The heavy rain of last night, dampened the ardor of the picnickers somewhat, and much disappointment was felt in consequence, this morning, by the members of Petroleum Centre Lodge of Odd Fellows.—About nine o'clock, however, the skies began to brighten up somewhat, and the arrival of the Columbia Band was the signal for the members to gather. A little after ten the procession was formed and marched to the depot to welcome the Oil City, Rousseville and Dempseytown Lodges, who each sent a large delegation. At 12 M., the clouds having disappeared, the procession was formed and marched to the grove, and up to the hour of going to press everything is passing off pleasantly.

The Warren & Venango Railroad Company are pushing work lively along the Brokenstraw Valley.

From our friend Mitchell, the contractor at this end of the route, we learn the work of grading is being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible. Between Petroleum Centre and the Rynd Farm the work is nearly finished, excepting at the upper end of the Columbia Farm. Between here and Titusville, at the disputed points, the Titusville & Petroleum Centre Railroad Company have a gang of hands at work grading. At other points the W. & V. Co. are still at work. Mr. M. thinks the road is an assured fact.

A tank on the Robinson Farm, containing five hundred barrels of oil, exploded one day last week. But little of the oil was saved.

The husband-poisoning business seems to have had a fresh impetus lately. This is not calculated to inspire comfortable feelings in the breasts of timid husbands who live unhappily with their wives. While we have no doubt that arsenic is very useful in its place, we cannot believe that its place in the gruel one's better half prepares for her sick spouse. Verily, this Borgia business should be stopped.

POLICE REPORT.—On Saturday night last, on information of G. Barney McCalmont, (the renowned "limb" who brought suit against the Record for libel) a warrant was issued for the arrest of one Louise Spencer, a fair but fallen angel residing at the mouth of Bennehoff Run, she being charged with the larceny of a watch from the room of the prosecutor. At the hearing defendant plead not guilty, asserting that she had claims against the prosecutor, and demanded a trial by jury. On summoning a jury the case was withdrawn by McCalmont, he paying the costs. While the jury was being drawn, Louise proceeded to "preach a little sermon," in which she accused the prosecutor in language rather more expressive than choice, of laying around her house in a drunken condition, and refusing to leave, acting in an outrageous manner, etc., etc. After ventilating the matter to her heart's content, Louise walked off still muttering threats of dire vengeance on the head of G. Barney.

Subsequent events proved that Louise Spencer, the defendant in the above case, was possessed of none of those meek and gentle qualities attributed to female women. "She sighed for revenge," and later in the evening she appeared before Justice Reynolds and on oath made information against the said McCalmont, charging him with violently and forcibly entering her aforesaid house and being drunk and disorderly therein or thereabouts. G. Barney was arrested this morning, and entered bail in the sum of $50 to appear before Justice Reynolds, on Monday next, to answer the charge. Louise "swears by the gods" to make it warm for the defendant. "Was ever client so abused."

This noon, Justice Reynolds and Constable Atwell, arrested a man named McHenry, otherwise known as the "Corn Doctor," for being drunk and disorderly on the street. The defendant was on horseback riding around very loosely, to the imminent danger of pedestrians. He was placed in the lockup.

According to the daily reports of the New York papers, that city is becoming an extremely dangerous place for the sojourn of strangers. With a police force of fully 2,200 men, general lawlessness and murder are increasing to an extent that is alarming, and in certain quarters of the city it is absolutely unsafe for any decent person to venture. The record of last week is thus summed up by the New York Times: During the week which ended Saturday eight dead bodies were found floating near our city docks, an unknown woman was found dead in the street, and a prominent German citizen mysteriously disappeared. In nearly every instance these persons were foully murdered, else their bodies would not have borne the marks of the bludgeon, the knife or the pistol. If we add to this list two cases of murder in which the ante mortem testimony of the victims has already proved the guilt of murderers, and the numerous murderous assaults which have occurred during the week, some of which may yet end fatally, we have a record of crime and violence which hardly any other city of Christendom can parallel.

Patents issued from the Patent Office to Pennsylvania inventors for the week ending May 28:

Air engine, Wm. Alworth, Scranton.
Grab for extracting well tool, James H. Luther, Petroleum Centre.

Washing machine, George S. Walker and Frank F. Adams, Erie.

