There was quite a respectable turnout at the Producers' Meeting, last evening. The prevailing sentiment appeared to be in favor of shutting down the wells in this District if fully assured that it is to be a universal thing.

Some time ago ago the Parker District got enthusiastic over the shutting down of drilling wells. The plan was concurred in here and carried out to the letter and spirit, but was a fizzle from the start in the place of its birth.

When it is fully demonstrated by acts and deeds that the producers are in earnest and mean business down below, we doubt not our District will acquiesce.

In the meantime let us organize well and thoroughly. We are ready then to accept or reject propositions presented. As David Crockett says, we want to "be sure we are right, then go ahead."

The meeting adjourned subject to call when lower districts are heard from.

The Republican meeting was quite largely attended, and much enthusiasm prevailed. The speaker, Mr. McKinley, of New Castle, delivered a forcible and eloquent speech, explaining the political questions of the day thoroughly from a Republican standpoint. The address was listened to throughout with marked attention, and was frequently interrupted with applause.

The producers of the Ninth District held a meeting at the office of J. D. Walmer, Rynd Farm, yesterday afternoon. The same opinions prevail there that exists here on the question of shutting down.

The great gas well on the Carrier farm, Sugar creek township, Venango county, is now supplying 25 wells on the Galloway farm with fuel and light. So far there has been no decrease in the flow of gas.

American tourists are now returning from Europe in large numbers, and it is necessary to engage passage from the other side several weeks ahead.

English boots and shoes are now in great demand in our American markets. They are not handsome, but broad, comfortable and well made.

Horace Greeley to be in Titusville.

He Will Pass Through Petroleum Centre,

By special telegram we learn that Horace Greeley is to be in Titusville, this afternoon. Here is the dispatch:

TITUSVILLE, Pa. Sept. 25.

Greeley will arrive in Titusville at 4 p. m. to-day on a special train from Corry. Goes through to Meadville to-night. W. C. P. A dispatch to the Democratic and Liberal Club of this place says:

CORRY, Pa., Sept. 25, —2:30 p. m.

Mr. Greeley will reach your place at about 4:30. M. N. ALLEN.

PRODUCERS' MEETING.

A meeting of the producers of the 11th District, was held at the Grant & Wilson Club Room, last evening, which was quite largely attended.

On motion, F. J. Keffer was elected chairman of the meeting. The chairman in a few words stated the objects of the meeting to be an expression of the views of the producers in regard to the shutting down of pumping wells for the ensuing forty days, and invited those present to give their ideas on the subject.

Mr. L. P. Walker said, that as Chairman of the District Committee, he had been requested to call this meeting by the President of the Producers' Union, and that he would like to hear from all present.

The chairman stated that as an individual he was opposed to signing any further pledge. For one he had already signed several documents, the agreements contained in which had never been fulfilled, and he was not prepared to vote for or against the proposition to shut down until he was fully satisfied the producers were acting in good faith.

Capt. Powers agreed with the chairman, and thought the lower district had not acted squarely towards the Creek producers in the matter of a suspension of drilling for six months.

Mr. Walker stated that he could not shut down his wells without damaging them beyond repair, still he stood ready to do anything that lay in his power for the general good of the region.

Some further remarks were made by different producers, after which the meeting adjourned until further was heard from the lower region.

Mr. Editor:—However producers may differ as to the proper thing to do, when all agree that something must be done, there can be no difference of opinion as to the need for organizing. By remaining in our present helpless condition, we only invite the cupidity of combinations against us. The very moment we show a full square front, a capacity to act as a unit, the battle is gained. With the P. P. Union reorganized, officered by men who are recognized as leading operators, and with a constitution and by laws that all can obey and respect, we can produce just as much oil as we choose and do injustice to none. Sell 15,000 barrels a day for one-third more than we get for 19,000 barrels, and save to ourselves and families the expense of drilling and pumping out 4000 barrels difference. We can take the Bull by the horns and adapt him henceforth as a presiding Deity.

KNICKERBOCKER.

A bevy of young ladies, while crossing a creek in the vicinity of Meadville, by moonlight, thought they observed a goose swimming in the water, and began pelting it with stones, when they were greatly astonished by hearing the aforesaid goose exclaim: "Why can't you let a feller alone? I ain't bothering you folks any."

CANADA OIL NEWS.—In our last we mentioned that Meers Ribbigny and Brake were about testing two new wells, and we learn the one to the north of the Lancaster and Co., well, near the burned well, is not in a very flourishing condition. The one to the west, however, is pronounced as yielding 40 barrels a day. The new well of Hyde and Co., to the east of the Temperance well, is drilling, and to the south-west McGill & Co., and Anderson, Porter & Co., are busy with rigs. Hayden and Jones well No. 2, towards the north part of the Laube territory, is pumping, and produces about 15 barrels a day. The Coryell well upon the Thomas and Co., sub-division, has been delayed for want of water, but it is expected to be down this week. Kennedy and Jeffrey are building a rig for their No. 8, between Nos. 6 and 7, opposite the new rig of Col. Shoemaker; Lawson and Co. will commence drilling the latter at once. By the way, the new well of Lawson, Grange & Co., is a good one; and also the "Plough boy" near by. A. and S. Keith are busy with Col. Shoemaker's new well to the east of "Old Hickory" and "Iron Duke," and the rig to the south of the latter well is nearly ready for the same owner.

