THE TORPEDO PATENT SUIT
Roberts vs. Nicholas Geyer
 The following is the decision rendered by Judge McKenna, at May Term of the Circuit Court in above case:
 In the Circuit Court of the United States, in and for the Western District of Pennsylvania.—E. A. Roberts vs. Nicholas Geyer.—No. 1.—May Term, 1878.—In Equity.
 November 21, 1872. Bill filed and subpoena issued.
 Subpoena and notice of application for preliminary injunction served.
 December 13, 1872. Motion for preliminary injunction heard, and the Court being duly advised the premises, the injunction awarded as prayed and decree filed.
 January 14, 1873. Injunction issued, and on 20th day of January indictment served, per and by copy.
 May 29, 1873. Rule issued for defendant to cause why attachment should not issue for contempt in violating injunction and duly served.
 June 24, 1873. Rule for attachment in this case on to be heard, and after argument of counsel pro and con, the Court being full advised in premises, the Rule is made absolute, and the tenor of the Court is, that the said defendant, Nicholas Geyer, be imprisoned in the common jail of Allegheny County for and during the term of days, and that he pay the costs of this proceeding.

June 24, 1873. Commitment issued.
 The injunction in this case was for infringement of the Roberts' patent of No.—(called the Big gun), for increasing the productivity of oil. The act of infringement for which the defendant was committed for contempt, consisted in an Alexandria Hamer by exploding torpedoes in wells being the same act of infringement for which Hamer was also committed in the case No. 3, venter Term, 1866, as before stated.
 The Court McKenna, J., after delivering opinion in the Hamer case, proceeded to send Nicholas Geyer for contempt, and delivered the following oral opinion:
 In the case of Nicholas Geyer charged with same offense, I am entirely satisfied that the defendant, in the Beas well at least, as intimated to the court in the course of the proceedings, the presence of fluid in the well, which is not, is an infringement of the patent, breach of the injunction of the Court.
 Mr Roberts, by his patent uses as one of the principal elements of his invention fluid tamping wherever there is fluid sufficient in a well, to prevent the explosion of a torpedo, to prevent tamping, whether it gets there naturally or there artificially, his patent is infringed. The clearly the case in regard to the Beas well.
 But Mr Geyer seems to have been misled Hamer, who told him that he merely would make an experiment; and I do not think, taking the first time, that he ought to be very severely punished.
 He also is adjudged guilty of contempt and to pay the costs of this proceeding; and an imprisonment in the county jail for ten days, which will be the last of these cases; but if the matter comes to my notice again, we will be constrained to impose such punishment as will make the decree of the Court effectual.
 June 24, 1873.
