REPORT OF A FIFTH VISIT OF LADIES TO THE FRONT OF THE ARMY OF THE POTO MAC AT CULPEPER, VA.

"Home, sweet home, there is no place like home, " especially to ladies who have sojourned a couple of weeks at the extreme front of the Army home,' home, "respecially, to ladies who have sojourned a couple of weeks at the extreme front of the Army of the Potomac, and during "a fight." It made me smile to read in the widely diffured BULLTIN about the dirfy streets of Phinteliphia, and to compare their present unple isant, and per-haps unhealthy; condition, to the occaus of mad, a foot diep, throughout the region of, the ensump-ment of the Army. Mud, muddy, muddless, wherever you goat the front, rendering gum boots (a peculiar institution," for ladies at least. Mud here, mud there, mud every where. But may as well commence the beginning by esying I left Philadelphia on Monday moraing February 1st, instaut, for Washington, whence to Fairfax Station, across the famous plains of Ma-mass, once occupied by the rebil General Beau regard's forces, and the celebrated Bull Run Bata-tie grounds, including that of the second Bull Run, to Broad Kun and Warrenton Junction; thene to Rappahanaock, Bristoe and Braindy Sha ions, to the small village of Olapeper, bring the extreme fruit, a Colouel of a somewhat similar oid country siyle of name as mine pointing out to us, on the way, the different interesting apous. At Culpeper we ascertained we could be the locat ourselves, nearest the centre of the army, at Bran-dy Station, so we returned a short distance thicher on a freight car, and there we found our nineicen large boxes of swintny stores just then arrived The Sceretary of War at Wachington had kindly.

dy Shiloz, solve richard a cost of a solution of the solve of an indice of a sinitary stores just then arrived. The Secretary of War at Wa-hingson had kindly, facilitated us by previously sending to me in rhi-ladelphia official 'pas-es' to visit the front, sav-ing us the delay requisite to have procured them on our arrival in the city of mightheet distances. My husband had also consigned our nineteen packages of goods, a day or two before our depar-ture from home, the the care of Brigadier General Rucker, Quartermaster General, and Brigadier General Hammond, Surgeon General, both of whom most courteously forwarded them to the front, relieving us of a vast trouble in the neces-sary forms and routine of office. We fully appre-ciate all these favors from the Government, inas much as my husband could not escort us to Vir-ginia by reason of his professional engagem ints in stry follows and roots from the Grovernment, inagmet diate all these favors from the Grovernment, inagmet has my husbuild could not escort us to Virginia by reason of his professional engagem statis in Philadelphia, and I was thus deprived of his valuable assistance and companionship. His Excèllency, Governor Curtin, kindly furnished us with transportation to Washington I was, however, accompanied by Mrs. S. R. Chase and the Rev. R. G. Chase, both of whom remained a fow days at the front, and also by Mirs. H. McLoughinn, who staid with me during the time I was a usen i from home.

On the same train from Philadelphia to Washington, were Mr. Jay Cooke and Mr. George II. Staart, both intent upon furthering the well known cause of the Obristian Oommission, whose delegates at Brandy Station kindly introdue at us to the only building in that vicinity, a dilapidated old frame Seccial shanty, chiefly occupied by Government telegraph operators, except oue room which was transied by Mrs. J. Mayhew, agent for the State of New Jersey, and these ladies in the kindest manner extended to us a hearty wele, me. We were accommod tted with a shall garret, and several former acquantances from different regiments immediately tendered us every attention in their power; stan orderly'' being detailed to remain with us during our stay in our new, or räther old aird lofy abode. He prepared the way by a copious removal of dust and cobwabs, and he patched up numerous apertures in the roof by stuffing them with rags.

vere filled with straw from a Commissary Depart were filed with straw from a Commissary Depart-ment, but unfortunately this light material was affected with a considerable dampness, and I fear I shall suffer, from influenza and rheumatism. Rats and mice were quite abandant, and scam-pred about our sky-parlor during the dark hours in astonshment at so extraordinary an intrasion upon their eminent domain. True, we had, like-wise, fetched our tent from Philadelphia, but we felt truly grateful for the accommodations afforded: us, the best in their power, by Mrs. Paynter and Mrs. Mayhew, and particularly for the warm re-ception extended to us by these amjable and phi-lanthropic ladies.