The Hessey and Craize well, and F. Smith, Dunlop and Polley well, upon the Webster territory, are being tested and yield liberally. The new well of Garner and Co., is nearly completed, with a good show; while the Loughered and Co., and F. Smith, Wright and Co. wells, on the Webster farm, are drilling. McMillan well, on the Graham farm, north of Marthaville is being tested—yield 15 barrels.

The Western Co., are busy going over the old district, giving it a thorough test; and it is expected that enough good wells will be secured to more than bear all expenses in the venture. Certain this Company is in earnest in the search for the precious fluid.—Petrolia (Ont.) Advertiser.

A Ute Scalp Dance.

[Los Pinos Correspondence Denver News.] After the etiquette of the occasion was over, the Mauche Utes showed us what was their pleasing custom whenever a good and glossy scalp fell into their hands, by dancing a scalp dance, shouting, screaming, drumming and yelling, while an old and haggard and wrinkled squaw kept the old bucks to their work by joining in the breakdown and working assiduously in the semi-religious observance. It was all a weird and strange and unusual sight, and the dirt and the creepers and the stolid indifference of the average Indians disappeared entirely from the mind, and in their place came up very unpleasant imaginings of very lively shinning around that pack of ferocious, and yet very tame bycuses turn loose upon you.—They used up all the breath and power and muscle they had, passed in review again, and went off crooning some very unmusical air, and all was quiet.

It is not strange in these degenerate days to hear of men having snakes in their boots, but the snake which troubled a Kentuckian, the other day, was in the lining of his coat. Upon cutting the lining his snakeship—two feet long—slipped out and was killed. One man who witnessed the exit of the snake from the coat turned nine over-headed somersaults.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

By the wide lake's margin I marked her lie—
The wide, weird lake, where the alders sigh—
A young, fair thing, with a shy, soft eye;
And I deemed that her thoughts had flown
To her home, and her brethren, and her sisters dear,
As she lay there watching the dark, deep mere.
All motionless, all alone.

Then I heard a noise, as of some men and boys,
And a boisterous troop drew nigh.
Whither now will retreat those fairy feet?
Where hide till the storm pass by?
One glance, the wild glance of a hunted thing.
She cast behind her; she gave one spring.
And there followed a splash and a broadening ring,
On the lake where the alders sigh.

She had gone from the ken of ungentle men!
Yet scarce did I moan for that;
For I knew she was safe in her own home then,
And, the danger past, would appear again,
For—she was a water-rat.

Thought He Was Drunk.

A dinner party was in progress during the brilliant display of northern lights, and a gentleman stepping out to cool his burning brow, was startled by the display about the frosty pole. He stood perfectly amazed, then turning to the window he saw within the wife of his bosom sitting with the ladies waiting for their liege lords to end their champagne and cigars. Pushing aside the lace curtain, he beckoned Mrs. Agnes——to come out. She complied, when he said to her solemnly: "Wagnes, d'er see anything extrony now?" "Yes, Dolly, I see that you have been drinking too much wine." "No, not that, Wagnes; I mean extrony phronomonous in atmosphere." "Why—where, Dolly?" "Upper yonder, Wagnes." "Why, dear me, yes; I do indeed—the most brilliant Aurora I ever saw." "Wagnes, are things a scootin'?" "Yes, dear." "An' a flashin', Wagnes?" "Yes, Dolly." "An' a sorter spreandin' an' dancin'—eh, ho!" laughed the husband, much relieved. "Do you know, Wagnes—I mead Hagnes—when I come an' saw the celestial phronomonous a glowin' upper yonder, d—a me effer I didn't think I was drunk."

The Battle of the Ants.

A Missouri schoolmaster sends to the St. Louis Republican an account of a battle between large black ants, great numbers of which infested his temple of learning. Entering his school house a few mornings ago, he found the floor strewn with dead and dying ants, and a desperate battle among them, which had evidently been going on all night, as the dead outnumbered those still engaged. Most of the belligerents were grappled in a deadly embrace, while others, but lately commenced were standing erect on their hind legs, striving for the advantage with all the skill and science of the most experienced swordsmen. The most fatal point of attack, and the one for which it seems all contended, was the ligament which joined the main body with the head. This vital member once seized the powerful nippers, death succeeded without a struggle, and the victor was ready and eager for another engagement.

No undue advantage was taken by either party; and no two would endeavor to overpower a single one; nor was there any flinching or wavering in a single instance, for whenever two belligerents met it was certain death to one or both parties. The battle lasted two nights and a day, and only ended with the annihilation of one of the contending armies. There was a slight difference in the appearance of the contestants, one set being perfectly black with a large head, while the other was nearly brown with a smaller head, though both about equally matched in size and strength.

A mechanic employed in the carriage shop of Arthur Wood, 32 Waterloo street, telegraphed to a friend a few days since as follows: "Come right away, good job;" which, under the skillful manipulation of the operator, read, when delivered, "Come right away; good God." The receiver of the dispatch, fearing that his friend had met with some terrible accident hastened to the city as soon as possible, in no enviable state of mind, and was very agreeably disappointed on learning the mistake.—Grand Rapids Democrat.
