THE

TORPEDO PATENT SUITS.

Roberts vs. Nicholas Geyer.

The following is the decision rendered by Judge McKerran, at May Term of the Circuit Court in the above case:

In the Circuit Court of the United States, in and for the Western District of Pennsylvania.—R. A. L. Roberts vs. Nicholas Geyer.—No. 1.—May Term, 1872.—In Equity.

November 21, 1872. Bill filed and returned to read.

Apprais and notice of application for preliminary injunction served.

December 13, 1872. Motion for preliminary injunction heard, and the court being duly advised in the premises, the injunction awarded as prayed for, and decree filed.

January 14, 1873. Injunction dissolved, and on the 25th day of January indictment served personally and by copy.

May 22, 1873. Rule issued for defendant to show cause why attachment should not issue for contempt in violating injunction and duly served.

June 23, 1873. Rule for attachment in this case came on to be heard, and after argument of counsel pro and con, the Court being fully advised in the premises, the rule is made absolute, and the sentence of the Court is, that the said defendant, Nicholas Geyer, be imprisoned in the common jail of Allegheny County for and during the term of ten days, and that he pay the costs of law proceedings.

June 24, 1873. Commitment issued.

The injunction in this case was for infringement of the Roberts' patent of No.—(called the Big Patent), for their using the productiveness of oil wells. The act of infringement for which the defendant was committed for contempt, consisted in using Alexandria Harbor in exploding torpedoes in oil wells being the same act of infringement for which Harbor was also committed in the case No. 2, November Term, 1866, as before stated.

The Court McKerran, J., after delivering his opinion in the Harbor case, proceeded to sentence Nicholas Geyer for contempt, and delivered the following opinion:

"In the case of Nicholas Geyer charged with contempt, I am entirely satisfied that there was no excuse, I am entirely satisfied that he was present in the case well at least. As there is no objection to the record in the case of the defendant, the presence of said in the well, whether or not, is an infringement of the patent, and a breach of the injunction of the Court.

Mr Roberts, by his patent makes one of the principal elements of his invention fluid tapping, and whenever there is fluid sufficient in a well, at the time of the explosion of a torpedo, so operate as to tap the well, whether it gets there naturally or is put there artificially, his patent is infringed. This was clearly the case in regard to the Beach well.

But Mr Geyer seems to have been misled by Harbor, who told him that he merely wanted to make an experiment, and I do not think, that being the first time that he ought to be very severely punished.

He also is adjudged guilty of contempt and ordered to pay the costs of this proceeding and undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for ten days.—I hope this will be the last of these cases; because, if the matter comes to our notice again, we will be forced to increase such punishment as will be made to make the decree of the Court effective.