Swivel for rock and well boring machines, James H. Luther, Petroleum Centre.

A touching incident is reported from Chattanooga, Tenn. An utter stranger called on a respectable farmer last week, and asked him if his house had not been robbed during the war. The farmer replied that it had. "I," said the stranger, "was one of the marauding party that did it. I took a little silver locket." "That locket," said the farmer, bursting into tears, "had been worn by my dear, dear child." "Here it is," replied the stranger, visibly affected; "I am rich; let me make restitution; here are $20 for your little son." He gave the farmer a $50 bill, and received $30 in change. He then wrung the farmer's hand warmly and left. The farmer has since dried his tears and loaded his shot gun. The $50 bill was bad.

The Elmira papers say that Williamsport was perfectly crazy over Barnum's circus which showed there. The newspapers of that city slopped over with gossamer accounts; the boys were wild with delight, the young ladies fairly beside themselves at sight of a "Dolly Varden" zebra, and several married men actually offered their mother-in-law to the cannibals for a square, (but tough) meal.

Half-mourning is popularly known in Pennsylvania as "Pittsburgh sunshine."

What sort of accent is a decent? A trip up, for it brings—you down.

Parker Oil Field.

BUTLER COUNTY.

A correspondent writes to us from Butler, Butler county, under date of June 4th, as follows:

"The developments in Butler county are assuming magnificent proportions. The cry is no longer 'soap mines,' but 'oil! the whole county is oil!' Every advance well is an increased success—entering at Bear Creek at 30 and 40 barrel wells, and increasing at the McClymonds well to over 100 barrels. The wells are deep, but the drilling easy, many wells being completed to a depth of 1300 to 1400 feet in less than sixty days. Here is the oil man's Paradise; big wells and, so far, no dry holes."

"The field is being rapidly leased and bought up at high figures; and another year will carry the advance line of developments across the county, and many of our quiet, unassuming farmers will have become millionaires. During this time, and for years to come, many millions of dollars will be invested in real estate in this county, and many more millions expended in operations, that will pop into the pockets of our farmers and business men for the products of farms workshops."

"We will also receive a large accession to our population of men of wealth and moral worth—and already the tidal wave of immigration is sweeping down upon us from the upper county, and they are coming with their wives and families to make this their home, and like the children of Israel, they leave not their tents and flocks behind them, but come with their houses and derricks and all the paraphernalia of an oil country; and already we can boast of conglomerate cities composed of fragments of the towns of Pleasantville, Pithole, Cash U, Red Hot, &c., and all day long our highways are crowded with teams freighted with buildings and oil material from the upper county—with heavy sprinkling of speculators in fancy turn-outs or horseback, riding at 240 speed to get the first chance of running their hands into somebody's pocket; but 'Buckwheats' don't bite.

"Real estate in the 'soap mines' is in great demand, selling at from $300 to $1,000 per acre, and very little offering; but still, those who have come here have found satisfactory locations, 'and still they come!' and we say, let them come;—we have oil land enough to make them all rich, and soap enough to wash them all clean.

"Oil struck at Jamison's Mill, eight miles north of Butler."—[Oilman's Journal.

SHOOTING AFFAIR.—At the Oil Exchange Hotel, Parker's Landing, on Friday of last week, a man named Fitzpatrick was abusing a couple of Italian musicians who were playing there. The clerk of house attempted to put Fitzpatrick out, when he drew a pistol with the intention of shooting or alarming the clerk; in the scuffle the pistol was discharged and the ball penetrated the thigh of one Fitzgerald, who happened to be in the house at the time, inflicting a slight wound. Fitzpatrick was taken before Esquire Fullerton, and sent to jail in default of $1,000 bail.

CHICAGO STILL AHEAD.—The Chicago Advance, a paper usually edited with great care, even to its smallest items, stated a few weeks ago that an artesian well recently bored by J. V. Farwell & Co., in their new store, was discharging water at the rate of 10,000 gallons per minute. That doesn't sound very strange for one minute, but when the minutes in a day are multiplied by it, and we find a total of 14,400,000 gallons in a day, or about fifty gallons for every inhabitant of Chicago, a quantity equal to half a month's production of petroleum in the entire oil region, and when we are told further that the whole amount comes out through a 4 1/2 inch hole, we are inclined to think that there is a mistake somewhere.

