At the East they always wind up trades against the West by pointing to our divorce laws and declare that "divorce made easy" in Indians, Onto and other Western States, is a moral disgrace and stigma to courts and to people. And yet there has lately. in staid Massachusette, been a divorce granted which, so far as moral er legal merits are concerned, is as great a judicial outrage as ever disgraced a back-woods Indiana court-bouse. We refer to the divorce granted between Senator Summer and his wife -The theory of the law of divorce is that there must be no collusion between the parties, and that whenever it is discovered that the man and wife are acting in concert in fixing up a decree of divorce, or whenever it appears that either party with the counivance of the other party, bas deliberately furnished cause of divorce for the purpose of securing a decrae, the proceeding shall be dismissed. In other words the proceed, ing for divocre must not be an amicable affair, or an agreed affair. In the case of Summer and wife, the two !'don't like each other pretty well." Both were beyond chicken period when they were married, and it is very easy to imagine that if the wife is like the busband, no one bouse is lerge enough to bold both, unless one consents to be the mere slave of the other .-The upshot of the marriage was a continund "unpleasantness, and so the wife goes abroad, stays the requisite length of time to amount to legal desertion and thus the Senator procures a divorce, on the supposed ground that be still loves his wife, is anx lous to live with her, has never consented to her absence, but that she bad deserted him. How is that for "divorce made easy ?"

Last evening a young lady residing on the Egbert farm, who has been making love herself to a certain nobby youth living on Boyd farm, who "sings ye does," binted to him the propriety of giving her a serenade. Of course be socepted the lavite and touchguitar lightly, as he Isam thine in my gladness, I am thine in my tears,

The Chicago Post has a reportal chap tha must be newly hooped, -iron hoops at that -as he will "bust his biler" and bring on a burricane in his immediate neignborhood. He slings ink regardless of the expense of the article, and handles the orb of the day as if it were a toy balloon. Hear bim! He is coming at a suic de, and his periude it thusly:

It was not a conflict of arms between des. perate men; it was not the work of the bottles red, eyed demon; no murderous hend was uplatted to stay with deadly blows or heart plercing builts a fellow being; but a woman goaded to desperation as some real or imaginary wrong at the bands of her busband, deliverately proceeded to a deed tha will send, like a charge of electricity, a thrill of horror throughout the entire community When the sun rose this morning, its light, though obscured by dark and threatening clouds, revealed a wife and busband at that thriving suburb engaged in domestic tur moil. Before the orb of day had cleared the spirits of the horizon, the husband was lifeless, and a borrible mangled corpse, so mutiletad that it lost all the semblance of a human being, was all that remained of the unhappp woman.

Here is a new chance for geographical speculation and a new incentive to Arctic exploration. The "Polaris" expedition found in Newman's Bay, twenty miles north of where the "Polaris" wintered, in latir tude 81 ° 35, a considerable quanty of drift wood among the ice ou the shore. It had evidently been long in the water and was much decayed. The largest piece was six inches in diameter. The noticeable fact was that some of it bore evident marks of having been cut down. Who cut it down? On what land was it out? Certainly it never grew in the neighborhood where found. Pid it drift down from the supposed open Polar Sea? or in case there is no open Polar Sea, but only a channel crossing the Polar region, from what portion of the Eastern Hemisphere did these saplings drift? If the drift wood could make the passage across, wby not a vessel? In course of time we shall have snother Arctic expedition to settle the driftwood mystery.

Some of our readers will remember Gec. Taylor, who has been in Titusville and was formerly a resident of Petroleum Centre, where he was once the proprietor of a restaurant. He was arrested in Buffalo in February last, charged with breaking into Robison's jewelry establishment of that city He has remained in jall since his arrest, and on Monday last was tried and convicted .-The judge sentenced him to bard labor in the Auburn State Prison for the period of three years and six months.

It is understood Taylor was convicted on the evidence of the man who manufactured the burglar tools. It seems according to the testimony of this man, who resides at Rothester, Taylor came there and had the tools manufactured. When brought into the jall at Buffalo where the prisoners were all assembled together, he picked out Tay, for at once as the man. On this evidence be was convicted and sent down.

An ingenious Yankee has bent the scratching power of heas to the aid of ag: iculture. He places a hen with chickens in loug, narrow cage, just wide enough to fit in in between two rows of polatoes, wherein she scratches to her heart's conent. The cage is moved along the space between the rows until the ground has been thoroughly scratched, and the potatoes hoed, and all the bugs eaten.

We learn a few particulars of a grand row which occurred at Grease City, on Saturday last, between two partizan gangs known as the Ku Klux and the Modocs. Several of both parties received a severe beating .-Most of those engaged formerly held forth in the ap Creek country.

We copy the following items from the Venaugo Spectator:

A correspondent informs us that a part or Poun towoship was visited by a rain, wind and ball storm on the 4th inst. The gurt commenced about half past three o'clock in the afternoon and caused a great deal of damage. In Sunville a bouse was moved ten feet from its foundation and the entire roof blow n away. Three other buildings were uproofed and the Presbyterian church slightly damaged. The farms around Surville suffered beavily. Samuel Axtei's bouse was partially unroofed and his timber -beavy oak-nearly all destroyed. The large trees were torn up from the ground and piled in one massive heap -Two barns, belonging respectively to Jas. M'Clelland and R R Groees, had the greater portion of their roofs carried away. The fences in the track of the storm were blown down leaving the crops exposed. Orchards were prostrated and laid as though they had been chopped. Such was the violence of the storm that it swept down the heaviest tim' ber. Our correspondent does not know how for the torando extended but he estimates te width at half a mile. The hallstones were offuncommon size and could be seen next day where the wind had swept them in piles. On the 4th day of June, 1858-fit teen years ago-Poum township was visited by a similar storm, which all the eld nibabe tants remember.

A young man named I P Canfield, committed suicide in Sugarcreek township, near the Poor House, on Tuesday afternoon, by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. He lived about an hour after com/ mitting the deed, but was unconscious. The deceased had been subject to spells of der/ angement but it was supposed he was brcoming less liable to their attacks. He seemed melancholy at times but gave no ludications of the terrible deed he was about to commit. His parents resided near Mead ville. Mr Canfield was twenty-four years oid. Coroner Corbett held an inquest and the jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts.

The ballonn voyage across the Atlantic must be given up unless some generous cor, porations or individual will give something to the cause of scien ce Boston proposed giv ing three thousand dollars, but the fire the other day made too heavy a drain on it treasury and there is now too much difficul' ty in raising money to allow of its being spent on mrial flight. Waterford, Erie county, which has lately stirred up, from center to circumference, over the series of forgeries committed by Williams, is now agitated over another affair, which in its details, bas a peculiar Chicago flavor. Some time since a giri was married against her parent's wish; but, in time, the couple were forgiven, and all went well for a time. But the green-eyed mone ster, that made Otnello mad, found a lodging in the breasts of both, and the result was a divorce. Time healed the breach, bowever, and one day last week the pair eloped and were a second time married.— Chicago can't best it.

Two convicts in the California State Prison made an ingenious attempt to escape recently. They stowed themselves away in box of spokes, and had the box so arranged that when they landed on the whart in San Francisco they could open one end and crawl out. But, unbappily for them, one of the deck hands on the boat stood on the box, so that they piaced heads down, and one of them was forced to ory out, to the astonishment of workmen, "this box don't stand right."
