Our townsmen, Messrs. Fisher, Norris & Co., the well known machinists and blacksmiths, are now engaged in manufacturing a complete set of drilling and pole tools for the St. Louis and Titusville Coal and Mining Company, of which Mr. O. F. Schenck is Vice President and Mr. J. Burns, Superintendent. The tools, when completed, will measure about 250 feet in length, and are to be used on the company's territory in the State of Missouri, in testing the same for coal and other minerals. They are made in that substantial and workmanlike manner which has given the oil tools made by this firm almost a national reputation. That they are capable of doing the work required of them we have not the least doubt, as the oldest operators in the Pennsylvania and Virginia oil regions have used them for years and know them to be just as represented and "more too."

The same firm have also just completed for Mr. N. B. Parker, the well known contractor for drilling oil wells, the largest hollow reamer ever made in this region. It is an excellent piece of workmanship.

We are pained to learn of the death of the only daughter of our fellow citizen, Mr. Owen Gaffney, which took place at his residence on the Egbert farm, at 1 o'clock this (Friday) morning. There is something inexpressibly sad about the taking away of loved ones by the grim tyrant, and more especially the young and tender buds, whose infantile prattle and winning manner endears them not alone to the parents and kindred but to all—for who is there but loves the little ones and sorrows when they pass over the river. To watch the mystic shadows gather over the loved features; to realize that the infant voice is hushed forever; that the patter of little feet will never more be heard in your home; to fold the little dresses and put away the playthings she used to love, all come back with crushing force on the parents and friends of the "dear one-gone before." And yet with all this weight of sorrow comes the consoling thought that the severed ties will some day be united, and that the golden links in the household chain have only been broken in order to bind our hearts still closer to the Master of Life, and although He has seen fit to take the little one to Himself, in the "sweet bye and bye" we shall meet on the shore, where they wait for us. "Here from this tower stair our darling climbed; Wreaths it with violets blue and gold; For up the starry steep with footsteps music timed She clammers on; the angels will uphold." In common with the many friends of Mr. Gaffney and his lady, we tender them our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of their sad affliction.

DONALDSON, THE AERONAUT—Donaldson, the intrepid aeronaut, seems determined to kill himself, or else he would discontinue his perilous balloon adventures astride of a trapeze bar. He made an ascension in Norfolk on Monday last (the third one from that place,) and when about one mile from the earth, being fearful of falling into the Elizabeth River, and then drifting to sea, opened the valve, but the gas not escaping fast enough for him, he climbed up the netting, held his knife between his teeth, and cut a hole in the center of the balloon. The gas rushed out with so much force as to create a stifling sensation. Fearing he might become insensible from the inhalation of the gas, he lashed himself to the hoop.—The balloon began to descend gradually, but the hole enlarging, its speed increased very rapidly. He struck on the ground in a cornfield, and was dragged at a terrible rate on the ground for about one thousand feet. In his course he struck against a fence, and knocked down a portion of it.—The balloon next struck a tree, and getting entangled in the branches hung there. At this time he was partially insensible. As soon as he recovered consciousness he disengaged himself, descended to the ground and started for assistance, meeting which, he ascertained that he had fallen on the farm of Major Bradford, about two hundred yards from Lynnhaven Bay, in Princess Anne County. He returned to the tree for his balloon. He climbed the tree, and when about fifteen feet from the ground a limb broke and he fell. Falling on the sand, he was not much hurt. A second attempt proved successful, and he managed to get his balloon down, but in an utterly ruined condition.

Daily and weekly newspapers contain the latest news, at Nicholson's.

The Omaha Bee says: "A day or two since the City Physician ordered a red flag to be put upon a house on Seventh street, to indicate that one of the inmates had small-pox. The flag had not been flying a quarter of an hour ere a crowd collected around the house, which was augmented every moment by the arrival of some new comer.—They patiently waited for some time, until a gentleman who was passing by had the curiosity to ask what the crowd meant.—He was informed that they were waiting for the auction to commence. When they learned that the deceptive red flag was a sign of small-pox, that crowd dispersed quicker than any similar crowd we ever heard of.—It is said that every one of them went immediately to a physician and got vaccinated, was remedy against a possible exposure."

The Democratic Township Primary Meeting, for the nomination of township officers, met at White's Hall, Rousseville, at 2 o'clock this p. m., and made the following nominations:
Constable—John F. Alcorn.
Assessor—
Road Commissioner—Thos. McHugh.
Treasurer—James McCray, Kane City.
School Directors—John Walters, Hutchinson, for 3 years.

Mobile mocking birds imitate the policemen's cheery whistle so successfully that the fattest members of the force have been known to run several blocks, with the thermometer up in three figures to succor a suppositious comrade in distress.

There is a very general popular plea in Utica, New York, and thereabout, that because the ball fired by Mrs. McCarty at Mr. Thomson, killed another man, therefore she cannot be convicted of murder. To constitute a murder it is not necessary that the ball should kill the man the pistol was aimed at. If there was the intent of murder when the pistol was discharged, it matters not that the ball did not reach the intended victim, if it killed it was murder, no matter whether the object sought, or a total stranger to the murder.

On the 18th day of May, 1812, Calvin Knowlton was found guilty, by T. R. Hawley, J. P. of the State of Ohio, of riding from the township of Morgan to the township of Lebanon, with his sweetheart on Sunday, before sunset, the J. P. defining this to be "breaking the laws of morality." The fine imposed was one dollar.

It is an insult to God. Leave that to the children. You men and women who have been laboring all summer, ought at least to put a ten-cent bill on the plate. Many of you foolish women spend hundreds of dollars in silks and satins, and when you come to the house of the Lord, put a penny on the plate!"
