REMOVAL.

The office of the Daily Record has been removed to the building situated four doors below the late location, directly opposite the McClintock House, and next door to Odd Fellows Hall. Our friends are invited to call and see us.

WINTER.—Cold, bleak winter is here.—To one class it means only warmer rooms, heavier clothing, ruddier cheeks, sleigh rides over the sparkling snow, skating, and all manner of cold weather festivities; while to the other class it means greater expenses of living that seems almost impossible to meet, a more rigid economy of money, and fuel, and light, that seem equally impossible to exert—beggary, importuning creditors, and everything that humiliates and drives out hope and ambition. It is a hackneyed subject this of the poor, but it is oft recurring, and cannot be put away. It will be so as long as the world lasts. There will always be those who are rich in the comforts of home and always those who are poor. It rests, then, with those who are well provided, to think kindly, and give freely, in cases of genuine distress.

The weather is cold and wintry to-day.

Many supposed that the price of "Milk" would go down after the great (?) Josh Billings "blowed his bazoo." "Milk has riz," however, and should he lecture here once more the price of chewing gum would advance, as one good soul remarked that "had she only known the lecturer was such a humbug, she would have preferred to stay at home and chew gum till midnight." Some are so wicked as to aver that it would turn sweet milk sour at once. 'Twas "sweetness wasted on the desert air," and soured on the stomachs of nearly all present.

It is a fact that Plante, the French Boot Maker, makes a good fitting pair of boots—elegant in style, serviceable in wear, and made from the best of material. Having worn boots made by him, we know whereof we speak, when we say they cannot be excelled. A trial will convince the most skeptical.

The Warren and Venango Railroad seems to be a fixed fact. Judge Ewing, of Randolph, New York, with a corps of engineers, has made the location as far as Irvinston, and have probably reached Warren before this.

Teams are crossing the river on the ice at many points above.

A convention of the Young Men's Christian Association commenced at Warren yesterday. Several delegates will attend from this city.

The Beaver Oil Company, of which Mr. Ira Anderson is manager, is putting down a new well on Hiram Heath's farm in Hickory township. They are down two hundred feet and are drilling about twenty feet each day.

A great deal of lumber is now in a bad condition in Tionesta creek and the river, being frozen in tight, the water having backed over them after the ice stopped, and frozen. They will all probably go out with the ice.

On Monday about noon Mr. H. Swaggart's house, across the river from Trunkville, was consumed by fire. Mr. Swaggart succeeded in saving the most of his furniture, but lost considerable grain, provisions, &c. The fire caught from the stove pipe.—[Forest Republican.

Last evening we paid our first visit to Bergmann's Automatic Wonder, and must say it is the most wonderful piece of workmanship we ever saw. The wonder comprises a smut mill, a grist mill, an oil mill, and a saw mill, all in full operation, and the machinery attended by automatic figures who toil away with an ease and gracefulness that would lead one almost to believe they were inspired with life and breath. At one end is a blacksmith shop where two smithies are working away like "Tonal Cain of old," the sound of their hammers as they strike the anvil being plainly heard. At one end is a miniature lake, upon the surface of which a pleasure boat passes to and fro, the occupants of which appear to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent. Above this is a miniature spring throwing a beautiful jet of sparkling water high in air which falls gracefully over natural appearing rocks and meanders away in a purling stream over rocks and rough places until it is lost from view. A miner picks away at imaginary coal; a carpenter drives nails; the housemaid sweeps the room and dusts things at a lively rate. The whole is surmounted by a beautiful villa fashioned after the gothic style. The whole combines the most wonderful and complicated piece of mechanism ever constructed, and had we the space we might depict its beauties at great length but forbear. It is enough to say that a sight of it is worth a dozen times the price of admission.

To enable all to see this wonderful curiosity the managers have concluded to remain one day longer—Monday—previous to their departure for Oil City. Those who fail to examine it will miss a rare treat.

A special from Armstrong Run to the Titusville Herald of yesterday, says: "The well on Jennings tract at the river, struck yesterday morning, is flowing at the rate of a hundred barrels per day. The well on Clark farm will strike to-day. Every prospect for a good well."

St. Louis dead beats pass gracefully into supper at the hotels, satisfy the cravings of nature, pass gracefully to the hat rack, carefully select the most gorgeous hat and pass gracefully out.

A correspondent is un tactful enough to remark that many American ladies were sentenced to be hanged to-morrow, would ask as their first question: "Have I a hanging dress?"

Favorite song of the belles: "We gather the men—we gather the men." Sometimes it is rendered, "gather them in."

Paraps is leading musical Cincinnati captive.

Garrett Davis' hobby seems to be a speechless payment.

Parker Paragraphs

There is a good deal of fault found here among our principal oil operators, with Grant's late epistle to Congress. Many think that common justice demands at Grant's hands an extended notice of the celebrated Angell Belt. No doubt there are many members of both Houses interested in the oil business who would like to hear it explained. You know the originator of the belt explained it to his Excellency last summer on the cars between Franklin and Scrubgrass stations.

John Phipps and W. J. McConnel are the lucky owners of a fourth interest in a new well on the Wilford farm. The well commenced pumping on Saturday last and is now producing between 75 and 80 barrels of oil per day.

The Henry Clawson well on the Robinson farm will be down in a few days. The prospects of a good well is very flattering.

The Moorhead well still continues to flow 200 barrels per day.

Some of our capitalists are discussing the propriety of erecting a bridge over the Allegheny river at this point. It would be a good paying investment.

There is some talk of having Parker incorporated into a borough or city. It now forms part of Hevy township, Armstrong county.

Several wells in this vicinity will be completed the last of this or first of next week.

The Empire and Parker and Karns Pipe Line now charge 25 cents a barrel for piping oil from the wells to their tanks at the railroad stations. An advance of 5 cents over the old rates.

Our oil operators are beginning to look happy. Oil has been steadily advancing for the past few days. It will soon be $5 per barrel—it ought never be below this price—which will give renewed vigor to the oil business.

The teamsters in this section can do more genuine hard swearing in five minutes than all the canal boatmen on the Erie canal can do in two hours. If you don't believe it, spend a few hours on the Lawrenceburg hill. They have brought the business down to a science.

The water haulers are charging fifty cents a barrel for water in Lawrenceburg, and river water at that. The housekeepers at Parker have to pay 15 to 25 cents per barrel.

It is said that application will be made to the next Legislature for a charter for a pipe line from this place to Pittsburgh. The oil producers are getting tired of paying the exorbitant rates charged by the railroad company for the transportation of oil, when it can be taken to Pittsburgh in pipes at about one-half the railroad rates.—[Venango Spectator.

PERSONAL.—The Meadville Republican says: B. F. Frost, for nearly five years the genial clerk of the Coit house, and previous to the burning of the Barton house connected with that excellent hotel, is about to leave this city to take charge of the office in the Sherman house, Titusville. Frank has hosts of friends here and elsewhere, and will be sure to draw a large number of the wayfarers from this section who have occasion to visit Titusville. The Sherman house is a new hotel, located opposite the postoffice, and being near the business centre, will be found a convenient stopping place.

To the native Alaskan our country is indebted for the production of liquor from sugar of such potency that it kills in three weeks.

A Louisiana engineer was acquitted of neglect in running over a man because "the grass on the track grew so high as to obscure the person."

Most hand-organ tunes are classic. They are the productions of Handel.—[Boston Post.
