An alarm of fire about 11 o'clock last night at the store of Mr. O. F. Schonblom, on Main street, was occasioned by the blaze from a lighted kerosene lamp running up through the chimney and setting fire to the ceiling overhead. The fire was first discovered by Mr. Wm. Wilson and night watchman Kinney, who gave the alarm. The door was broken open, and through the exertions of Messrs. Kinney, Hubley, Geo. King, and others, the flames were extinguished and a disastrous conflagration avoided. Had the fire broken out at a later hour, or the wind been blowing at the time, the whole row including the Racoon office, would probably have vanished in a cloud of smoke. Our business men and citizens generally should be exceedingly careful with their lamps, and not leave them burning through the night, unless filled with kerosene, or something of a less inflammable nature than kerosene. A word to the wise in this matter will be sufficient.

Mr. Via Beatty, advance agent for Ethel & Gaylord's Albino Minstrel, is in town today making the necessary arrangements for the appearance of this celebrated troupe who will perform at Sobel's Opera House, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 28th, one night only. This is one of the best company's now traveling, and will undoubtedly draw a full house.

Ell Perkins, who is struggling for fame as a humorist, after writing for the New York Commercial Advertiser enough stuff to make two books of four hundred pages each, states that he is off on a furlough to refresh his memory and take a rest. Would that his rest as a humorist were eternal.

Elizabeth Oady Stanton has the courage to mention the fact that certain women suffragists once picked up an orphan boy, bought him nice clothes, educated him for the ministry, and when they went to hear his first sermon were struck with consternation to hear the text: "Let the women keep silent in the church."

A grave has been discovered in Hickman county, Kentucky, supposed to contain the remains of one of De Toet's companions.

GOOD KEROSENE SAFER THAN GAS OR CANDLES.—The causes of fires in London, England, during the year 1871, are stated to have been as follows:

Candles	269
Gas	162
Luifaces and fuses	94
Lamps	52
Spilling over oil, etc	25
Vapor of spirit	5
Drawing off paraffine oil	1
" "spirit	1

Now, by these statistics it does not appear that petroleum, which is largely used in this city, is so prolific a source of fires as either candles or gas. These who get up sensational stories relative to the dangers of kerosene will in future do themselves credit by referring to statistics. Kerosene of standard quality is the cheapest, as it is the most brilliant illuminator. It may also, by the above showing, (in a city where the laws against adulteration are stringent,) be said to be the safest illuminator, superior in that respect to all others.

An item is going the rounds of the exchanges stating that a woman school teacher in Utica, Wisconsin, allows the pupils five minutes to go out and see the railway train when it passes. That is a sensible teacher. In old times the windows of school houses were built so high as to prevent the little prisoners from looking out, and an elephant might pass by and the little urochins be compelled to keep their eyes on their books, lest they might, through the open door, catch a glimpse of the animal. No wonder boys and girls came to hate school hours, and to look upon them as the darkest of the twenty-four. That woman teacher in Wisconsin is sound in her head; she favors "object teaching;" she would give a recess were a menagerie to pass, or a circus band go by, and the children would study all the harder for the indulgence.

"Which we wish to remark" that L. C. Magaw & Co., of Oil City, have the largest stock of groceries and provisions, flour, hams, lard, and everything usually found in a wholesale store, in the entire oil region. They came in possession of them during a reign of low prices, and of course will sell correspondingly. Everybody who has been at Oil City will hardly have failed to notice their establishment, in Reynolds & Rukill's Block, corner of Sycamore and South Elm streets, it being the largest establishment of the kind in the city. The stock comprises large quantities of groceries; stacks of provisions; hundreds of barrels of flour; huge piles of smoked hams; quillets of fish, and many other articles too numerous to mention, which they sell at notoriously low prices. To add that customers are courteously and promptly served would be useless. Those of our retail dealers in groceries and provisions will find it to their advantage to deal with Messrs Magaw & Co. Read their advertisement.

We may mention here that the new firm have secured the services of that good fellow and thorough clerk, Mr. Hoover Shannon, long and favorably known throughout the oil region. Mr. Shannon is well known in Petroleum Centre, and will be pleased to have his old friends call and see him when visiting Oil City.

An Iowa paper informs us that Miss Ella Now, of Osaquo, is the coming Winnie Ream." The public will be sincerely grieved to learn this fact. They were in hopes that Winnie was the only abet in that Ream.

Eric, Pa., a city which has continued to grow in spite of the adverse influences of a few hundred gas wells, is about to be depopulated at least, and the inhabitants must flee. Somebody there has advertised for "100 young men to play the accordion."—Chicago Times.

We have always thought, says the New York Express, that the ladies might have their ear-rings of some practical value, especially in travelling. If, for instance, they would wear a good-sized valise in one ear and an ordinary lunch-basket in the other.

