The forthcoming Census Report furnishes some interesting statistics in regard to the progress of Pennsylvania, in point of population, during the last decade. In 1860 the population was 2,965,215. In 1870 it had increased to 3,512,791, a gain of 21.18 per cent. This large addition to our representative population entitles our good old Commonwealth to five more members of Congress, making our national representation 26, instead of 21, heretofore. The ratio of increase of representative population in the different sections is as follows: New England, 9.2; Middle States, 23; Southern States, 31.4; Western States, 36.4 per cent. The entire population of the United States is put down at 28,113,263, a gain of 6,929,469 in the past ten years.

ASSAULTED SUICIDE.—A man named Seth Hoyt, who owns a livery stable at Tarr Farm, while laboring under an attack of delirium tremens, on Friday last, attempted suicide by cutting his throat. Imagining that all sorts of evil spirits were pursuing him he proceeded to his barn, and cut a gash in his throat about four inches long with a knife used for bleeding horses, partially covering the wind pipe. Fortunately no vital part was injured, and the unfortunate man will probably recover. Another victim to rum.

Two frail sisters indulged in a jolly set-to on Washington street, Saturday night. Waterfalls, head gearing of all kinds, hair and clothing, sew in every direction, and the fight waxed fierce and hot, until Deputy Constable McHugh appeared on the battle ground and separated the combatants. It would have been a glorious opportunity for Victoria Woodbull, Tifton, Cledin & Co, to have made capital in favor of the Sixteenth Amendment.

A Martin, the Wizard, opens at Sobel's Opera House, this evening. An excellent entertainment is offered, and a crowded house would be the result.

The latest style of visiting card is pale and is limited and nearly square.

Olive Logan Sikes Repudiates the Free Love Women.

The New York Tribune publishes a letter from Olive Logan (Mrs Wirt Sikes,) in which she indignantly repudiates any connection with the free love doctrine of the Woman's Rights advocates, and cites her recent marriage as proof of her respect for that sacred institution. She adds: "I little dreamed, when I attended the Woman's Convention, at Steinway Hall, in the spring of 1869 the only one I ever attended, that the utterances of that body would ever lead up to such monstrous doctrines as are now put forth in the name of the advocates of woman suffrage. In the short speech I made on that occasion, I conjured my hearers to believe that we sought no conflict with the gentle household gods, that we waged no war on the sweet home virtues, and much of like purport, I have not 'progressed' one inch in this matter since. Still think a happy home the best thing there is on earth, and I still believe that the old fashioned marriage is the basis of it.—Therefore I, like my husband, do not stand in the front line of the ultra-progressionist of the age with regard to marriage."

NEW PATENTS.—Francis Blaikie, of Scotland, machinist, a new useful machine for the purpose of pumping and blowing or agitating oil or other liquids, to be called or known as "Blaikie's combined double-acting Pump and Blower."

Tronson Draper, of Petrolia, machinist, certain new and useful improvements in the construction of pump valves, that is for expanding the leather ring or packing on said valves, to be called or known as "Draper's Expanding Valve."

Samuel Vivian, of London, oil operator, certain new and useful improvements in the manufacture of machine oil or grease from crude petroleum or from petroleum tar, and the finishing of paraffine Oil, to be called or known as "Vivian's improvements in the manufacture of machine oil and the finishing of Paraffine Oil."—Petrolia Advertiser

OIL MATTERS ON ALLENDER RUN.—We learn that oil matters on Allender Run and vicinity are beginning to be quite lively. One well is now down about 300 feet, located on the McIntire farm. Another rig on the lease adjoining, same farm, is nearly completed and drilling will begin the present week. Still another rig is up and nearly ready to commence drilling, on a tract of land adjoining the Mc Nutt farm on the west. On the Ware tract, or Allender as it is sometimes called, owned in fee by our townsmen, Messrs J. M. Kepler & Co., a well is down and cased to the depth of 300 feet. This last mentioned tract joins the Copeland farm, near Pitohole, on which there is a located near the line which has been flowing about a barrel per day of excellent green oil for over two years. There is also a pumping well on the east side of said tract, near the line, which is yielding about 1 1/2 barrels per day. Allender Run is but a short distance from the big wells at Cash Up, and land in that vicinity is being rapidly hunted by oil operators.

As far back as 1865 Allender Run was widely known for its large gas wells, in that respect very much resembling the East Sandy territory. There is not much doubt, but that good wells will be struck in that vicinity, and it would not be surprising if another oil excitement would break out before many months.

Fisk was quite cool and even jocular after he had been shot and before he was seized with pain. When Tweed called upon him on Saturday night, he is said to have greeted him with "Well, William, I'm afraid that Stokes has sent me where the woodbine twines."

