Suicide at Oil City!

Special dispatch to RECORD.

OIL CITY, Nov. 7. A colored man named Leo Williams, an old resident of this city, shot and killed timself, this afternoon.

Cause-matrimonial difficulties. Will liams and his wife had quarreled frequently of late, and it is supposed be took this mean, of set ling the difficulty.

Dutch Henry was at his old pranks, last night, making so much noise that the officers of the law had to lock him up. He disturbed the entire neighborhood by his histy calls through the bars of his cell for morphine or whiskey, be didn't care which He said the "suns-en-bitchens" knew he had "thirdy toliars" that they wanted to refleve him of in the way of fine and

One Henry Shank, a knight of St. Crispin, has made a discovery. Having been successful of late in two or three fights with his "fraw," he began to think he was a knocker from the old house. Day before yesterday, having a little more than the usual amount of steam up, his whisky cours age took on a new form. He undertook the job of trouncing a fellow from Petrolia .-This time, not having a defenceless woman in front of him, he received what he justly deserved a good tanning, which it is to be hoped will make him a better citizen, se that when on the war path be will remember that some things can be done as well as

At forty ternutes past one o'clock torday an attemps was made to hang Wade but the rope was too long, and he touched the ground. The rope is now being shortened for another trial. Wade told the jatter to burry up, as he had an appointment to dine in hell with the Devil at two o'clock. He said the only thing troubling bim was whether the people he murdered are in beaven or bell.

The rope being too long bis feet struck remained standing, saying, "On Lord, have mercy!" The rope come off his neck, and as body fed ever heavily on the ground .-He was carried upon the scaffold and after a long decay in arranging the rope the cap was again pulled. He lett this time less than three feet. His purse continued to best for seven minutes. After hanging twenty, seven migutes he was placed in a coffin and taken charge of by his friends. Many pieces of the rope were cut off and carried away as relies by the spectators.

ABOUT THE CROPS -From the October Report issued by the Department of Agric cultural, we given the following as pertains ing to Western Pennsylvania: "The press ent year, like that of 1869, which produced the grop returned in the census of 1870, is one of low production as regards made, our mein cereal both in quantity and quaiity; while the quantity of wheat was tainer more than an average, in view of its increased area, though not equel to the greawheat crop of 1869 A large per cent of the corn crop will be soft, and the early trest injured the fodder. The potato "bug has proved a destructive element to the por tato growers. Late potatoes are reported light and not worth digging in many sections."

Emleaton tost six , buildings by fire on Saturday morning last, valued with their contents at twenty thousand dollars, on which there was an insurance o nine thousand dollars. Four of the houses belonged to Mrs. T. J. Moran who also tost a building in the last fire. At one time the flames threatened to destroy the entire business portion of the town, but by the exertion of the citizens under the lead of James Benntt the fire was kept in check -Emienton needs a fire engine as a matter of economy and safety.

How Briggs' Baby was Treated.

Thomas Briggs, of Twelfth street has a ony baby about 10 mouths old, who is add mitted at the beginning of this article to look just like his father, and to be the emartest boy baby of its age in Detroit .-Yesterday morning the child was sitting on the floor, playing with five or six big cost buttons on a string, and taking an occase ional nibble at an apple to bring out its first crop of teeth. Mrs. Briggs and a neighbor were talking away as only women can gos sip, when the baby hid the buttons under a mat and started to flatsh the apple. A bil of the skin got to his throat and he gave a cough and a whoop and pawed the air and tolled over on his head. Oh, them tons! he has swallowed them buttons!' cries the mother as she vanked him up and shook him. 'Pound him on the buck!' yell, ed the other woman trying to held the baby's legs still. Run for the neighbors! oried Mrs. Briggs. 'On, be'l die!' scream? ed the other, as she ran out. And the neighbors came in and made him the on his stomach and cough, and they turned him on his back and subbed his stomach, and toggled him about in all sorts of ways, notihe got mut and went to howling now ran for Briggs, and Briggs ran for the doctor, and the doctor came and choked the baby, and ordered sweet oil and montard plaster, and told them to bold him or his book Everybody knew that these six buttons were looked in the baby's throat, because he was red in the face, and because he struccled as he howled and went. They poured down sweet oil, and put mustare acrosshim, and wept over bim, and the mother said she could never forgive herself Bays drove by calling out: 'State went for sale?' and the solssors man went by smout tog: Sharp! sharp!' but the distressed crowd he d the buby down and shed their tears over his whole length. The doctor was looking serious, and Briggs was thinking that he hadn't done anything to deserve such a blow, when one of the women pushed the mat and discovered the bustons. Then everybody taughed and dauced, and they kicked t e sweet oil botz tle under the bed, threw the mustard plaster at the doctor, and Mrs. Briggs bugged the howling angel to her bosom and called him wopsy topsy hopsy droney tittle cheruhim.

the line of the J. & F. R R , at the uppe end of the Sutley flats, two miles above town, were depositing their tools in some bushes a few rods from the track they die. covered the dead body of a man. Information was given to Curoner Carbett and an inquest was held on Wednesday morning .--Two boys testified that they saw the deceased some three weeks ago going up the track shout 5 p. m., perfectly sober. They had some conversation with him, and he told them that he had been to Franklin to see his sick brother, whom he called Hugh Foley. He said he had missed all the trains, and was walking to the next station; that he lived at Stoneburo and owned some property there, that his wife was dead, his two sons had left him, and he lived all alone. At the time the boys saw him he had a basket and when the body was dis covered, a basket, a gallon jug. and a pint Hisk-all amote-w beside it. -The deceased was apparently 60 years old, with gray whiskers under his chin. H wore a greenish colored coat light colored pantaloons, coarse boots, and a straw hat. The body was much decayed, but not be, yond recognition.

The sum of one dollar and thirty-five cents was found in his pockets. There was no marks of violence upon the body.

A verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts and the body of the unknown was delivered to the County Commissioner for burial .- [V-nango Spectator
