PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.—About 11 o'clock this forenoon, a Swede whose name we could not learn, while at work on the Warren & Venango Railroad, near the Lehr iron tank on the Boyd farm, met with an accident which will in all probability prove fatal. He was engaged in excavating into the bank, when suddenly a mass of stone and frozen earth weighing probably a ton caved in from above, partially burying him up. As soon as possible the earth was removed by the other workmen, when it was discovered that the unfortunate man was terribly injured, one leg being broken and his body about the chest bruised and lacerated. Blood was running from his nose, mouth and ears, and it is feared he is injured internally. The only thing that saved him from instant death was the fact that the mass fell outward instead of sliding down perpendicularly, and he being at work close to the bank, caught the mass principally across the lower extremities of the body. He was well taken care of, but it is feared cannot recover.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon, a teamster named O'Brien, in the employ of the Warren and Venango R. R., while hauling a load of dirt over the track of the Oil Creek Railroad, a short distance this side of the Pleaser bridge, was run into by the locomotive of the paymaster's train going south on the latter road. The cart was demolished and the horse killed. Fortunately O'Brien escaped with a few bruises occasioned by the horse falling on him in the general wreck. It was a narrow escape from death.

Armstead well in sand; show good; Nos. 1 and 2 have 50 feet of 3d sand rock; McPherson has another well on lease 10 which is now 1,000 feet deep. Several wells besides are going down.

We note the above facts as parties hereabouts are more or less interested in this and adjoining territory.

The skating carnival and masquerade on Oil Creek, last evening, was largely attended and proved highly amusing to all present. We noticed quite a number of fine costumes among the masqueraders. The scene was well lighted up, and enlivened by sweet strains of martial music from the Egbert drum band.

Parker Oil Field.

Extensive developments are being made each week North-east and South-west of us. In both directions large wells are being struck. It is hard to tell in fact, in which the best wells are being obtained; but the drilling to the North-east is not so deep as on the other end of the belt, consequently the largest crowds are flocking to the vicinity of Petersburg at the present time.

NEW TERRITORY.

The Columbia Oil Company, of Columbia Farm, have sunk a well to the third sand, on the Redick farm, in Butler county about two miles west of Lawrenceburg, near Little Bear Creek. Although the sand has been penetrated but a few feet the well has filled up with oil to a considerable extent, which flows therefrom at intervals in large quantities. This well has ever appearance of proving a good one, thy striking of which will develop a large amount of new territory.—Oilman's Journal.

This evening one of those pleasant social gatherings will be given at the Central House. The fact that it is being gotten up by Messrs. Howe, Alden and others, is a sufficient guarantee of its success. A pleasant time may be anticipated.

George Magrane is a first class boot and shoe maker. His place of business is on Washington street. The boots made by him are of the best material and warranted to fit nicely and wear well. These are the facts in the case as recorded in to-day's Record. He sells good goods cheap. Give him a call. Nuff ced.

NATIONAL BUSINESS INDEX.—The above is the title of a new monthly paper devoted to the business interests of a national or general character. For the edification and benefit of intelligent people of all classes, it undertakes to view and review passing events from a business standpoint. Facts of a business nature relating to capital, labor, agriculture, commerce, manufactures, education, religion, literature, politics—every subject commanding general attention are brought together and arranged in terse, pointed, business like manner. Strict accuracy is conscientiously sought after.—Candid, impartial, vigorous comment and criticism by able writers will be an important feature. A business correspondent is desired in every county in the United States, where not already engaged. Questions of a business character from readers receive special attention. Terms: $1.00 a year, 10 cents a copy, The Index Publishers, 433 W. Jackson St., Chicago, Ill.

A dispatch from Chicago says: "Mechanics and laborers in various parts of the country are making a great mistake in coming to this city in search of work. The supply of labor of all sorts is far in excess of the demand; and will for two months to come. What building is going on is done already, and depends on the weather, which is too severe for outdoor work, by which the real activity in rebuilding will be delayed till spring. Working men, not understanding this, are pouring in from all quarters, spending their last dollar to get here, and appealing to the relief committee, for aid when they find there is no work to be had. Those journals which are urging these people to come here, at this season, are unintentionally doing them a cruel wrong, and adding to a city already overburdened with the destitute."

