NO PAPER TO-MORROW.

NOTICE.
Our office will be closed to-morrow Nov.
28th, 1872.

GEO. H. BISSELL & CO.

Divine services will be held to-morrow, Rev. Burchard officiating.

The supper given by the ladies of the Rehebekah Degree, I. O. of O. F., at the McClintock House, last evening, was a very pleasant affair and was highly enjoyed by all present. Mine host Hulbert was the recipient of many compliments from the guests at the excellence of the supper provided by him.

The social hop at the Opera House, after the supper, also passed off very pleasantly.

The Producer's Association of the Eleventh District have made arrangements with Messrs. Cross & McOmber, to fit them up a suitable room at the Central House as an Oil Exchange. A part of the present dining room of the house is to be partitioned off and an addition put up in rear of the house. When completed the room will be one of the finest for the purpose intended in the oil region. We also learn that the office of the W. U. Tel. Line will be removed to the Central House as soon as the Oil Exchange is completed.

At Toledo, O., on a recent occasion, a young man was robbed of his watch while going home from church at night, but on sitting the spot next morning, found the watch lying on the ground the thieves having dropped it and were unable to find it in the dark.

Another year has rolled round and the anniversary of a time-honored custom—Thanksgiving Day—is almost at our doors—to-morrow being the day set apart by the President of the United States and the Governor of the Commonwealth as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to the Master of Life for having "kept and preserved us" during another year.

The country has never had a more prosperous year than the past. Our crops have been plentiful; pestilence has not visited our shores; the famine is an unheard of thing; war is non est, and the "good old times," when, literally speaking, whiskey was only five cents a drink and tobacco three cents a plug (this would be the case now barring the internal revenue) has been with us during the year. Let us give thanks, therefore, and trust the tax may be abolished by the new administration.

Let us give thanks that we are alive yet, for as the good book has it, "if we had our just deserts we would have been dead long ago." Let us give thanks, then, that we are alive and kicking.

Here in the oil regions we have reason to give thanks that the powers of darkness not exactly old Lucifer, but the So. Imp.
Co., Ref. Com., and similar lumps, have not prevailed against us. On the contrary, let us give thanks that the conspirators, robbers, thieves, &c., are about ready to give up the ghost.

Let us give thanks to-morrow, and those who are able to set down and enjoy "turkey and fixins" give thanks while doing so, and remember the poor devils, and there are many of them, who will have nothing to eat, and consequently have little to be thankful for. Remember them, you that have wealth.

We, the editor, the printers, the devil, &c., propose to give thanks, consequently no paper will be issued to-morrow.

Let everybody give thanks and rejoice.

A CARD.
Having understood that a report has been started that I refused to grant a warrant to Rev. G. Moore for the arrest of Mr.
T. B. Aicora, I wish to deny said rumor, and would state further that no warrant was asked for in said matter, in proof of which I would cite Dr. Poud as witness, who was in the office at the time and heard all that was said in regard to the affair.

Parker, the butcher, next door to the him, ye hungry mortals.

A walking match between a Parkers Landing horse, owned by Cruil, the livery man, and a Petrolia City horse, owned by Skeet, came off Saturday afternoon. The distance walked was from Parker's Landing to Petrolia, for a stake of $2,500. The contestants left the former place at 1:40, accompanied by the judges. Skeet's horse came in a winner by half a mile.

It is reported that a pilgrimage to Rome, in the course of the winter, is being organized in France, to consist of two thousand persons. The pilgrims are to pay one hundred and twenty francs a head for a journey their minds to pilgrims fare and shelter indeed in that most expensive city.

HEAVY OIL SUIT.

In the District Court, on Saturday, suit was entered by Arnold Heris, Samuel Lawler, Charles Lockhart, Wm. Frew, A. M. Byers, Joseph Fleming, William K. Nimick, Alex. Nimick and David Hostetter, late partners as The Pittsburgh Petroleum Oil Company, for use of Dr. David Hostetter, against The Standard Oil Company. The affidavit of claim, which is signed by Dr.
Hostetter, sets forth that the Standard Oil Company is indebted to the plaintiffs in the sum of $116,271 67; and that the nature of said indebtedness is as follows: That on or about the first of December, 1869, the plaintiffs agreed to store with defendants, who agreed to take on storage, as warehousemen, into their tanks in the Eighteenth ward, a large quantity of crude petroleum; that in pursuance of said agreement plaintiffs delivered to defendants 45,801 barrels, according to a schedule annexed to the claim; that on or about October 1st, 1870, by an arrangement between defendant (Hostetter) and the Pittsburgh Petroleum Oil Company, the oil so on storage was allotted and transferred to him, and he was duly authorized to receive the same; that he drew on defendant for said oil, from time to time, who delivered to him on his order, the amount of 29,021 barrels, as per schedule; that alterwards, on or about March 16, 1871, dependent demanded the balance of the oil, but the defendants refused to deliver it, and still refuse; that according to the gauge certificates, and accounts furnished by the purchasing agents of the plaintiffs, the difference, or additional amount which dependent ought to receive, is 16,772 barrels, and that the actual cost of said oil to plaintiffs was six dollars twenty-nine and seven six-teenths cents per barrel of forty gallons, amounting to $105,605 57, with interest amounting to $10,666 10, making a total of $116,271 67.—[Pittsburgh Commercial.]

