack, and from an intercepted letter it appears that the Government or Justist troops were equally deficient in the same arm.

They rejoice in a bermit out in western Texas. He excludes ev en the ordinary demestic animals ifrom bis household. He at one time raised chickens; but as, whenever a woman at very long intervals, and by chance happened in his vicinity, the chickens got frightened, ran bendiong into the brush and remained bidden there as long as a petticoat was in sight, the hermit concluded to do without such uncivilized creatures. Heamuses himself tamingfbirds; but his favorite are two saskes of a peculiar kind, that he uses as mousers, and which be asserts are far superior to cats. He lives by the product of sixty boebives, selling from twelve to fifteen thousand pounds of honey every year. The bermit's name is Baylock. He was for many years a trapper in the Rocky Mountaine, is sixty-three years of age; is cheerful and talkative, and. by a traveler who recently saw and conversed with him, is spoken of as a man of more than common natural ability, with a fair portion fof general intormation.

The Girard Cosmopolite says: "One day recently Mr. Lewis Hutchins, a pessenger engineer on the Philadelphia and Erie railroad, after leaving Kane for Brie, on 'a dracending grade of ninety feet to the mile, when within eight miles of Warren made the startling discovery that the throttle valve of his engine was hopelessly disarranged. His self possession and skill stood him ingood stead in this emergency, and he ran his train safely to the Warren depot, on time with nothing except the air brakes with which to control his engine. No one knew of the accident until Mr. Hutchins announced that the passengers would have to take the accommodation train. That is the kind of a man to intrust lives and property to."
