The Tidoute Journal of a late date has an article against the Oil City Derrick's setting up the claim of being the only paper in the region true to the producer's cause. The Journal waxes wroth and uses bad language for a respectable sheet. The Derrick has done much for the cause, but no one supposes for a moment they have done all. The Record, from the first, has done its "level best" to sustain the producers of this region in the war against monopoly, simply because it is a question of right and justice, future prosperity and advancement of the industries of the great oil region of Pennsylvania, or ruination and poverty at the hands of rings, combinations, plunderers and thieves. It is not a sectional question but interests every man in the oil region. Titusville and Oil City have no more at stake than Petroleum Centre, Tidoute or Parker's Landing. If one suffers, all must. Consequently, we consider it the bounden duty of every man interested in the oil trade or in business in the region, to lend their time and influence and money in support of the Petroleum Producer's Agency in their efforts to crush out monopolies and combinations.

Whatever this Journal has done towards that end, the producers are welcome to whatever benefits may be derived from it. We shall continue to "go one better" until combinations are eternally crushed out in this region. "Stand to your guns, men."

Further "come down." The Titusville Herald of this morning publishes the original plan of the Petroleum Producer's Agency. Good enough.

The Argentine government has offered a premium of twenty-five thousand dollars for the discovery of a workable seam of coal. A paper mill is about to be erected in Buenos Ayres. The government has been authorized by Congress to take a hundred shares in a woolen cloth factory.

GOOD NEWS!

One Million Dollars Subscribed to the Petroleum Producer's Agency.

"Now by St. George! The Work Goes Bravely On!"

OIL CITY, Nov. 6.

TO PETROLEUM CENTRE RECORD:

Nearly one million subscribed, and more than balance pledged.

Eleventh District actual subscription, Ninety-two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars, [$92,200.]

The District pledged to go one hundred thousand.

McCray has done nobly.

J. A. VERA.

By the above telegram it will be seen that the stock of the Petroleum Producer's Agency has all been subscribed for or that amount pledged. This is good news, and now all that remains is to perfect the plan in its details, and we shall soon have the pleasure of announcing—"Oil, Five Dollars per Barrel!" and an appropriate obituary notice of the death of the Refiner's Combination alias South Improvement Co.

All honor to the noble producers of the Eleventh District. One Hundred Thousand Dollars worth of Stock Taken, and no "shaking hands across the bloody chasm" either. Good day, Combination.

The arrest of Mrs. Victoria Woodhull and Tannie C. Claffin, for an outrageous and indecent libel on prominent citizens of New York, is the most exciting topic next to the election in New York city. These infamous creatures have about run their race, and their most recent publication caps the climax of their degradation. A perusal of their paper plainly indicates a knowledge of affairs that pure-minded women never could learn the circumstantiality with which they are detailed exhibits a familiarity with the dress and outcasts of society that is disgusting. These women are in the hands of the law, and the punishment they have boldly courted will doubtless be meted out to them promptly.

There is a strange epidemic of crime and casualty pervading this community just now. The knife in the hands of the murderer is being piled with unusual freedom, while the rope is doing the work for the suicide. The remedy for the first is in the hands of the Courts, and if promptly and impartially applied, will prove efficacious. What the remedy may be for the awful crime of suicide has never yet been discovered and never will be. There is also a too great frequency of death by rail, the victims in nearly all cases being brakemen. These railroad "accidents" are chiefly the result of carelessness and negligence on the part of the victims, and might be averted if these railroad employees did not feel so secure in their exemption from danger. [Pittsburgh Mail.]

A pair of silver spectacles was picked up on the street the first night of the Wallace Sisters entertainment. They can be had at this office on paying for this notice.

A sea captain suggests that the signal service may be made infinitely more useful and effective by signals from the light houses on the coast, so that vessels at sea might get the advantage of the knowledge and make sport in times when storms impend. As light houses are numerous along the coast, and in nearly every case are within sight of each other, the signals, when given to some one most convenient, could be conveyed from one to another by observation of the light. The suggestion is certainly worthy of consideration, and we commend it to the attention of the signal service officials.

