Dickens' "Box"

Just issued in paper cover by the Petersons. Price 25 cents, and for sale at the Post Office Newsroom.

POST OFFICE VISITORS.—A great many "peculiar people" call at the postoffice, among whom may be mentioned the following: The individual who gets a letter about every six months, but always struggles to be the first at the window...

A recent writer, evidently of the male persuasion, in treating of the subject of the gradual increase of feminine liberty of action, thinks in time that young ladies will at least be allowed to do half the courting.

We notice by our down river exchanges that a number of individuals have been arrested and are at present confined in the Armstrong county jail, charged with stealing glycerine from the Roberts Petroleum Torpedo Company.

Look out for M. J. Samuel's new advertisement in tomorrow's paper.

The editor of the Petersburg Progress has paid a visit to the Butler oil field, and gives a part of his experience as follows:

On the Fourth of July, we visited the Butler oil field; the much talked of Eldorado of the oil men. The land flowing with grease, and overrun with dead boats.

The opinions which we had previously formed, from the reports from the lower districts, were fully confirmed. We found Petrolia overrun with loafers; business interests suffering from the rapid decline in operations in its vicinity, and every evidence of decay set plainly before us.

Fairview, which promised at one time to become the center of the lower region, has settled down to the conviction that she drew hasty conclusions, and "went in for stamps," while had she considered, solid reason would have told her that her existence as an oil town was a myth.

Karns City presents the appearance which is natural to a collection of true oil town buildings, and oil town characters. Gentlemen loafers, brutal buffers, sleek city business men lounging about the hotels...

Trade is very dull hereabouts at present. This is mainly due to the extremely low price of oil.

REMOVAL.—Dr. J. H. Heivley, long engaged in the dental profession in this place, has moved his office to Oil City, and will hereafter practice his profession there.

An attempt was made a night or two since to blow up the Roberts Torpedo magazine near Titusville. Had the attempt proved successful the loss of life and property would have been immense.

We understand the board of auditors of the Warren & Venango Railroad Company were in town yesterday, for the purpose of auditing the claims of parties owning the land over which the route is graded.

A railroad smash up occurred on the Oil Creek Railroad, near Brocton, yesterday, by which the engine of Conductor Taylor's train was badly smashed up by a gravel train backing into it.

In a recent case of assault with intent to kill, in Indiana, it was shown that the affray came about from a father insisting on remaining in the room with his daughter and her beau.

The latest of the new towns of the off region are Modoc City and Millertown. The former is represented as having thirty houses, where but two weeks ago there was nothing but nature.

They have a new style of building ascension in Stamford, Connecticut. Each member pays three dollars a week, and as fast as houses are erected lots are drawn to see who shall be the possessor.

So-called "spiritual" phenomena are undergoing tacit attack in London in the performance of a certain Herr Dobler. This person does exactly the very same things which the Davenport Brothers did but without claiming the assistance of any supernatural agency.

If the Boston newspapers will continue to impress upon the public that our Fire Department is worthless (which is not a fact), and our builders do not understand their business (which is also falsely), there is a prospect that rates for insurance will be more onerous than the income tax.

Is there any claim too extravagant for Chicago? It is now putting forth pretensions as a summer resort and trying to entice people to visit it merely for pleasure and enjoyment during the heated term.

Inspirations from Reading Walt Whitman's Last

Whereof and therefore now, voluptuous agency, so to speak, Bewildering and dazzling all appreciation of the Music Divine, Of which, or when, and even that, or hence or otherwise, The poet, Plasterer, Shoemaker, all and soul may comprehend, Five or six times as much, or more, or less, fugacious, Circles of stone, and mint, and myrrh, never or even thus, Pynerramous, sagacious, in all comperiaes love, both, and up, and down, Pompiliorious bareness, or even muck, or, thence and several, In New Hampshire, West Virginia, or 'neath the classic Bladenburg, Or (if I may be allowed the expression) or any other place, after or near, To-day, and then and here, before, and now behind and previous, do I thee adore.—Danbury News.

New Music.—We are indebted to Messrs. G. D. Russell & Co., Music Publishers, 126 Tremont street, Boston, Mass., for the following beautiful pieces of new music: "Open Wide the Golden Door," "There is rest for thee in Glory," "Nora is Pretty," "Dancing through the Leaves."

