THEFT. -- On Saturday last our townsman Mr. Henry Wittert and his brother were engaged in plastering and finishing up the new school house at Clapp farm. They had left their vests hanging in an outshed and on going for them at the close of the day's work, Mr. W's brother discovered bls watch which be always carried in his yest pocket minus. An inquiry revealed the fact that a number of boys had by seen around the out house. Mr. W. remained there awhile to search and was finally accosted by a man named Clark who informed him that while looking through his garden he (Clark) had discovered the end of the watch guard on top of the ground and had dog the watch up. As Clark's boy was among those who were skulking round the building, Mr. W. has strong suspicions as to how the watch came in the garden. As he has got the watch, however, he is satisfied to let the matter drop.

An accident occurred on the Valley Road at an early hour yesterday morning, which resulted in the smashing up of two or three passenger coaches, fortunately injuring no one. The accident was caused by a beavily laden freight train running into the rear of the passenger train.

The Parrot Which was Presented to a Clergyman's Wife.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Last winter a Gratiot street saloon keep/ er went to Cincinnati on a visit, and while seeing the town he came across a saloon sporting the wlokedest old parrot which ever learned to speak the English isnguage Gratiot street stood by and heard the bird "rip and tear" for a straight hour, and when he came home that parrot came with him. All the way up here the purchase "went for" brakemen and baggagemen, ripping out oaths which Capt. Kid couldn't have handled, and the further North he came the more wicked he grew. Reaching Detroit, his cage was hungjup in the saloon and "Jack" has been there ever since, up to Friday. It was a poor day when he diln' learn some new oath or slangy expression and finally be became so that nobody out a hardened villan could talk with him. He was sold last Friday for $20, and his owner kept him about an hour and they sont him as a present to a minister's wife who had been attentive to bis family during sickness She was very grateful, baving often thought how nice it would be to have a talking parrot around the house. "Jack" seemed put out by the change of owners, and sat on his perch all Friday night and relused to say a word. Saturday morning fibe minister's wife started for Pontiac, and she carried "Jack's" cage into her busband's study that neither might be lonesome. She had been gone about an hour, and the good man was scribbling away, when all at once the parrot shouted:

"Hearts is trump!"

The good man gave a jump and looked out of the window, thinking that a couple of bad boys were playing suchre under his shade trees. He could see no one, and supposing that he was mistaken, he seated himself and began to write again, when the parrot shouled :

"Not any gin, thank ye!"

Horrified, the clergyman looked around spoken yet determined to find jout, he in / quired ; "What ?" "Shut up, or I'll put a head on yel' replied Jack, hanging to the cage with one claw and shaking his feathere.

"Is it possible ?" exclaimed the good mat. drawing neater to the cage.

"Champagne Charley was his name-Champagne Charley was his name,' ang Jack, swinging furiously on the stick "Vile bird, you shall go out of bore!" said the minister in an excited voice; " would as soon barbor a highwaymau.

"Rouse mit him!" eried Jack, and then be chuckled and crackled as if he was laughing heartily.

"It is a sin and a shamo that men have taught an innocent bird to use such inny guage," continued the good man, as he picked up the cage.

"Hit him with a boor tumbier, replied the parrot, trying to fasten his claws into the ministerial leg.

"Little did my wife dream what a vip" she was bringing into the bouse," mused the man. "I shall hire some boy to carry you away."

"Send for the Black Maria," replied the bird, and while he was being carcied out he continued, "Who stole the wheelbarrow." The minister reached the stoop and call-d to a boy who was playing mumblely peg on the grass.

"Hore, bub," he said, as the boy came up; "take this bird off somewhere and give him away, and I'll give you two shilling s.' "Ob, dry up now!" growled Jack, seeming to know that he was to change places again. Ø

"Give him to any one who will take

THE OIL FIELD.

VICINITY OF MILLERSTOWS. The Preston well near town is complet" ed and yielding 100 barrels per day. The Gordon we it on the M'Dernit farm continues to flow about 200 barrels of oil per day.

A well on the Hemphill farm has the tools tuck and cable broken in the well.

Too Salisbury well, on the McDermi farm near Millerstown, struck on Friday o last week, started at 500 bbis.

A well owned by Stoughton. Duffy and McCandten, of Butler, located on the Widow Hemphill farm is in the sand and makes a good show.

The well on the Forker farm, which we said last woek was reported dry has proved otherwise. The sand has jaince been penetraied at a depth of 1535 feet and it has proved one of the best wells in this territory yielding, it is taid, about 260 bbls. per day. B. B. ctopbell and James M. Lambing are the fortunate owners.

The well on the Johnston farm which lies one mile south 22 degrees west of the Forker, it has been ascertained by leveling the the ground, lacks 43 feet of abeing deep enough and it is now being sunk [deeper. -The oil heretofore pumped from this well, itis thought, came from the stray sand .-- Oil man's Journal.

Bustles worn by all'subjects of the goddess fashion now a days are indeed cutious specimens of modern ingenuity and mechanism. A friend of ours (noted for ber garrulity) in conversation with us not long since tendered us the following description of the same which we furnish to our readers. at the same time we wouch for nothing or extenuate whatever. The first bustle that came out was the inflated bustle or balloon busile which had a very short life on ac' count of its smallness and everlasting ten/ easertly air current. Again, it was generally adopted, which was a strong argument in lavor of its disuse. Bustle No. 2, known as the demi-hoopskirt. This seemingly was perfect. But, no, the eternal desire of t be unregenerate is change and variety, consequently some one devised the plan of stuffing this bustle with newspapers which greatly increased its proportion. Was it perfect, now you ask? No, one fault which they failed to successfully combat with, was Good Horses, failing to keep the papers in the bustle. If M'lle so and so took a stroll up town, and assuming the intest walk she was sure to loose six or seven papers very much to her chagrin. Upon going into the ball room after a hop I found the floor covered with papers. What papers were used. Some liked one and another, some being secretigious enough to use the Christian Union and United Presbytegian " One was four d on Centre street by Mr. Marshail recently. Not knowing the "nater" of the thirg he called a number of others who knew no more of it than be. Old and reliable connoiseurs were called but still no authen-tic clue was found whereby any definite conclusions could be arrived at. Mr. M. conclusions could be arrived at. at. a., bas the thing in his possession bow.
