THE MAUCH CHUNK, PA., BIOTERS.
[Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.]
READING, Pa., Feb. 1.—A military co mission has been convened here for the trial of the Mauch Chunk rioters of October last.

The commission met on the 26th ult., and proceeded to the trial of Philip Bergeman, on the following charges: Charge 1. Entering into, confederating and assisting in forming combinations to resist the execution of certain provisions of an Act of Congress, approved the 3d day of March, 1863, entitled "An act for enrolling and calling out the national forces," &c.

Charge 2. The commission of acts of disloyalty against the Government of the United States, and publicly expressing sympathy for those in arms against said Government, and nttering disloyal sentiments and opinions, with the object and purpose of defeating and weak-ening the power of the Government in its efforts to suppress the unlawful rebellion now existing in the United States.

Charge 3. For harboring, concealing, and secreting deserters, and counseling and advising Araffed men to absent themselves and evade their duty as soldiers. There are eighteen specifications to the above charges, one of which will be sufficient to give you an idea of the character of the accused and the nature of the trials. It is as follows, viz: Specification .- That the said Philip Bergeman, in furtherance of said combination and conspiracy aforesaid, and with the object and purpose aforesaid, as mentioned in the first above specification, did, in words substantially, declare and say, that they had been appointed a committee on the behalf of certain persons whose names are unknown, and that they came to give notice, and did give notice, to William Milnes, J. B. McCreary & Co., G. K. Smith & Co., William Carter & Son, and to other parties, proprietors engaged in the business of mining and getting out coal, from the mines of Audenried, Yorktown, Jeanesville, Beaver Meadow, and at other places in the counties of Carbon, Luzerne and Schuylkill, in the State of Pennsylvania; and these proprietors and persons so engaged in mining and getting out coal, from said mines, must stop all their works and workings in said mines, and if the said propri-etors did not stop the workings at said mines, they, or those whom they represented, would stop the works for them, as they were deter-mined to put a stop to the war and prevent the Government of the United States from receiving any more coal for the purpose of carrying Simon Weinreich was called by the Judge Advocate, who swore that he was induced to join a secret sworn organization known as the "Golden Circle," who held their meetings at the house of Conrad Horn, (one of the prisoners), near Hazleton. They were sworn to support "the Constitution as it is and the Union as it was;" to aid each other in opposition to the draft, and in every possible way to weaken the efforts of the Administration of Lincoln to put down the Southerners. The witness exposed the secret work of the organization, as follows: The mode of entering a circle is by giving three raps at the door, when the guard will present self and receive, in a whisper, the password-"Jwan" (or "Johan")-which will admit him into the room. He will then make a sign, whilst walking into, or across the room to his seat, by simply pressing the fore-finger and thumb of the right hand together, keeping the arm in a natural posi-Should the Government succeed in forcing a member into the army against his will, it is his duty to embrace the first opportunity to go on picket, and if within hailing distance of the "Confederate" pickets, he will make the hailing sign by raising his hat three times. The "Confederate" picket, if a member of the Circle, will make the same sign and say The member of the "Circle" will say "Ho," and the rebel picket will utter the the member of the "Circle" will repeat "Ho," and the rebel picket then says "Richmond." This completes the ceremony and mond." This completes the ceremony, and the next duty of the 'Circle" man is to go over to the enemy as a prisoner, to be taken to Richmond, and to be cared for during the war, or released on parole, so as to relieve him from active duty. According to instructions received by the witness when initiated, the leaders of the "Circle" are Gen. Lee, of the Confederate army, and General McClellan of the Union army, with several other generals of both armies whose names the witness does not remember. The prisoner (Bergman) with the witness (Weinrich) and several others as a committee, went over to Audenreid and notified J. B. McCleary & Co. that they were required to stop the work in their mines—that the Government shall have no more coal for the navy or for the manufacture of ordnance until the war is stopped. Mr. Mumper, of the firm of J. B. McCleary & Co., testified to this fact, and one of the prisoner's witnesses in cross-examination fully corroborated the principal witness as to the signs, passwords and objects of the "Golden Circle." The prisoner offered several witnesses to prove his good character for loyalty. The of these was his brother-in-law, who said that his loyalty was above suspicion, and to prove it he mentioned the fact that he voted for Lincoln, and gave him (the witness) a Lincoln ticket. The witness, however, didn't know how the prisoner voted at the last election in Pennsylvania, whether for Curtin or Woodward.

The testimony in the case was closed on Tuesday last, and a sentence pronounced by the commission, but by the rules regulating military courts, it cannot be made public until it is promulgated by General Couch. An idea may be formed of the nature of the penalty of the crime, by referring to Sec. 25 of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1863, which declares that any individual who may be con-victed "shall be forthwith delivered to the civil authorities, and, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding two years, or by both of said punishments."

