The railroad disaster at Prospect Station, still occupies the public attention.

Titusville suffered severely by the accident, no less than eight residents of that city being killed outright, and several injured severely.

A number of our young bloods left town Christmas night for a grand sleigh to Cooperstown.

The Herald of this morning says: Mr. E. D. Shepard, formerly of Petroleum Centre now of Parker's Landing, started for Buffalo on the early morning train on Tuesday morning, and his friends have felt some anxiety for his safety.

Besides Mr. Shepard, Mr. J. B. Farel, of the Pierson farm, Cherrytree Run, near Petroleum Centre, is missing.

The family of our townsman, Mr. S. H. Kooker, just escaped taking the train that met with the dreadful disaster at Prospect Station.

The producers of the region appear to have accepted the situation in regard to the combination of producers and refiners, although we have not heard of any advance in the price of crude.

COOL.—The Petroleum Centre Record, of a recent date, copied very near a column of our oil news and credited it to the Fairview Reporter.

Christmas was observed in an appropriate manner at the Catholic Church.

We were in error in stating that Mr. John Walters, recently deceased, was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge of this place.

Rev. Burchard, of this place, will lecture at Cherrytree on Friday evening, January 24, 1873.

By the return of the tax collector, Corry shows unmistakable evidence of decline.

Hon. C. G. Myles last week sold a thirty-second interest in the McLeary farm near Fairview, Pa., to Miles G. Hackett, of Onondaga Co., for $2,500.

The oil producers of the Venango region have decided to cut down drilling operations in that vicinity, and thus keep down an increase of production.

We are indebted to our friend, Ambrose Weaver, for a number of very nice sea biscuits.

Benehoff run, one of the suburban retreats of Petroleum Centre, was the scene of a $50 dog fight a day or two since.

Edmund Yates, parls his hair in the middle.

OIL ITEMS.—The Stubble farm well has had some difficulty in getting a straight hole, and has been delayed several weeks in consequence.

The Leopard's spot well owned by Allison, is not drilling.

A well owned by Frank Fertig, on the Knight farm, promises to be the most productive in the district.

The Sliker well, on the Sliker farm, of which we spoke a short time since as having had the most singular misfortunes of any well in the district, is down, but she is at her old tricks still.

The Heeler well, struck last September, and which has been flowing ever since, was tared on Saturday last, for the first time.

The Hogan well, on the Wm. Shoup farm, is down and tared, and will doubtless prove good.

The B-xter well, on the M. Shoup farm, will be down this week.

The Buzzard's Glory well, owned by Allison, is about down, and will be tared this week.

The Greesly well, owned by Blanchard, on the M. Shoup farm, is down 800 feet. It was formerly owned by Lithgow & Dougherty.

The Whangdoodle well, owned by Allison, is down 900 feet. On the M. Shoup farm.

The Shoup & Weidie well, on the Ashbaugh farm, which before the 30 day business, was pumping between 12 and 18 barrels per day, is now doing but 7 or 8, notwithstanding every effort has been made to increase the production.

Very Latest from the Scene of the Disaster!

MATILDE, N. Y., Dec. 26.

SCENE OF THE DISASTER.

Everything is now quiet here and at the scene of the disaster. The train are now bound on each side of this place, so that those here who have identified remains have been unable to take them away, and those on the road to this place have failed to reach here to-day.

FIVE BODIES UNRECOGNIZED.

There are five bodies yet remaining unrecognized, in the depot, two of which, a man and woman, could be recognized by friends, and probably will be when they are able to reach here, while the remaining three are beyond identification, except by the partial clothing on the bodies and different articles taken from their persons.

Some of the bodies are without hands or feet; others with head half gone; all burned to a crisp, and presenting a most horrible spectacle. They would hardly be taken for human beings.

Eight out of the fourteen bodies have been placed in their coffins and are ready to be shipped to their homes by the first train that comes along. No train has reached here from Corry to-day, and but one this morning from Brocton, and that is now snow-bound between here and Corry.

W. M. Ticknor is still alive, but it is thought will not live long. He is still at the farm house near the wreck.

Conductor Flanders is also lying very low and is not expected to recover.

Maggie Curtis will get well, the injury in her head not being so serious as at first supposed.

There are in the Chautauque House three men injured, namely: John Douglas, John Cawdy and Barney Cook. The first two will undoubtedly get well. Cook may not live till morning.

The brother of Maggie Curtis, Joseph, has been identified and placed in a coffin and awaits transportation.

Mrs McCarlton is at the farm house with Ticknor. Although she is delirious, the physician entertains hope for her recovery. Her husband, James H. Carlton, was killed and his body was identified to-day by friends. Their child, aged about two years, is alive and well, and was taken in charge by relatives to-day.

A little boy, aged about two years, is at Mr. Barnea's residence unharmed, but his parents are not known.

All the effects found upon the remaining bodies are in the hands of the coroner, and will be delivered over to their friends when the remaining are identified.

There were forty six persons on the train, all of whom are now accounted for, among the killed and injured, and those who escaped, with the exception of three.

The body of William Rankin, a Canadian, laborer, was identified to-day; also that of John Cardot.

The coroner's jury have postponed their investigation until Saturday next, to await the convalescence of Conductor Flanders, and if possible the recognition of the remaining bodies.

A large number of people, residents of this locality, have visited the bodies to-day, among them many ladies.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Parker were here today expecting the latter were in the wreck, but upon telegraphing to their friends at home received the reply that the family were alive and well in Petroleum Centre.

Orville Swift, of Corry, is known to have been on the train, from the fact that a key has been found upon which was a number that corresponds with the number sent here by his friends. His body is either burned up entirely or is among the unidentified.

Gen. Sheridan's daughter sailed for Newport on the 14th ultimo.

The next social excitement will be New Years.

The Red Men of Franklin, No. 147, gave their annual social at Hanna's Hall on Wednesday evening last. Members of the order from Shenango Tribe, of Meadville, Chasewago and Montour Tribes, of Titusville, and Wannetta Tribe, of Embleton, were in attendance; and all unite in praising the excellent social entertainment furnished in the Franklin hunting grounds.

Will M. Carlton, of "Betsy and I" fame, is reading in Ohio.