Red hot today. Oh for a local item.

The Elevated Railway is to be used in New York by the postoffice to transport the mails to and from the upper sections of the city. There are to be eighteen mails sent daily each way by this line, which, it is said, will considerably facilitate business.

The New Bedford Standard has made an investigation into the extent of the recent forest fires in that part of Massachusetts, and says: "The ground actually burned over, as far as we can learn from parties largely interested and who know the woods pretty well, is about 8,000 acres."

The handsome managing editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer a few days since plunged into the raging Miami canal and pulled out the mud the drowning cook of a packet. He received his reward. Her father wrote: "You have saved the gal's life; she's your'n!" The editor aforesaid wants somebody to drown that gal.

The will of a Kentuckian, made before his marriage, and giving all his property to the lady who became his wife, has been successfully contested by his legal heirs, it being held that the marriage operated as a revocation, and that the widow is entitled to only one-third.

It has been decided in St. Louis that the laws of Missouri do not recognize such a thing as a scout, and when one gets to wandering about in purgatory it must take care of itself. The decision was rendered in a case in which the relative of a deceased man sued for the sum of $4,000 devised for the purpose of praying for masses for the dead man's soul.

A new sensation has presented itself in Loddon in the shape of the arrival of the great Cape diamond, which has been consigned for sale to Messrs. Pillar Loverson & Co., of Gracechurch street. The weight of this splendid gem is about two hundred carats, and according to reliable authority, it is likely, when cut to be a worthy rival of the Koh-i-noor.

Be careful how you go to sleep at an auction. A gentleman settled himself in a comfortable chair, and his senses soothed by the auctioneer's lullaby, soon dropped asleep. When his nap was over he left the place. The next day he was astounded at the receipt of a bill for several hundred dollars worth of carpets and other things.

At a balloon ascension at Lafayette, on the Fourth, a live bear was taken up. The bear was attached to the balloon by harness, and as he went up and came down he uttered the most piteous cries. The balloon went but two squares and alighted on a roof. The bear used his claws to the best advantage on the shingled roof, but the balloon was too powerful for him, and it dragged him into the street, where he fell upon a pile of brick, receiving serious injuries.

A girl seventeen years old was arrested in Buffalo last Monday, charged with three separate attempts to burn her employer's house. After denying the crime for some time she at last made a full confession, saying that she only did it "to have a little fun with the folks," as she "knew they were badly scared."

The Shah of Persia knows how to say pretty things to ladies, if we are to believe a London Journal, which says that when he visited Queen Victoria, at Windsor he told her Majesty that until then he had reckoned his years from the day of his birth, but that he should henceforth date them from the hour of his meeting the Queen of England.

Women are never dumfounded. There is a Brooklyn belle who pickles her hands twice a week to make them white.

A Minnesota papersays: "If pitching fish from the lakes with an ordinary thin tined bay/fork is any indication of good fish log, then we have good fishing here."

The British Royal Humane Society recently awarded their bronze medal to an old gentleman in England, 82 years of age, who courageously plunged into the sea to rescue a drowning child.

Ladies of the demi-monde in Lexington, Ky., are to be incontinently arrested if they ride or drive in any vehicle through the "streets, cemetery, or other public places" of the city, and the nice legal question comes up whether the letter of the ordinance will let them ride to the cemetery in a hearse in case of need.

The Boston Herald is making "odorous" comparisons. It says that soup for the poor of Boston last year cost $4,000, and "refreshment" for the city government cost $41,000, or about $2 50 a day for each member of the Council. Boston must board her City Council, and give them pretty good board too, but as for her poor, they are always on hand, and there is much philanthropy in $4,000.

Walt VanAusdell a well known champion of local option has invented a new and cheap drink, composed almost entirely of water. He has named it "ratsplan."

A startling tombstone was erected to the memory of "Tabitha, beloved wife of Joseph Wright, Thomas Andrews, Eben Halseid, Charles Dean and Edwin Murray, by her devoted husband Cyrus Morgan. It was thought for a time that Morgan couldn't survive it.

Paul B. DuChailin has not succumbed to the rigors and perils of the regions bordering the Arctic, as was feared, nothing having been heard from or of him for some time, but was alive and well at Karasjok, Lapland, near the seventieth parallel of north latitude, on the 1st of May last.