Rather a curious post office case has just occurred in Paris. It is a rule in France to deliver registered letters only to the persons to whom they are addressed. A postman who had such a letter for a married lady would not give it to her husband on demand. That personage insisted that, as it was from a man known to be rather too intimate with his better half, he could legally claim it, and the postman still declining to deliver it he brought the matter to a crisis by knocking him down and thus securing the document. The Tribunal decided that the husband was right, he produced the letter confirming his suspicions; that the postoffice officials ought not to lend themselves to aid adulterous correspondence; must pay damages and costs, and that a husband has the right to claim his wife's correspondence.

Lady Franklin is still alive, and has lost none of her interest in the work of tracing out the fate of the ill-starred "Franklin Expedition" to the Arctic regions. For long years she hoped against hope for the recovery of her husband or some member of his party, and spent large sums in the search. Now she offers a reward of two thousand pounds for the recovery of the records of the expedition, supposed to lie somewhere in King William's Land, where the last of the expedition probably perished.

It is so seldom unpleasant truths are heard at complimentary banquets and public receptions, that the remarks of the Rev. Horatio Stebbins, at the banquet to the Japanese princes in San Francisco, were positively refreshing. After the State officials and ex-officials had made their customary flattering speeches to the Asiatics expressing their consuming desire for an intimate friendship, Mr. Stebbins arose, denounced their dishonest demagoguery, and reminded them of the fact that in order to win office, they had pondered to the bitter and most inhuman spirit of hostility to the Asiatics who had settled peaceably in this country.

There is a story found in an exchange that rivals in wonderful incidents the most imaginative works of fiction. It came out in the course of a recent trial before the court in Illinois. A young man persuades a friend, under the plea of rapid money making, to go with him to Texas. After arrival in that distant State, he, to possess himself of his friend's money, kills and robs him. He then returns to Illinois, pays court to the sister of his victim, and finally marries her, being dressed for the occasion in the suit of the murdered man. Suspicion is aroused at the prolonged disappearance of the friend. The drover is tracked, arrested, and to the scarce conceivable grief of the family, one member of which he has murdered, and another married, is taken back to Texas, where a chain of circumstances ensnare him. He is proved the criminal, and awaits in prison his final punishment. Here is good material for a sensation drama.

The following request has been received at the Fulton street chapel, New York, where a daily prayer meeting is held: "Please pray for the Custom House clerks; they are so wicked, and yet so beset by temptation. I believe prayer in their behalf will be heard."

Fort Sumpter, Pulaski and Meutrie will shortly again be in a defensive condition, according to an announcement from Charleston. They are all to be strengthened with extensive earthworks, and guns of great calibre. Work is to be commenced immediately. The Charleston News attributes the movement to apprehension of coming trouble with Spain.

It is to wine drinking we owe the origin of the kiss. After Micennius caught his wife sucking his finest wines through the bung hole of the barrel with a straw, the custom became general in Rome for the husbands to kiss the lips of their wives, that they might discover the quality of their good ladies' stolen libations; and Cato the elder recommends this plan to the serious attention of all careful heads of families.

The well on the Peter King farm on Ritchley's run, is finished drilling and is being tested. There is a good prospect of it being a 10 barrel to judge by present appearances. The water is not yet exhausted and it may prove to be a large well.—Emilston Sun

LADIES BEWARE.—The Kentucky court of appeals has just made a decision which, although quite fair will prove very alarming to fairfairs. It has declared that the mutuality of an engagement may be proved against a young lady "by showing that she demeaned herself as if she concurred in or approved to the young man's promise or offer. It is not necessary that there should be an express promise on either side."—This has been long the case so far as the "brute man" is concerned, but now pining and jilted bachelors may get solace from a fat verdict against the false one.

At Seneca, Kansas, lately, the railroad ceased to furnish coal, and a famine was imminent until the citizens began to dig in their own yards. Now every man has a coal mine and don't care whether the cars run or not.