The next person put on trial was Michael O'-Donnell, who was arraigned on the same charges and specifications upon which the first prisoner was tried. The following was another of the specifications the prisoner was required to plead to:

Specification 1. In this, that the said Michael O'Donnell did on the said Michael Mich chael O'Donnell, did, on or about the 1st day of October, 1863, unite, confederate and combine with Charles Sharpe, James Campbell, and many other disloyal persons, whose names are unknown, and form or unite with a society or organization commonly known and called by the name of "Buckshots," the object of which society or organization was and is to resist the execution of the draft, and prevent persons being drafted under the provisions of said Act of Congress of March 3, 1863, from entering the military service of the United States. And the said Michael O'Donnel did afterward resist and evade the execution, and advised and counseled others to resist and evade the execution of the said Act of Congress of March 3, 1863. This done at or near Banks Township, Carbon county, Penn., on or about the 1st day of October, 1863.

of October, 1863.

The prisoner, according to the evidence, attended a meeting on the mountain between Janesville and Hazletown, some time last June, for the purpose of adopting measures to resist the draft. Speeches were made by Edward Winters (who was also Presiding Officer of the Golden Circle," and has since left for parts make the draft. The tenor of the unknown) and others. The tenor of the speeches were for the "support of the Constitution as it is, and the Union as it was"—to stand together in opposition to the draft, the Proclamation, and the "nigger war." Father Laughlin, a priest, residing in Hazlo-town, appeared in the meeting, made a speech, and ordered the men to disperse, yet a number of them remained, appointed a committee to enroll names to resist the draft, and give all who refused to co-operate with them, twentyfour hours to leave, or be killed.

In order to show the state of society resulting from these meetings and communications, Capt. E. H. Rauch, Deputy Provost Marshal was called to the stand, who testified "that he resided in Mauch Chunk, and was Deputy Provost Marshal of the Eleventh District; that he found it extremely difficult to get any one to serve as enrolling officer in Banks Township, those to whom he applied alleging that no man dare attempt it because of the state of society there; organizations were in exist-ence to resist the draft by force." Finally he succeeded in procuring an enrollment but only an imperfect one. After the draft he was enabled to serve the notices on the drafted men by aid of a military force. Great difficulty was found in obtaining the names of individuals, as nearly all the people seemed to be banded together, and would not give the name of their nearest neighbor. Children from 12 to 14 years of age denied any knowledge of the names of their parents, and wives also denied knowing the names of their husbands. The route between Janesville and Beaver Meadow was well picketed by these people, and signal gnns were fired on the approach of the military.

Captain Raugh then detailed the circumstances of the visit to Janesville with a military force, where he was told there was a force organized to resist him. He searched several houses there and secured a number of stand of arms. This excited state of feeling continued from June 1 until the middle of November when the 10th Regiment New Jersey Volun-teers were ordered to the district. The witness also stated that the loyal people in the vicinity were very much alarmed, and many of them left or were about leaving. Many of the loyal people were murdered, and the civil authorities made no effort to stop these proceedings. No taxes were collected, and the Clerk of the County Commissioners informed him that they could collect none. In the latter part of August a mob of 50 or 100 persons visited Mauch Chunk, and by force and violence took one Patrick Cull from the county jail. This party or mob came from Banks township.
Capt. Rauch then made these remarkable statements, in reply to a question from the Judge Advocate: He said:

"When I was at Beaver Meadow, serving the notices on drafted men, Mr. J. K Smith, a resident of Yorktown, gave me a map of Yorktown, which he had drawn up, indicating the houses in which the drafted soldiers resided. We used this map to good anyantage, but did not state where we obtained it. When at Yorktown with the soldiers, serving notices, the men were halted in front of Mr. Smith's store, while I and my assistants served the no-Mr. Ulrick, clerk in Smith's store, gave tices. the soldiers some refreshments, and each one a plug of tobacco. When we had completed the work, and were about returning, Mr. G. K. Smith's wife strongly appealed to me to have the soldiers retained there, predicting that they would all be murdered as soon as the soldiers left. Either that same day or the next morning, Mr. Smith and his wife came to Mauch Chunk and returned the same day. Mr. Smith was murdered in his own house the night of his return from Mauch Chunk, and Mr. Ulrick was shot through the leg.

Captain Rauch also stated that the population was for the most part Irish, and that the majority of them were from Donegal, in Ireland.

The investigation before the commission has shown that in the whole coal region of Pennsylvania, lawlessness reigns supreme. The miners dictating to the proprietors the price they shall pay for mining coal, who they shall hire, and the quantities they shall mine. The most fabulous prices are, in some cases, demanded by the miners, and unless it is paid the mines are stopped. Many miners receive as high as $10 per day, and the lowest price that is paid is about $5 per day, while common laborers who do nothing but load coal, receive $2 50 per day. Civil law throughou the whole mining region is entirely suspended, and if it were not for the presence of the military, the mines could not be worked even at the present

There are about seventy-five cases of this kind yet to be tried by the commission. WANTS.
