“Go to Butler” has been the prevailing cry for a long time past. One of our business moved to that place some time since. Writing to a friend in Madison one first week's experience at the so-called centre of oildom:

“Having plenty of time and willing to improve but exceedingly slow. As I get better acquainted with the backwoods I begin to learn how to take them. A case in point. The second day I opened house a large man came in and said, ‘How do you want the best coat you have in the house.’ I tried on him a very good one. He says—‘Boss, what kind of coat would you call this?’ I remarked ‘My friend you have got on a very fine diagonal coat.’ ‘Diagonal, why mother told me to get a flannel coat.’ I then showed him the flannel coat I had in the store, worth about $3.00. ‘Will that wear first rate?’ ‘That will wear like buckskin.’ ‘Boss, what do you ask for that coat?’ ‘I will sell you that coat for $4.00.’ He pulled it off in a second, remarking ‘Mother told me not to get a coat worth more than $3.00, pay one dollar down and she would pay the other next Saturday when she sold her eggs; mother has got 16 or 20 dozen eggs; she wants 13 cents and I can't get any more for the price and do you think they only pay 12 1/2 cents.’ He left and I sat there with mournful feelings replaced the coat on the shelf.

Next day a man came in and wanted to see a cheap coat, I took I had nothing could sell him but tried to sell a blue coat which apparently set him nearly wild with delight as he probably never saw such a coat before. He viewed himself in the glass at least a dozen times, and then said ‘I suppose you would ask as much $3 for that ere coat.’ The coat cost me $12.50, so you see what a great class of my customers a. e. I am going to get a stock of Jew goods and set the Jew after this. They are drilling a well one mile from here, another one two miles and still another one three miles away, so you see this territory will be tested this summer and God knows I hope they will get good wells.

Go to Butler, boys!

MARRIED.

PORTER—JACK.—On Monday, June 2d, 1873, at the residence of Mr. Frank Chapman, by Rev. Moore, Mr. William Porter, of Petroleum Centre, to Miss Nettie Jack, of Titusville.

The happy couple have the best wishes of friends for a long and happy voyage on the sea of matrimony.

A remark of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher who said; “as for ourselves, we tried the roof of our children, but are now trying the sugar-plums on our grand-children.” He called out the criticism of a religious paper which condemns the moral suasion theory in bringing up children and remarks; “the switch is God's method—we do not mean an made known by the wise men merely—but as revealed in His daily dealings with his children: ‘Whom he loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth Can we improve on it?’

That means we suppose, that the chastening of the Lord are corporal beatings and his scourging are the cat-o-nine-tails well laid on. That editor would flog his children all around regularly at morning prayer, as a daily discipline, and think he was doing God's service. According to his construction of the Bible his girls would not get as many ‘lickings’ as his boys, for while he would in loving all switch (obscure) all, he would only administer the scourge (the cat o-nine-tails) to ‘every son.’

Dr. Brown, sentenced to ten years in Sing Sing, for assaulting Murry, the New York gas collector, died in prison on Friday.

John Spang, of Dayton, was killed at Hamilton, on Saturday morning while uncoupling cars. His head was severed from his body.

Three Russian Menomonic Commissioners are on their way to Manitoba to determine if that country is fitted for re-religionists to colonize in.

This evening, Dr. Rogers, an eminent divine, will lecture at the Catholic Church. Subject—The Jesuits. Tickets, 50 cents. Father Dunn informs us that Dr. Rogers is a first class lecturer, and cannot fall of entertaining and instructing those who attend. We hope to see a large attendance.

A new well is being put down on the Claremont farm:

An elephant outside the canvas is the poorest thing possible to have on land.—What can one do with an elephant? He is not a plaything, and he cannot be made available on a farm, and he must be kept securely or he will break things. To a show an elephant is indispensable, but no where else. The most troublesome elephant we know of set connected with a manager is George Francis Train. He is sane enough to be put in the Tombs of New York on an action for publishing obscene papers, but he is crazy enough on the trial to be acquitted on the ground of his insanity and certified to the Lunatic Asylum. There he is sane enough to be discharged on a writ of habeas corpus and now he is loose and is breaking things. His last performance is a suit against the city of New York for false imprisonment. In the Tombs he is such an elephant that to get rid of him he is pronounced insane, and in the Asylum he is such an elephant that to get rid of him he was pronounced sound in his head.

There was joy in the house of Fugh yesterday afternoon. It is a girl and ‘weighs just eight pounds.’ A glass of lemonade will just fit us this warm day, William, and—well, here's our toast on this suspicious event.

A heavy rain storm, this afternoon, cooled the air down to a delightful temperature.

Mr. Pairt, Superintendent of the Maple Shade Oil Company, started up two old wells on the Egbert farm, yesterday. They are making a good show.

William Lloyd Garrison said recently that he had set type enough to form a type, graphical railway from Boston to Liverpool.

Mr. Smiles' excellent book, ‘Self-Help,’ has been translated into Japanese, and adopted as a government text-book.

