When fron gloss way the break is complete. Wood may bend, and splinter and erack, and yet hold together. It fillows therefore, that when an accident happens to an iron bridge the danger resulting there from is much greater than in the case of wooden bridge. Therefore it is only the more necessary to know that an iron struct ture is properly put up, and it capable of sustaining great weight. The bridge at Dixon, Ilizola, that brought death to balf afbundred last Sunday was an Iron one .-Iron gives no warning: It snape , and all Wood ninety-also times in a bundred does give warning and does allow a moment for escape. The bridge, at Dixen was what is known as the Truesdell pattern It is a cheap bridge and a good looking one But there has been an accident before this of the Trucedell bridg at Eigin, and the most practical men have condemed the pattern. Three bridges of this pattern have fallen, and all in the vicinity of Dixon, and yet no test was made of the strength of this bridge nor any inspection made by compete ont parties.

Accepany.-Our townses, Mr. A. J. Hawley, met with quite a serious accident into yesterday afternoon, He was engaged in loading a flat car with an iron tank recently taken down in Bennehoff Rus. The iren sheets were bauled on the ear with an iron book. Mr. H. was on the ear and had hold of the shoot when the book elipped causing him to lose his balance and fall backward to the track, the back of his head striking the rail. He was picked up in an insensible condition but recovered consciousness sufficiently in a short time to walk home. His bond, shoulders and back were badly bruised, and he has been copined to the house since. The escape from death was a narrow one. Had be struck the rail a little lower down his neck would bave been broken.

Mrs. Briggs, wife of Mr. E. T. Briggs, an account of whose sudden death we published a few days since, expired at her residence on the Egbert farm, this morning, after a long illness. The oblidion are thus made orphans in less than two weeks. The case is a very sad one, and they have the sympathies of the entire community in their berenvement

We are not adviced when the funeral services will be beld.

"At no distant day we predict the old ter/ ritory on Bennehoff Run will be made to produce oil again in paying quantities. COUNTY JAIL, FRANKLIN, May 7, 1878: We, the undersigned, prisoners in the county jail on various charges, respectfully beg leave to render through your columns our sincere thanks to the Young Men's Christian Association for the interest heres tofore manifested in our moral and spiritual weifare, and to assure the Association of our high appreciation of the sacrifices and forts made in our behalf. Meny of us expact to remain in this prison during the mmer munths and we are anxious to ear tablish a daily school in connection with a Sabbath school for our mutual b neft and intellectual improvement. But we have neither books or means to make a beginning, and we hereby appeal to the Y. M. C. A., and other religious societies, also to the public, and to private individuals, to assist us with old books, magazines, news paper, and other means, according to their ability, that we may lay the foundation of a small library for the benefit of curselves and future inmates of this prison. Very respectfully.

TEN PRISONERS IN THE COUNTY JAIL

Men are but entidren of a larger growth. That is men are boys still except in bodily proportion. It has been strikingly illustratd in and about Wall street lately on two occasions. One instance occurred two or bree weeks since when a crowd of men-boys ran up and down Broadway at the outcome of Wall street, looking for the flying man who was to start on his serial voyage from one of the windows in Trinity Church steeple. "Here be in;" and the crowd run to get a south view of spire. "There he goes; and the crowd would rush to take in the north view, and so the simpleton crowd swayed this way and that, according to the outery of one of the wags who "put up" the The other instance was on the stock market in and around Wall street on Monday. One of the Stockwell's notes for $100,000 due the Pacific Mail Company had gone to protest, and so the big boy gamders played bear on Pacific Mail stock .-Then came the report that the note had been paid, and the beye played bull and ran the stock up. And so it went, all day. One hoursthe note was not paid and down went the stock; the next bour the note was paid and the stock went up. Foot ball is a royal game compared to such boyish non-

The Eik Democrat gives an account of the killing of a man named Finch, at Parker's Landing, last week, in a gambling saloon: Finch and his opponent, whose name we did not learn, bad been playing for some time, and, becoming desperate, the play which followed Finch won, and naturally reached forward to draw in his prize, when the loser, maddened with rum and exasperated by his ill fortune, drew his revolver and shot Finch through the brain, then gathered up the stakes and fled The murdered man was welt known as a gambier and a sporting man. He was imposing in appearance, of good address, and possessed of no mean order of ability. Had his time and energy been devoted to some better cause, be might have become an influential citizen in any community, and been spared the ignominious, death which an all-wise Providence decread should cap be climax of bie flagitous career.