A score or so of Chicago weddings, for which every preparation but one had been made, had to be postponed lately because of an unfortunate interim between the retirement of one county clerk and the appointment of his successor.

In the Lehigh Valley there are twenty-eight iron furnaces, whose aggregate annual product, as appears by a statement compiled for the Mauch Chunk Coal Gazette, is three hundred and seventy-eight thousand tons. The total product of pig iron in the United States during 1871 is estimated at two million tons. Nearly one-fifth therefore, of the present annual product of the country is made in this one valley.

"Why doesn't your father take a newspaper?" asked a man of a little boy whom he found pilfering one from his doorstep. "Cause he'd rather send me to take it," was the reply.

Woodhull Frothing Again.

Following are verbatim extracts from the lecture of Victoria Woodhull, delivered on Saturday evening last, before the principal advocates of woman's suffrage in Washington:

I here impeach the clergy of the United States [great and continued applause.] as dishonest and hypocritical, since the best of them acknowledge that they do not dare to preach the whole truth, for if they should, they would have to preach to empty seats—an admission sufficiently damnable to consign them to the contempt of the world and to the hell of which they prate so knowingly, but whose location they have not been able to determine. I told Matt Carpenter to-day, when he told me that I should be imprisoned because I spoke so disrespectfully of the Constitution, that I hated it; that I would spit on Congress. It is a stretch in the nostrils of the people, and to overthrow it I told him I would raise a revolution. That's why I come before the people, and I mean to succeed. (Applause.)—He said I would find myself in Fortress Monroe. I wish I could put all in Congress there. [Laughter.] To-day a Congressman said to me: "Now, Woodhull, just be quiet and let's bridge this over for a year or so, and you will come out all right." Matt Carpenter said to-day, "If you are to have your rights at all, you will get them through the Republican party." We will have them through no party but that of the people. I am going to begin a revolution, [applause.] I mean to stump every State from Maine to California to accomplish it. [Great applause.]

The passengers who had been "snowed up" on the Union Pacific Railroad arrived at Mills station Monday morning, and were met by a train from Oakland loaded with all the delicacies of the season. A magnificent bouquet of flowers, embracing almost every variety, and all grown in the open air, was presented to each passenger. California now presents the appearance of the Western States in June. There was much grumbling among the passengers, despite these delicate attentions, of the Union Pacific officials.

THE SECRET OF CAPTIVATION.—Features of Grecian mould, a well-turned neck and beautifully rounded arms, are no doubt very nice things to have, and ladies who possess these charms have reason to be thankful to Mother Nature; yet, after all, the most captivating of all womanly charms is a pure, fresh and brilliant complexion. This superlative fascination any lady may secure by using Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM, the standard beautifying preparation of the present age. It differs from all ordinary cosmetics in three most essential particulars, inasmuch as it contains no injurious ingredients, does not contract or shrivel the skin as all "the astringent" "blotchers" lotions and "powders" eventually do, but produces a lasting loveliness by improving the health of the skin. Under its operation the texture of the epidermis becomes finer, and the surface soft as velvet and smooth as porcelain. Features cannot be changed, but complexion can, and it is quite certain that a lady with no other charm than a fresh and rosy complexion, will attract more admiration in company than her neighbor with a classic face but a sallow skin.

A woman was walking and a man looked at her and followed her. The woman said: "Why do you follow me?" He answered: "Because I have fallen in love with you." The woman said: "Why are you in love with me? My sister is much handsomer. She is coming after me; go and make love to her." The man turned back and saw a woman with an ugly face. Being greatly displeased, he went again to the other woman, and said: "Why did you tell a story?" The woman answered: "Neither did you speak the truth; for if you were in love with me why did you go after another woman?"

Miss Vienna Demorest is now engaged in a very successful series of concerts in some of the Western cities. She will sing in Dr. Devm's Church of the Stranger on Thursday evening next, 23d instant.

It is estimated that fully one third of the population of Harrisburg about eight thousand people are suffering from diarrhoea.

The steamer Jamestown is being repaired and put in readiness for the business of the coming season. Theo. Gaudin will have her in charge, and will make her a popular craft with the public.

There are to be twelve vessels built in Bath, Maine, this season, and it is expected more will be contracted for. These were built in the district of Bath last season over fifty vessels, with tonnage amounting to 13,711 tons.

Articles of silver offered as wedding presents have been voted, not exactly vulgar, but "uncultivated and unrefined." Instead of these, works of art, statues and paintings, something about which a sentiment can be entwined, "are henceforth to be the things to proffer to the newly wedded."

The first woman voter of Wyoming was an old lady 70 years of age, who voted on her way from the baker's, and went to the polls with a yeast pitcher in one hand and the ballot in the other.