David R. Dickey, of Randolph, Tenn., wagered that he could eat four bottles of brandied peaches, and drink the liquor and two tumblers of raw whiskey. He lost by one peach. His executors promptly paid the stakes.

Lent begins this year on St. Valentine's day, February 14.

Mrs. Laura Fair is in excellent health and confident that she never will be hanged. Mr. Elisha Cook, her principal counsel, died recently, and not Mrs. Fair as generally published.

The snow is said to average more than two and a half feet deep throughout the woods in Maine.

An Italian nun died of grief at being compelled to vacate a cell she had occupied for fifty years.

Mumps prevail at Roxbury, Mass., and the citizens prefer them to the small-pox.

And now that the mire of Mercurialism is pretty nearly worked out, there comes from Utah the intimation of another and better discovery. The bowels of the far west grow metals as the gardens of the East grow vegetables. The latest orchard of this kind, the crop being tin, has recently been found at Ogden, forty miles due north from Salt Lake City, and between the lake and mountains Tin was found near here in small quantities some years ago, but owing to Mormon dislike of mining, ignorance or other causes, nothing resulted from the discovery. The mines were examined again more carefully a few days ago, by experts from English mines, who pronounced them very rich and of prime importance. It is said that they yield, twenty per cent. pure tin. The metal has long been found south of here in Mexico, Peru, Chili and Brazil, and has been mined to some extent in California. But our enormous employment has been principally met by importations from Banca and Cornwall. If the new discovery proves all that is promised, another source of wealth will be opened to us in a region abounding with metals. In Europe veins of tin that are no more than threads are found to repay labor, whence we may well infer that such vast discoveries as are reported in Utah will have the importance that is assumed.

Somewhat Particular.

As the 4:30 train from New York reached Stamford, Saturday, an antique-looking dame thrust her head out of the window opposite the refreshment room door, and briefly shouted "Sonny!" A bright-looking boy came up to the window. "Little boy," said she, "have you a mother?" "Yes, ma'm." "Do you go to school?" "Yes, ma'm." "And are you faithful to your studies?" "Yes, ma'm." "Do you say your prayers every night?" "Yes, ma'm." "Can I trust you to do an errand for me?" "Yes, ma'm." "I think I can too," said the lady, leaning steadily down on the manly face. "Here is five cents to get me an apple.—Remember, God sees you."—[Hartford Post.

Says the Chicago Post: Architect Van Osdel computes, from reliable data, that at least three miles of fronts will be rebuilt in the burnt district of the South Side the coming season for commercial purposes, and that the new buildings will compare favorably with the old in point of elegance and cost. This is equal in area to one-third of the entire business blocks destroyed. In three years, then, according to this estimate, the burnt district will be blotted out, and Chicago will be herself again. Surely, the marvel of her uplifting is destined to eclipse that of her downfall.

At Newbury, England, a gentleman recently made a wager of $5,000 that at eight o'clock on a particular evening he would sit down to dinner in a well-woven, well-dyed, well-made suit of clothes, the wool of which formed the fleece on sheep's backs at five o'clock the same morning. The sheep were shorn; the wool washed; carded, stubbed, roved, spun and woven; the cloth was scoured, filled, tented, raised, aneared, dyed and dressed; the garments were made. At a quarter past six he sat down to a dinner at the head of his guests in complete duns-colored suit—thus winning his wager, with one hour and three quarters to spare.

HOW IT HAPPENED.—Since Bully Hill has become famous for oil territory its singular name has attracted some attention, and strangers often ask why it is so called. An old citizen tells us that many years ago an old farmer, who lived on the Hill, when well pleased with any thing invariably expressed his approbation by exclaiming "bully!" and in the course of time this singular expression made the farmer a character and his place of residence became known as "Bully" Hill.—[Venango Citizen.

Fanny Fern asks the following conundrum: "Can anybody tell why an editor's office should be so repulsive?" If it is to keep the women away, it don't succeed, for fair beggars in fine raiment haunt them. It can't be to allure the other sex, because it is the chief effort of an editor to hem himself in, even from his fellowmen. It can't be because editors have no taste, because many of them have selected very ornamental wives. Well, we give it up. But if they would scrape the cobwebs off the windows, they would be fewer in their editorials. If they would dust their desks, occasionally subscribers would "down with their dust" all the same. If they would banish their cherished "spittoons," there would be some stumbling blocks less in the land. But a thought strikes me! Perhaps if their offices were pleasanter they would come home later! Then welcome cobwebs, and soiled water pitchers, and muddy lookstands, and even spittoons, since some isn't home without 'father,' though he be an 'editor.'
