The Crawford (Me) Mirror is a weekly paper printed in the woods, upon a farm four miles from Steelville, the county seat, to which point the paper is sent for circulation. The situation is described as most beautiful, "surrounded as it is by nature in all her pristine loveliness—woods, wild flowers, myriads of birds singing all day, and at night the call of the Whip-poor-will, the hoot of the owl, and the howl of the wolf." The editor gives, among others, the following reason for selecting that location. "We own the office, and mean to do what we please with it; we own the house, which we have fitted up to suit ourselves; and we own the farm (of 230 acres) on which the printing house stands. We have six children, (the youngest ten years old,) all of whom can and do set type. Our oldest daughters, Nellie and Dollie, can each set one thousand ems of type per hour a day; they also write stories for the paper, editorials, locals, etc., and can use the scissors judiciously; while the eyes of our youngest daughter begin to exhibit a poetically frenzied appearance."

A guibing writer in an English journal on fashion says: "Chignons fall en cascade down the back and ripple under waves of lace, which tumble in chaotic confusion from the top of the new, flat-crowned hats."
