A DIFFERENCE.—Angel, the originator of what is called the Angel and Prentice oil line, contends that the line runs from north east to south west, varying from twenty to twenty-five degrees. Dr. Crawford, says the N. W. Independent, contends for a zig-zag course, which accounts for some people being lucky and others unlucky. Those who are lucky bore on the zig, and the unlucky fellows on the zag. If this latter opinion be true, we were never on the zig but once, and then only on its tail.—Ziegler's Herald.

Another grand soiree, under the auspices of the Kane City Dancing Club, was held last evening in Murray's Hall, Kane City. The attendance was unusually large, about thirty-five couples being present, among whom were representatives from Petroleum Centre, Oil City, Rousseville and other neighboring communities. Owing to a prior engagement, Prince Alexis was not present. However the true spirit of republicanism was too great to permit his absence to mar the enjoyment of the occasion in the least. The affair was conducted in an orderly manner, and dancing was continued until the wee small hours of the morning, when every one retired, well pleased with themselves, the world in general, and Kane City in particular, and fully determined to return in two weeks and try it again; also, to partake of a grand supper at the Crocker House.

A crowded house greeted Miss Amy Stone and her excellent company, on their last appearance, at Sobel's Opera House, last evening. The sensational drama of "The Hidden Hand," was well brought out in all its parts. Miss Amy as Capriola acted out the character of the wild wayward girl to perfection—perversive but at the same time kind hearted. Mr. Marston as "Old Hurril-come kept the audience in a roar of laughter during the entire performance by his faithful delineation of the ill tempered old man. Mr. Stone as Wool, Mr. Harrison as Black Donald, and in fact the entire company "acted well their parts," and gave universal satisfaction to all present.

Our citizens will be pleased to learn that this talented lady will pay our town another visit before long. She can rest assured of a hearty welcome.

BILLINGS ON "MILK."—Josh Billings, whose "Almitax" and a few others unpretending contributions to contemporaneous literature has brought him fame, will deliver his celebrated lecture on "Milk" at Sobel's Opera House, this evening. Josh is too well known to need any recommendation from us, and will attract a crowded house, regardless of stormy weather or other adverse circumstances. The announcement of his being here is sufficient advertising.

A singular explosion occurred at Foxburg a few days ago. Gas from an oil well, a short distance from a machine shop, was used for heating the furnace. One of the workmen returned from dinner and "struck a match" preparatory to lighting the gas, but as it had not been fully shut off before leaving, an accumulation had taken place and said workman was much surprised to see things "go to flinders" with a deafening report. The pieces very accommodatingly flew past on both sides leaving the man uninjured. I saw the flying missiles but happened to be at a safe distance.—Eric Dispatch.

Those who take delight in rare works of art and extraordinary displays of mechanical genius, will be sure to visit Bergmann's Automatic Wonder; or, The German's Dream, now on exhibition in the building formerly occupied by O. W. King, next door to Griffes Bros. drug store. It will be on exhibition, day and evening, from now until Saturday, and probably Monday, thereby giving an opportunity of seeing it.

Here is what the press says of it: "It is one of the most wonderful pieces of Mechanism ever put on exhibition."—Scientific American.

"An exhibition that you can look at for two hours and discover something new almost every moment." N. Y. Tribune.

"The architecture is perfect and the surroundings are as near nature as art can imitate."—Rural New Yorker.

"It is one of the wonders of the world."—N. Y. Herald.

Something to chalk down—The price of milk.

Sermons in stones—Monuments commemorating heroic men and heroic deeds.

It is all very well to say, "take things as they come," but suppose they don't come?

The Opera House is a pleasant place to spend an evening; especially when so genial a lecturer as Josh Billings occupies the platform.

Change for a sovereign—A republic.

DEATH OF AN OIL PRINCE.—James Tarr, one of the oil princes, died at Meadville, Pa., last week. He belonged to the class of old residents who found themselves made suddenly rich by the possession of oil territory, whose unthrifty soil had for many years previous afforded them but a scanty subsistence. The history of Tarr farm, as oil producing territory, dates from June, 1861, Mr. Tarr sold one-half of his land interest in the oil for $30,000, to Clark & Sumner of New York. The same parties offered $80,000 for the entire royalty, but Mr. Tarr refused to sell. Clark & Sumner, resold one-third interest of the purchase to Col. Payne, Barnard, Speocer and others of Rochester, N. Y., for $35,000, but the decline in the price of oil made these parties regret their purchase, and they subsequently disposed of their interest to the same firm at the buying price. New and paying wells were continually developed, and Mr. Tarr of course accumulated a splendid fortune. In the Fall of 1864, when gold was worth $2 50, he was offered $800,000 cash for the fee simple of the Tarr farm, which was equivalent to $2,000,000. He refused it. Up to the month of October 1865, the total production from June 1861, covering a period of about four and a half years, exceeded 640,000 barrels.—Ex.

Boston is happy. Alexis has visited the modern Athens; has feasted with its poets and philosophers and has listened to the strains of Gilmore's band, conducted by the great Gilmore himself, who arrived from Europe just in the nick of time. The brains of Boston has been racked for days with plans for a public welcome to Alexis, and public honors to Gilmore, who is more to Boston than a dozen Grand Dukes. The difficulty was happily arranged, and it is left for casuists to decide whether Gilmore aided in honoring the Grand Duke or the Grand Duke swelled the triumph of Gilmore, and to which of the illustrious twins Boston paid the greatest honors.

An unprecedented case of somnambulism occurred a few nights ago in New Haven, the subject being a little child three years old that went out in a storm twice the same evening to meet its parents, and was brought back each time and put to bed without being awakened.

The old Manassas battle field was sold a few days since for eight dollars an acre.—When the war commenced it was under a high state of improvement, and the dwelling house upon it was one of the finest in that section of the State, but that scourge devastated it, and the open fields, and young pines, and shattered mansion—all now bear evidence to the bloody conflicts of which it was the scene.

It is now time for the price of milk to advance. Go and hear "Josh" on that subject to-night; perhaps he will suggest some method to keep it down.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has leased the Memphis and Charleston Railroad for forty five years guaranteeing three per cent. for the first five years, then six per cent.—The question of the lease will be submitted to the stockholders.

"Greenland's icy mountains," about which the churches so often sing, are far from being the abodes of heathenism.—About half the population belong to the Lutheran communion, and the whole country is well supplied with churches, pastors and catechists. The salaries of clergymen range from $300 to $1,400, which is better than the average in this country.

The Titusville Committee of Invitation are said to have received the following dispatch from the Grand Duke, in native Russian:

"Or ritold bustab yuken sormi legorf buti telli ille bloki bifur Titusville. Gityur rumanwiski anlotzer citi bonerz redi, anian oleostozy wilbi downonyer lyka seekemo enah tallek andie."

Vermont has twenty-nine cheese factories.

The trunk line railroads have just increased the rate for freights from New York, Boston and Philadelphia westward, on an average, over a hundred per cent.

Everybody is going to the Opera House to-night to hear Billings lecture on milk.

An editor in Illinois having engaged a new reporter, received the following as his first effort: "We are informed that the gentleman has stood on his head under a pile driver for the purpose of having a slight pair of bones drove on, shortly afterwards found himself in China, perfectly naked and without a cent in his pocket."

Neat housekeepers are generally put out when coal is put in.

Every man who goes out West returns with a history of a narrow escape.

A Wisconsin judge has granted himself a divorce on the principle that "charity begins at home."