A fire in the woods in the northern part of Cumberland county, Maine, on Saturday and Sunday, destroyed about one thousand acres of the timber land.

A good story is told on a couple of telegraph operators of Massachusetts, one of which is now in jail to answer for his little indiscretion. Jack Harley, who is in jail was receiving a message at Farmington from Worcester. Jack asked Worcester to repeat several times. Worcester had a bad stomach that morning, and was easily irritated. The frequent calls to repeat by Jack induced him to submit the remark that he thought Farmington was a d—d fool, and a blacksmith, at the same time hitting what a pleasure it would be for him [Worcester] to put a head on Farmington. The next instant the wire from Jack spoke, ‘I'm coming,’ and unable to restrain himself until a passenger train came along, the impetuous fellow took a freight train, leaving his wire and office to take care of itself. Arriving at Worcester Jack dashed into the office exclaiming ‘I'm here,’ and proceeded to business. Worcester got a fear of rubbing, and immediately had Jack arrested for assault and battery. But now from all parts of the State and New England, the offices are inquiring of Worcester. ‘How's your head?’

An Illinois editor speaks of an ‘eighty-year-old octogenarian in his town who has seen the snows of three score years and ten.’ What was the matter with his eyes the other ten years? Or didn't it snow for ten winters? This is something the public are interested in.

The public debt decreased $3,525,282 during the past month.

Governor Dix on Saturday signed the Civil Damages liquor selling bill.

Arthur B Graves was on Monday elected President of the Cotton Exchange of New York.

Hon Joseph Howe, Governor of Nova Scotia, died at the Government House, on Sunday, aged sixty-eight.

A fire in Quincy, Ill., on Saturday destroyed the stables of the Billiard House, containing six horses.

A fire in Baltimore on Sunday morning destroyed the chemical works of Frank Slin gluff. Loss $60,000; insurance $40,000.

The Supreme Court of Minnesota has made a very important decision as affecting the rights of railway companies in levying tolls for freight or passage. The Court held that railway companies are mere agents of the State for the performance of certain duties towards the citizens of that State, and that the railway companies are subject to the control of the State in the prosecution of its business, unless there is some special contract between the parties by which the State releases such right. The Court held the State has the sovereign right over the company's tolls and declares that the Legislature can regulate such tolls to the fullest extent.

The story that General Davis has used the surrendered Modocs in hunting those still in arms turns out to be true. They were employed as scouts and did good service in piloting the troops right to the hiding place of Captain Jack and his gang, all but four of whom are now in the hands of the military. The question now is, what will be done with the prisoners?

Letter From Kane City.

KANE CITY, May 30, 1873.

EDITOR RECORD:—The school children of this place have been on the quivers for some days, owing to an announcement that the school would close with a picnic. The day being pleasant it passed off greatly to the credit of parents and teachers.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the citizens for the liberality displayed in procuring the necessary luxuries for the occasion.

The Columbia Cornet Band furnished the music which was a rare treat for the children. We think a festival of this kind a most proper and desirable thing. The impression the ceremonies make upon their minds will be lasting.

The little ones participated in the exercises of the day will always look back with pleasure to the close of their schools at Kane City in 1873.

Our teachers, Miss Maggie Campbell and Carrie Palmer, leave for Oil City on Monday, June 2, to attend school at that place. They carry with them the best wishes of their many friends in this place.

Our church difficulties are about to be settled. Rev. Getty, Universal preacher is to deliver another discourse on the peculiar doctrine of his sect on next Sabbath. The Rev. gentleman is quite a favorite and is always greeted with a full house.

We notice the smiling face of our old friend, Mr. James Perkins, on the streets once more, he having been absent for some months.

Messrs. Richards, Gifford & Co., are drilling again on the Baum Farm, Cherry-tree Run. We wish them success.

Mr. George Geyar has secured a lease on the Galloway farm, and is moving a rig from the Niagara farm to commence operations immediately.

DOUGHNUTS.

We condense the following report of the April production of the Pennsylvania oil fields from the Pennsylvania Petroleum Reporter.

The production for the month of April was 641,526 barrels, a reduction from the March production of 23,782 barrels.

The production for the Sixteenth district was much larger than that of any one district, with the exception of the three lower districts.

The number of producing wells were 4,265.

The total amount of oil held in the districts and divisions at the end of the month was 1,178,643 barrels.

The amount of oil shipped from the region was 708,191 barrels, an increase over the shipments for March of 39,817 barrels.

The decrease in the daily production over the whole district was 77 barrels.

Fred Douglas has been trusted in white marble. This certainly cannot be a meritorious work of art.

Sweet Sister Susan is what the Chicago Times calls Miss Anthony. This is the unkindest cut of all, for Susan has always borne a good character. She ought to sue the Times for libel.

Robert Atwood of Louisville, was sentenced on Saturday to twenty years imprisonment in the penitentiary for forgery and embezzlement.

O'Kelly is on his way to Spain.

Ben Butler will defend Coe, the forger.

Colonel John Hay is on a visit to Cleveland.

Pandleton is in New York looking after greenbacks.
