REPUBLICAN MEETING!

The Republicans of Petroleum Centre and vicinity, are requested to meet at the office of S. Reynolds, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 14, at eight o'clock sharp. A general attendance is requested as business of importance will come before the meeting.

By order Com.

On Saturday the workmen on the Warren & Venango Railroad were paid off, and improved the occasion yesterday to spend their money and get drunk. Several of them, after imbibing vast quantities of villainous lightning tanglefoot, proceeded to the Oil Exchange Hotel and while in the dining room at the dinner hour, kicked up a row and had to be put out by Mr. Johnson, the landlord, after breaking a lot of dishes and scattering the victuals around the floor. After going out of the dining room they went into the reading room and engaged in a quarrel, sooting in so outrageous a manner as to compel Mr. S. to send for officer McHugh, who arrested and confined in the lockup over night, Daniel Reagan, Patrick Smith and John McCarty. This morning the prisoners were brought before Justice Reynolds who imposed a fine of 50 cents and costs on Reagan; $1.00 and costs on McCarty, and $2.00 and costs on Smith.

In justice to Mr. Johnson, it is proper to state that the drunken men got no liquor at his house. The Oil Exchange is a temperance house, and Mr. Johnson has always maintained the reputation of the hotel as being a quiet and orderly stopping place for travelers and home boarders, and he proposes to maintain good order if it "takes a leg" or neck for that matter, "which we rise to remark" is just what he should do.

According to the statement of the men, the liquor was procured at the Noon-Day House, kept by one Loxler. This house we believe has a license to sell liquor on week days but not on Sundays or to intoxicated men. For the sake of law and order and a decent respect to God's holy day, we hope their story is untrue. But if they did procure ardent spirits of the proprietor of that house, on the Sabbath day, we give him fair warning that the law abiding portion of community will see to it that he respects the Sabbath day and lives up to the letter and spirit of the license granted him by the Court. Nuff-said.

A new book and lender company has been organized at Oil City.

NEW OIL FIELD.—About three miles N. E. of the East Sandy oil district, there has been a well put down in which was found quite a good sand rock, and a most wonderful flow of gas, nearly, if not altogether, equal to the famous "gas well" of Sandy, but as yet no oil has been obtained from it. The owners, New York parties, continue to pump it, hoping to exhaust the flow of gas and obtain oil in paying quantities.

Directly east of this well, and distant about one-half mile, is another well just in the third sand, with every indication of a good well, the rock being loose and pebbly. The principal owners are Diamond, Munhall & Co., of Oil City, who, we understand, have a large amount of land leased and purchased in that section. Judging from the appearance of the country, and taking the "belt" theory, we would be induced to think that a new and valuable field is about being opened to operators.—[Emmenton Sun.

THE RACES.—On Saturday last, according to previous announcement, the races were held on the ice, at Petroleum Centre, and the attendance was large. The managers, Messrs. Hamilton & Arnold, carried out the programme to the satisfaction of all. The following were the entries for the different purses:

HOME PURSE—FOUR ENTRIES.
Catfish, by Smawley; Kitty, by Luther; Fire Tail, by Pardee; Billy, by Brady.—Catfish won the two first heats, and Kitty the three last heats and the race.

OPEN TO ALL—ENTRIES.
Jenny Lind, by Hooker; General Grant, by Hubbard; Kitty, by Humphrey; Lady Pierce, by Pierce. Jenny Lind took the two first heats, General Grant the third, and Jenny Lind the last heat, and the race. The double team race did not come off as the entries were not full.

The report published in the Titusville Courier of this morning to the effect that Mr. John Saxby, of the Columbia Farm, had eloped with a married woman, of the same place, named Mrs. Echob, is unfounded at least in many particulars. We have seen Mr. Saxby today, and he assures us that the Courier has been misled by malicious or at least mistaken reports, put in circulation he knows not in what manner or for what purpose. Mr. S. is spoken of among his friends and associates as a young man of good character, and one whom no one would be likely to suspect as capable of so mean and dastardly an act.

Bank Etiquette.

On requesting loans from a bank, if declined, demand a full explanation why and wherefore, stating that having had all your business for years, buying all your stamps, and getting all your bills changed on that bank, you feel it a severe blow to be refused a small favor. If still refused, call hourly and ask as though you had never spoken on the subject before. If this does not avail bring your dinner to the President's room and remain there all day. Faint heart never wins, and if you fail at this point you lack grit.

When your notes become due and payment is requested, ask why they can't wait, and what they intend to do with the money when they get it. If they still persist, inquire if the bank is hard up that they should be in such want for money. Never pay protest fees, but say you forget when this note matured, and that you never pay protest fees any how—you would be d—d first.

When you present to the bank a draft payable to your order, never fail to exhibit profound surprise and fierce indignation that you should be required to be identified as the proper person to receive the money. If the teller persists in this eccentric request affirm boldly how long you have lived at No. 3712 Brown street, and how Timothy Snodgrass has known you all his life.—Stand up for your rights like a man and never say fail.

In banking money spread yourself before the bank counter and count out your shin-plasters bottom side up, one by one, showing them to the teller in sundry parcels, entertaining him meanwhile by a general report of your private affairs. In this manner you not only astonish the bank officials with the display of your money, but by exercising the patience of such nervous customers as may be waiting for their turn, you accomplish a public good.

If you wish to get change from a bank where you keep no account, march in as though you were Secretary Boutwell after a bank report, slip your greenback on the counter, cast a withering stare at the teller and say nothing.

It will be seen that you demand five, which you receive. Hand these back and ask for ones and twos, and when you get seventy nine cents and return the bill with one corner torn off. When you go out slam the door or leave it open, and always whistle. If on your way from the bank your hat blows off and you lose part of the change, return and demand that the bank rectify the mistake in counting. If a demur is made, swear to the truth of your statement, and impeach honesty of the institution before all who may be present.

Banks have high notions, but show them that you know what is what and don't let them fool you.