The Emperor of China is soon to be married. A-lu's is the chosen lady. Three other ladies have been selected for his future harem. He is not yet sixteen. The astrologers have been ordered to fix on a lucky day in October for the marriage ceremony.

The shipment of oil over the Atlantic & Great Western Railway, from Oil City, during the month of May, amounted to 26,200 barrels of crude, and 2,186 barrels of refined.

The boating season on Chautauque Lake promises to be a lively one. Every craft on the lake is in good condition, and the people fond of a sail on so beautiful a sheet of water, can always be accommodated.

Some twenty of the most expert thieves in the country travel along with Barnum's big show. Look out for them on show day.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Dolly Varden calico is found to be excellent for mackerel bait.

Imagine the distress of a milliner who forgot on which side of the rose to put the hat.

A natural spring that will intoxicate, situated near Kern River, Cal., is delighting the Indians of that city.

The Japs who are pursuing their studies at the Chicago University wear their plugs with reckless grace.

Miss Paulina Given of the Des Moines Register, is said to be the only lady in Iowa who is given to journalism.

They do not know much about farming in Hartford, and a small Bridgeport boy has been selling them snuff beans for flower seeds.

The junk dealers of Chicago have organized a protective association, to which none other than the honorable junk dealer will be admitted.

Fish are so thick in Clear Lake, California, that a voracious citizen says: "It is only necessary to wade in and choose your fish, the difficulty being which fish, to choose."

A base-ballist last week found it necessary to knock one of his fingers into splinters, before he could satisfy himself that another person was an equally good "catch."

A lady seeking a situation became interested in the advertisement of a rich widower who wanted a lady to do light house-keeping. So she wrote to the advertiser, asking where the lighthouse was, and if there was any way of getting to sleep on Sundays.

THE CULTURE OF THE HAIR.—Just as surely as soil intended with Canadian stubbles can be made to produce fine crops of golden grain, the scalp now sparsely covered with harsh, dry, unmanageable hair can be made prolific of silken tresses. All that is necessary to effect the change in either case is the right kind of fertilizer.—Leaving the agricultural chemists to determine how the barren land shall be made fruitful, we positively assert that Lyon's Kathairon is unequalled as a fertilizer and beautifier of the hair. Twenty years of success is the basis of this unqualified statement. During that time it has been used by many millions of both sexes, and the first instance in which it has failed to fulfill the expectations of a rational purchaser has yet to be discovered. It will not cause hair to grow on a vanished gourd; but wherever the root of the hair fibers remain undisturbed, it will cause them to put forth new shoots, and in all cases where the hair has become thin it will increase its volume.

The St. Louis Republican knows of a poet who wishes to go into the obituary business, because he thinks he can excel. Judging from his first effort we believe he is right. Here is a specimen of what he can do:
Here lies the body of Matthew Penn,
When did he die? of what? can't tell?
He died on Wednesday of a wen;
Then ask no more, he wore it well.

Here lies the corpse of Patience Doe.
Who bore through life a cancer;
She always smiled—yet wished to go;
It did no good to lance her.

GAR.—In 1792 Mr. William Murdoch first used gas for lighting his office and house Redruth, Cornwall. The Birmingham manufacturers at once adopted the invention.

A Titusville angel ate seven dishes of ice cream the other evening, and then asked her bean to excuse her as she had eaten a very hearty supper of mush and milk.

Welcome showers of rain continue to favor this locality.

The House Wife's Comfort!

S. FISHER'S

Renovating Mixture.

FOR WASHING & SCRUBBING PURPOSES.

It washes clean, and gives a very clear and beautiful appearance to the fabric, and will set the color in calicoes. For cleaning grease spots out of carpets, broad cloths, washing linen and cotton goods, and for scrubbing it cannot be surpassed. It saves a large amount of labor, and does away with scrubbing brushes.
It does not injure the finest texture, for the simple reason that its affinity is for grease or oil, changing them to soap, and thus loosening any substance with which they may be combined. It is instant death to bed bugs.

Petroleum Centre, June 4, 1872.
Having tried Fisher's Mixture I take pleasure in recommending it to housekeepers as being everything that is claimed for it. B. REYNOLDS.
