Some months since it will be remembered we made a report of a well put down in Tonawanda swamp, a short distance from The sun was chimmerlog in the West, Albion, in the State of New York, under And gilding all the yellow main, the supervision of a New York city company, assisted by the "spirite," spiritual mediume and "things spiritual" in general. except the Oil Creek drillers who put down the hole to the depth 1,400 feet with but little assistance from the spirits, unless occosionally a. little "spirits- frumenti" encourage the inner man. Yesterday, Mr. McManus, of New York city, who has recently purchased the interest of the mortal spirits in the aforesaid well, arrived in town for the purpose of biring several experienced men to tube and test the well. Mr. M. had a letter of introduction to our townsman, Mr. Norman B. Parker, the wetl known contractor, through whose aid be secured the services of E. H. Bligh and Geo. Po.ter, both of whom are experienced engineers and drillers, who will leave on Monday to take charge of the well. It is the latention of Mr. McManus to have a "plug" inserted in the well at a depth of 400 or 500 feet, and test the well at that point. From the surface indications apparent at various places, in the vicinity, he feels confident of striking oil in the spirit well. If not he proposes to sink another one in the same neighborhood. Surface indientions of oil are no criterion to judge by as they can be discovered almost anywhere in this country by those who are at all experienced in oil matters, and the probabilities are that no oil exists there.

Mr. McManus purchased most of his supplies for testing the well at this place, such as working barrels, pipe connections, &c. He also purchased a quantity of Leggett's celebrated Valve Cups, and bought a lot of bress fittings of Bryan, Dillingham R Co., of Titusville.

We fear he will be "hard up since his well run dry," after testing the spiritual well a few weeks. If "disembodied spirits" failed to "strike 11e," his chances are slim.

YUBA DAM.

And tambling shedows from the creet Of gilded mountains to the plain, As, laboring up a water course, A traveler pricked his weary horse; When all at once upon his sight Burst a fair village, clean and bright.

He asked a miner whom he met If he could give its name: "You bet!" "Pray do, my friend, and do not sham," The miner answered "Yuba Dam."

Kind, gentle friend! do not abuse My ignorance; I ery a truce To thy bold wit; come tell me true; I would not ask it if I knew: But I, dear sir' a stranger am, Quick roared the minor: 'Yuba Dam."

Disheartened, on theistanger pressed. And overtook a mincing dame, With flaxen bair and silken vest, And begged of her the village name: She opened her sweet lips like a clam, And simpered gently: "Yuba Dam."

On tore the stranger nearly wild, And came upon an arties child; She had a satubel on her arm, White o'er her face stole many a charm; "Where have you been?" the stranger said The maid uplifted quick her head, And answered, with the ready truth And open frankness of her youth. "At school!" "Who keeps it," Uncle Sam? "What is the place, sweet?" "Yuba Dam!"

"Alas!" be screamed in frantic griet, "Will no one come to my reliet? Will no one tell where I am ?" The schoolboys shouted: "Yuba Dam;" And on the bridge as he did slam, The planks re-renoed: "Yuba Dam."

"Perdition seize the place!" he cried. As through the streets be swiftly hied: Yet e'er he went to bed that night, From semething told him by a wight, He found that he himself had shammed. And that the Yuba has been dammed. -N. Y. Commercial Advertiger.

On Saturday night, as the few who atended the Opera House are aware, the itinerant Zoe Troupe played the "French Spy." Among the actors is a gentleman who went on the boards under the assumed name of J. W. Forrester, but whose real name is J. A. C Pollock. While this Pollock was charming the andience, another drama, in which Mr. Pollock was principal actor. was being played outside. The circumstances are as follows: A short time ago Mr. Pollock, with the Zoe company, played at Pittsburg. While there the actor and his acting captivated the heart of a Miss R., daughter of Mr. A. R., of that city. The result was that Miss R. left the paternal home and took up with Pollock, who married ber under the assumed name of Forrester. As soon as the father of the girl found out the state of effairs, he set out to find his erring daughter and bring her back home. for some time be followed the troupe, but did not overtake them until they arrived in this-city on Sainrday last.

Of course a row immediately ensued .-The old gentleman was determined to take his daughter home, and the daughter was willing to be taken home, but Pollock insisted that his wife should go with him.-Matters went on for an hour or two, when from words they came to blows, the indigface that sent him reeling. Justice Fairissued for R.'s arrest. This was effected, and as the other parties were interested they were also taken in charge. Being in dyspepsia. be hands of the officers of the law some what cooled the excitement of all, and they were constrained to talk the matter over caimly. The result was that the father triumphes, and returned to Pittsburg that same night with his daughter. The girl thus taken from her home is only seventeen years old.