ception extended to us by these amiable and phi-lanthropic ladies. Having formally reported ourselves to Brig.-Gen. Patrick, the Provost Marshal General, we were permitted to distribute our stores just where we pleased. Nothing could exceed the kind polite-ness of officers and privates to wards ns. Wherever we went it was always the same welcome, and we encountered many friendly acquaintances in whit-ever direction we traveled, kind greetings being expressed alike by officers, privates, doctors and cheplains. Their thanks to us, however, for our voluntary and gratinitous endeavors to assist a little in alleviating the wants and encouraging it , efforts of our brave volunteers, really and pro-perly belong to the generous public of Philadelphia and of the various towns of the State of Pennay1-for a speedy advance to succour our wounded in front. One feature in the affray, Tcannot well-describe namely, the awful cursing and shameful swearing of the supply-wagon teansters, who were letion in number; corresponding with the wants of so large an army as ours; especially when the four-footed brutes fell down or, the wagons got into beles in the mid. At last the firing grew less rapid and was gradually less and still le's distin-thy heard, and then we knew for certain that our vic-torious boys were pursuing the rebels. So we hastened into an ambulance with the balance of our stores, and proceeded to tender what little essistance, and all the sympathy we could, to the returning braves, and to the prostrate wounded in the hospitals near where the light occurred. On our way we met some of the former, and your readers being already familiar with the fast that our volunieers had eagerly waded the Rayidin, rather than wait for the planting of the pontoon bridges, and what with the wet, fatigua and excitement, shivering with cold, our supply of several hundred flamel shirts and woosen socks, were quite opportane. Here I must be allowed to allude to the indefatigable attentions and constart care shown to all the men by the sur-g ons, and the incessant religious labors of the chaptains, neither of which branch can be too highly commended. It would be superfluons to state that from per-sonal observation I am sure that nothing which skill and money can do for the benefit of the well or the sick or the wounded is ever omitted to be done by the Government and i's officers. One word in reference to secesh "farmers" and their wives who contrive occasionally to hang about the army, to beg by day. I verify think they are mere spies, and caonot be watched too closely. One secesh farmer's wife asked me for something, but sI I ad not stock enough to give o our own undoubiedly loyal citizen soldiery, I certaining, but sI I had not stock enough to give "o our own undoubiedly loyal citizen soldiery, I certaining the same nothing for her, although she did look miserable. She then tanutingly asked me 'what might be my rank in the Union army'' and ' if I braveled regularly armed,'' so I an-swered 'if was enly a Captain-General,'' which latter seemed rather to puzzle her. Another, a secesh farmer, inquired 'iwhether the North was making much preparation against the signit the Spring,'' to which I replied, "inter-sested, "if the North had heard what the Southin-tended to do.'' I told him 'no,'' but that 'if had heard at head parters, that our government injai-tto SAMUEL C. DAWSON, Sec'y. I talked to several rebel deserters on different occasions and they seemed to intimate that the rebel forces would very much like to make the rich provinces of Maryland and Pennsylvania the scene of the next battles. As my sojourn on this occasion to the front was now crawing to a close, many of the men, as well as officers, doctors and chaplains, expressed their good wishes towards us at parting. perly belong to the generous public of Philadelphia and of the various towns of the State of Pennsyl-vania, New Jersey and New York, who have so frequently assisted as with their liberal and con-tinued donations of money and goods on behalf of the paiviotic soldiers. To the public, therefore, who have often thus aided me, I respectfully and cord ally iransfer the reiterated thanks of the re-cipients of their kind benevolence. The Bey. R. G. and Mrs. Chase having re-turned home after two or three days sojourn with me at the Front, only Mrs. Macloughlin and myself remained, bat we exerted ourselves the more, to make up the serions loss we experienced by the departure of Mrs. Chase, whom we much vished could have been enabled to remain longer. My companion and myself prepared gelating, c., for the sick, and dard, whiely of warm clothing, &c., with which, amone otherwise Wished could have been enabled to remain longer. My companion and myself prepared gelating, &c., for the sick, and distributed to the soldiers personally, with our own hands, a variety of warm clothing, &c., with which, annung other things, we had bees provided. Un one day we were fur-mished with an ambulance to visit, with some suitable atticles, the 1st Corps, and on the follow-ing day, the 6th Corps; on the next day, the 3th Corps; on the day subsequent, the 5th Corps and afterwards the 2d Corps. To each Corps there other, and generally, three Brigades to each Division; the regiments being the ordinar; com-plement to each brigade, I believe. We therefore inarefure Divisions often far distant from each Division; the regiments being the ordinar; com-plement to each brigade, I believe. We therefore inarefue a great many miles daily in the ampu-lances, the army being scattered over an extensive space, over roads almost impassible at times either for man or beast, after beavy rain storms. On one occasion, the best road was to follow thas middle of a shallow fiver for some distance of its course; but after a while, the stratum at the bottom of the river, was of an unusnally yielding nature, causit go ne of the horses to fall prostrate in the water. In this pretty dilemma, iny companion began to enquire into the propriety of funning, but rules of the aim; she witnessed with comparative indifference the plunging of the poor animal and its intifference the plunging bath, as we the kicks and splathes of the fallen quadruped. After our enjoi jis ((urvy)) he prospect generally, for a considerable period, we were relieved from happe.ing by chance to reach the scene of the water from happe.ing by chance to reach the scene of the iver vehicles, and we stepped across the water from happe.ing by chance to reach the scene of the iver track, when a plank was ind between the two one ambulance to the other in safety.