It is quite evident that there is to be so lack of reform suggestions and agitations during the next four years. Among the various projects which have been mooted in this direction, is that of a National Convention for the purpose of making a general revision of the Constitution of the United States. It is said that petitions to all the State Legislatures, at the next respective sessions of those bodies, praying for the authorization of such a convention, upon the ground that there is a practical disagreement of the civil establishment with the general complexion of society, and that many of the provisions of the organic law are not in conformity with the demands of the present time. There will, of course, be some differences of opinion concerning the advisability of the proposition. It is certain, however, that the working machinery of the government is not wholly adapted to the ends required. Nations, like individuals, outgrow in their manhood the garbs which fitted them in their childhood, and this is as true of institutions as of rat-ment. Whether the time has come for this readaptation is a matter to be thoughtfully considered.

In a Ward Howe, commenting upon the Woodhull-Cliffin paper, says: "While all of us have loathed the doctrine set forth in that print, and while its falsehoods have moved our earnest indignation, we have thrown no stone, because the editor thus offending against the laws of morality and of truth was a woman, and we as women did not feel called upon to denounce her. If we understand this position it is that women will never throw stones at women, no matter how mean they are, because they women. All that remains is for men to follow this interesting example who we suppose, in order to forward the great work of moral purification which 'women in politics' are expected to fully inaugurate."

A full special report of the great Boston fire was sent by Atlantic cable last Sunday to the London Times, being printed in their paper of Monday. To reach Pioneer Cove, the American terminus of the cable, a special circuit had to be secured, by way of Montreal, the usual route for cable messages through Boston being broken by the fire.— This report was sent from the Philadelphia office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and cost about $2,300 in gold, being probably the earliest cable message yet transmitted from this country to England, outside of the Government service.

The English mind is seriously agitated on the subject of railroad disasters. It has been computed that no fewer than fifty serious accidents have happened within the space of a month. The coroner's inquests in several cases found the cause in rotten rails and other defects in the management.
It is said that people are beginning to avoid railway travel except in cases of actual necessity.

It is well to be emphatic; it is well to be decided; it is well always, to be composed and to be able to hold yourself in subjection. It is a very fortunate person who can do all this, under all trials, all surprises, all tribulations. But there is such a thing as being too dramatic for good effect; there is such a thing as overdoing it even in grief. The examination of Mrs. O'Neil—the wife of the man who was shot dead by King in Pine street, New York, the other day, O'Neil having just given in some dangerous testimony against King in a divorce suit between Mrs. and Mr. King—is a case in point. It was on the coroner's inquest, and King was present and Mrs. O'Neil was a witness. She gave in her testimony as to the murder with great dramatic effect, and when it came to the matter of identifying King as the murderer, which of course was a mere matter of necessary legal form, as there was no dispute about the killing, Mrs.
O'Neil pointed to King and crossing herself, said, "In the name of the Father, and "Son, and the Holy Ghost, that is the man."

The loungers about the City market of San Francisco were astonished, recently, by the sudden apparition of a small boy, wrapped in flames and screaming dismayfully. No sooner was he put out, than a second boy, likewise burning fiercely, rushed on the scene and demanded to be extinguished.— He, in turn, was followed, after a few moments, by a third flaming boy, and spectators abandoned themselves to the belief that a general conflagration of the small boys of San Francisco was in progress. They waited, however, in vain for any further burning boys, and finally ascertained that the three boys who had so astonished them had picked up three separate sticks of phosphorus and played them in their respective pockets, in which warm receptacles the phosphorus had burst into flames.

The new depot being built at Salamanca by the Erie and A. & G. W. R. Co., is rapidly approaching completion. The entire length of the structure is 420 ft built in three sections, ranging in length from 40 to 80 ft, the intervening spaces being covered platforms extending between the main tracks for the transfer of baggage and passengers. The whole is covered with corrugated iron, painted in imitation of granite and Portland stone. It is said to have cost nearly $50,000.

The burnt out sewing girls of Boston are as plucky as the merchants. Some friends suggested the other day to one of them that a contribution be made to supply her with a new machine. She having lost hers by the fire, but she proudly replied that she had obtained a situation as a domestic, and should stay where she was until she earned a new machine.