Governor Smith, of Georgia, has issued invitations to the Governors of the Western and Southern States, to meet at Atlanta on the 19th of November, for the purpose of deliberating upon the subject of a canal to connect the Tennessee river with the Atlantic ocean at or near Savannah.

Petroleum Centre gave 53 Republican majority, at the election, yesterday, a gain of 49 since the State election.

The probabilities are that Grant is re-elected to the Presidency for the ensuing four years.

The absurdity of post dating weekly newspapers has exemplification in the New York Ledger, the issue of which bearing date Saturday, October 26, said its popular contributor, Fanny Fern, was extremely ill, when the fact is she had been dead sixteen days when the date of the paper was reached.

Advertising for Correspondence.

A young man in our city has been engaged for the past six weeks in writing to a fair young damsel of Brooklyn. He formed her acquaintance through the columns of the newspapers, and, last evening according to engagement, went over to New York, in Canal street, where he was to meet his unknown correspondent. He entered the house, and was soon in the presence of a young lady of about nineteen years, who had the appearance of just being convalescent after a ten years' drunk. He was soon told that she was the lady in question, and asked "what he proposed to do about?" She seemed in a great hurry, rather too much for our Jersey boy, who told her that he had no proposal to make except to have the door opened far enough to allow the exit of his person. The demi monde, for so she was, flew into a terrible rage, and gave her visitor to understand that he could not occupy her time and make engagements with her, and told her frightened youth to "sell out, or prepare for a tussle!" He prepared to "sell" rather than to have a "tussle" with such a muscular female, and gave her the contents of his pocket-book, with the exception of three cents to cross the ferry, which amounted to a little over eleven dollars. He told our reporter that he was satisfied with getting off at that price, and that he would have given twice that amount sooner than have any difficulty with her. He has solemnly vowed never to read the newspaper or correspond with an unknown person again. He has no particular affection for Brooklyn ladies now. [Jersey City Journal.]

A man of mature years in Vancouver, who had a wife from whom he had been separated, lately bestowed his tried affections on a girl of fourteen, and, as the girl's father took the liberty to object to her receiving them, the precious pair went to work to prove that the old man was crazy and incapable of managing his own affairs. The girl swore to this statement, and a guardian was appointed who readily consented to the proposed marriage.

The Lycoming (Pa.) Gazette says France may boast of its general, England of its lords, and America of its progression, but Lycoming county bears off the palm in the form of hymenial novelty. It then goes on to describe now a matrimonially inclined but economical youth of that section, finding the cost of license too high to suit him, and after vainly endeavoring to obtain one at a reduced price, returned to his expectant bride with the information that he had concluded to remain single until there was a fall in the market.

Buffalo Bayou, which leads to Houston, Texas, is deep enough to float vessels, but so narrow that steamboats sometimes hit on both sides. A ship canal company have taken in hand the job of widening, and the city sees looming up in the near future these gallant three-masters.

A Festive Widower.

A Michigan avenue gentleman has been in his day, the most married man in Wayne county. He has been married eight times, and now, in his old age, is compelled to sew on his own shirt buttons. Six of the confiding females whose board-bills he fondly contracted to pay now moulder in the cold and silent tomb. He goes up to Elmwood every Sunday to weep over their graves, and then steps into a saloon across the way to hide his emotion in half a dozen lagers. The other two wives made it too terrib for him, and a wise and beneficent divorce law once rendered him happy. The gentleman says he regrets exceedingly that the first six died—and is very, very sorry that the other two didn't.—[Detroit Post.]

Chicago is to have an immense Crystal Palace, in which an exposition is to be held during the rebuilding jubilee in October, 1873. The size of the building, according to the plans which have been submitted, will be six hundred feet long by one hundred feet broad, with a central transept two hundred and fifty feet long. The height will be eighty feet, with a dome over the principal entrance over one hundred feet high. A floral garden will surround the building, and a portion of the interior will also be decorated with fountains, and fitted as a winter garden.

A young Briton lately lost a large sum by betting on spiders. He wagered that a spider which he would produce would cross a plate quicker than a spider to be produced by a friend. Each spider was to have its own plate. His spider, however, on being started, would not stir, while its rival ran with immense speed. The bet was consequently lost; and the loser soon found out the reason why—his friend had a hot plate.

