destroy the patient but for careful treatment. Careful treatment, on Union principles, will, however, always effect a cure. Arkansas is the first of the sufferers that has been restored, and we welcome her as one rescued from the jaws of death. The new government may be, to a certain extent, provisional in its character. But it is the government de facto-the only State government that resides at the State capital. The people will start with it, and follow it up with one more deliberately and more solemnly created by themselves. Secessionists may sneer at it as unconstitutional and unlawful. But it is a thousand times more lawful and more constitutional than the government which put the State under the heel of the Richmond despotism, and which is now a destitute fugitive, that dare not come within a hundred miles of the capital. Arkansas is the first of the seceded States to come into the Union. She has opened the door, and those that were misguided like her will repent like her, and. one by one, return and share in the glories and the renown of the disenthralled and regenerated Union.

THE MEANNESS OF LOCOFOCOISM. There never was a political organization e essentially mean as the present Locofoco party. Eight years of Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan drove from the ranks of the Democracy almost every intelligent man who possessed any self-respect, and the attitude of the Copperhead faction since the breaking out of the war has made the matter simply a question of loyalty and patriotism. We doubt whether the annals of politics in any part of the world can furnish a parallel for the meanness of the sixteen Locofocos at Harrisburg, who are preventing the organization of the Senate by taking advantage of the fact that Major White is a prisoner of war at Richmond, and who are putting the last feather of meanness upon the back of public patience and forbearance, by throwing obstacles in the way of the reception of the resignation of the patriot prisoner, and by attempting to prevent the election of a Senator in his place. But even this wretched exhibition of meanness almost equaled in our own Common Council, yesterday. A protest against the expulsion from that body of the usurper Leech was read, and the paper bore the signatures of twelve men who were willing thus to stultify themselves for the sake of party. The reasons given for this protest were as follows: "1. That Isaac Leech had been duly elected a member of Council, &c., and that legal measures were taken to decide on the right of said Leech to hold his seat, and that said Leech was adjudged legally entitled thereto. "2. That the Court of Common Pleas and Supreme Court both adjudged that those who

to understand the true condition of rebel finances. He expresses the belief that the people, by their incontinent madness, are piling up a debt which they will have to pay, until ultimately it will topple and crush them under its weight. For some time past this illustrious representative of Southern rights has been dwelling in comparative obscurity. Early in the war he made himself conspicuous in a small boat in Charleston harbor, when the band of heroes in Fort Sumter were compelled to surrender, and subsequently preached treason and resistance to the ignorant residents of the mountainous sections of Southwestern Virginia; but as one of the civic dignitaries of the land he has not attained much notoriety. His silence, however, may have been caused by the attention he paid to the monetary interests of rebeldom, a subject which necessarily required close observation and investigation, and much arithmetical research. The results of his study are made apparent in his speech in the rebel Senate on the 18th of last month, wherein he confesses his inability to see anything but repudiation and bankruptcy; and if the former was to be the result, he was prepared to lay down his arms and surrender at once, as the loss of liberty would be more tolerable than the loss of honor. Wigfall was never supposed to have much honor, and the logical conclusion to arrive at is, therefore, that he is disgusted with the cause of treason, and anxious to surrender-not his arms, as he asserts, because he has taken good care to keep from the battle-field-but his voice and influence. The more insignificant leaders of the rebellion may continue their efforts to protract the war; but the leaders, those who are mainly responsible for the slaughter and devastation which have marked the progress of the contest, will endeavor gradually to extricate themselves from the trouble, and by soft words and repentant acts place themselves in a position which promises some slight hope of forgiveness. Wigfall, unfortunately, however truthful

His brutal, drunken conduct at Washington, before he deserted his flag, is still vividly remembered : his implication in the first conflict in Charleston harbor is not forgotten; and his subsequent misdeeds still await punishment. The country demands that he and his confreres shall be punished, and nothing but self-immolation should save them from the gallows. We thank him for his truths regarding the rebel treasury, but despise the author of the exposure.

SECESSION CANARDS.

The comfort to be derived from falsehood is the chief thing that keeps up the spirits of the rebels and their friends, in this country and in Europe. FREE ARKANSAS.

The Governor and State officers chosen by the recent convention in Arkansas were solemnly inaugurated at Little Rock on the the seat he usurped. 22d of January. A Union State government is thus re-established, and the abolition of slavery needs only a few formalities to become an accomplished fact. The usurpation that has so long oppressed the people of Arkansas is at an end. Out of the fiery furnace of rebellion, the State comes purified and free, to take a higher and nobler place in the sisterhood of republican commonwealths. The convention which has restored her was a far nobler body than that which pretended to withdraw her from the Union, in violation of the will of the people, as expressed at the polls. It has established a government which cannot be overturned Jno. H. Crawford, F. A. Wolbert, George by any new frenzy of secessionism. That W.