A treaty of commerce and navigation has just been concluded between Nicaragua and the Kingdom of Italy.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Joaquin is mad and has gone to Europe. Maggie Mitchell is going to try her hand at tragedy.

D'Aubigne's daughter-in-law is a New York milliner.

Mr. Stanley will leave England for America on the 9th of November.

The recently magnificently wedded March-ness of Bute is quite sick.

Some of them now call it the "horse influenza." That is probably what it is.

New York people, in the transfer line, are offering their kingdoms for a horse.

Macklin told Cooke that the first qualification of an actor was to learn to stand still.

Fanny Fern was the senior female writer of the country. Mrs. Stowe now takes her place.

An American, who was James Foley when he lived in Connecticut, is Signor Folli now that he is a basso in Europe.

A Des Moines (Iowa) clergyman advocates theatrical and other amusements, and his congregation is not shocked thereat either.

The President of Hampden Sidney College, Virginia, states that but one student has died at that institution in one hundred years.

A large number of distinguished foreigners are now traveling in this country, and California receives from them a good deal of attention.

Mrs. Lizzie Hayden, of Topeka, claims that she was terrified into marrying her monster, and wants a divorce because he sleeps with a revolver under his pillow.

Able bodied draught men, willing to work, can make a good thing of it in New York just now. A good roadster, who doesn't balk, can earn ten or fifteen dollars a day.

The unusual size of the bustles worn by ladies on the Detroit river ferryboats plying between that city and Windsor, Canada, is unaccountable to strangers, but the Custom-house officers say they know haul about it.

A French medico reports to the Academy of Sciences that intellect is nothing but phosphorus on the brain. So if you happen to have any idiots about you, all you have got to do to make men of genius of them is to bore holes in their skulls and pour in a quantity of phosphorus.

The intelligent jury that couldn't agree to hang Stokes consumed only $37.40 worth of cigars and $23.55 worth of whisky and other beverages, which New York City must pay for.

The woman question is now receiving more practical recognition in England than in America, though it is not improbable that a year or two hence another story may be told. Appleton's Journal notes the fact that the rights of women in England have advanced to that point of recognition that they may vote for parish officials, who are political, and not, as their designation would imply, ecclesiastical officials; they have a voice, too, in the choice of the newly constituted school boards; and the question of their admission to the national universities, as regular undergraduates, is evidently only one of time.

The St. Louis Democrat prints this beautiful little story: "There is a covered bridge at Peoria five hundred feet above high-water mark. A drover recently attempted to drive a thousand sheep across it. When about half way over the bell-weather noticed an open window, and recognizing his destiny, made a strike for glory and the grave.—When he reached the sunlight he at once appreciated his critical situation, and, with a leg stretched toward the cardinal point of the compass, he uttered a plaintive 'Ma-a-a' and descended to his fate. The next sheep and the next followed, imitating the gesture and the remark of the leader. For hours it rained sheep. The crawling placid stream was incarnadine with the life blood of mottled mutton, and not until the brief tail of the last sheep, as it disappeared through the window, waved adieu to this wicked world, did this movement cease."

There is a strong movement in France in favor of compulsory education. The French are thus taking lessons from the conquerors, with whom education is just as compulsory as military service. The Prussian government has long acted upon the theory that the citizens belonged to the State and that the State should afford to allow no one subject to its laws to grow up in ignorance.—This country will hold the same opinion, by-and-by.

Considerable anxiety is felt by farmers in California respecting the safety of their grain, it being apprehended that the rainy season will set in before they shall have succeeded in housing it for the winter. In many districts temporary buildings have been erected for storage.

The pivot pier of the bridge over the Mississippi river at St. Joseph reached the bed of the rock on Monday. Two more piers remain to be sunk, and the contractors assert they will have the work completed ready for the crossing of cars by the 10th of January.

The Bates county (Kansas) Democrat reports a visit to a stone quarry near Butler, where a petrified snake has been partially uncovered. Twenty feet of this monster have so far come to light, and that it is not more than half of him.
