THE WAR FOR THE UNION

DEFEAT OF THE REBELS IN THE SOUTH-HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Feb. 20.—Official information from Gen. Dodge was received at Gen. Logan's headquarters to-day, that the rebels, supposed to be Roddy's command, attempted to cross the Tennessee river at three different ferries, but were driven back by Dodge's troops. The loss of Union troops was very slight.

It is rumored here that Gen. Sherman has had a fight with the rebel Gen. Polk, near Brandon, and whipped him, taking 12,000 prisoners.

CAPTURE OF YAZOO CITY. ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21.—Information has been received that, after two or three days' skirmishing, our forces captured Yazoo City, and now hold it.

Our forces at Vidalia, Miss., were recently attacked and driven by Dick Taylor, but reinforcements and gunboats came to the roller of our troops, and Taylor's command was scattered and a large number were killed and wounded.

GENERAL SHERMAN'S EXPEDITION. GENERAL SHERMAN'S EXPEDITION.

OAIRO, Feb. 20.—Au officer who has just arrived here from the Big Black river, reports that, before reaching Jackson, a skirmish ensued between a part of General Sherman's forces and a body of from four to five thousand rebels, in which the enemy were defeated and forty of them captured. Our army had passed through Jackson, Miss., and two columns of the enemy were retreating across the Pearl river so precipitately that his pontoons together with two pieces of his artillery and a number of prisoners, fell into our hands. Our forces seized provisions of all kinds and swept on.

Great dissatisfaction is said to exist among the Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi regiments, and a large number of deserters are coming into and it large fullment our lines.

General Sherman reached Meridian ten days after leaving Victisburg.

A portion of General Tuttle's command, which got behind and was cut off from the expedition, had returned to Vicksburg

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21, 1864.—Ex-Representative Bouligny, of Louisiana, died in Washington yesterday. He strongly refused to follow the example of his colleagues and the other Secession members in withdrawing from the House in the Thirty-Sixth Congress, and served the full term for which he was elected.

Fourteen United States vessels are now waiting for seamen, being ready, in other respects, to proceed to their respective points of destination. that the oath has been taken for the mere purpose of obtaining the possession of personal property serized under the Confiscation acts, with intent to remove it from the subsequent reach of the officers of the law, you will make report of the facts and reasons for your belief at this office before discontinuing the proceedings or restoring such property to the possession of the owner.

For legitives under the firth section of the act of 13th July, 1661, chap, 3 are not of the class reached by the President's proclamation, for, under that act, the question whether the property sized is subject to forfeiture, depends upon the predicament of the property itself, and not upon the personal guilt or innocence of its owner. In this respect forteitures under that act have more resemblance to cases of prize of war captured at sea as enemy property than to proceedings under the acts of August 1631 and 164 are 1646.

enemy property than to proceedings under the acts of August, 1861, and July, 1862. Such forfeitures are enforced not so much to punish the owner for disloyal acts as to prohibit commercial intercourse, and to weaken the public enemy, which are always efficient instruments and legitumate effects of public war efficient instruments and legitimate effects of public war.

But although the remission of forfeitures under the act of July, 1861, are thus not within the scope of the Proclamation of Pordan still ample power is conferred on the Secretary of the Treasury, by the eighth section of that act, to mitigate or remit all forfeitures and penalties incurred under the act. And it is not to be doubted that, in all propercases under that act, where the owner of the property, residing in the territory in rebellion, complies with the conditions of the Proclamation, the Secretary of the Treasury will exercise the nower Secretary of the Treasury will exercise the power of remission of such forfeiture in the same spirit of generous forbearance and liberality which inspired and characterizes, the Proclamation:

GREAT BRITAIN. The steamship Bohemian left Liverpool for New York on the afterneon of the 4th inst. In the House of Lords, Earl Derby reviewed at ength the foreign policy of the Government, conending that it was injurious and humilisting to England. to England.

The rejection of the Emperor Napoleon's proposal for a European Congress, and of his invitation to recognize the Government of the Confederate States, together with the fruitless negotiations with Russia respecting Poland and the nterference in the Dano-German difficulty, were severally referred to by Earl Derby, and although he did not oppose the address, he severely censured Earl Russell's foreign policy.

Earl Russell, in reply, explained the Dano-German difficulty, and showed that England was quite unfettered in the matter, never having given the slightest promise of assistance to Denmark.

Earl Grey condemned the bombardment of Kagasima, and thought that Denmark had been en-couraged to look for assistance from England. Earl Granville replied, defending the Govern-

In the House of Commons, Mr. D'Israeli spoke in a similar strain to Earl Derby, assauling the foreign policy of the Government.

Lord Palmerston replied, vigorously defending the course of Earl Russell.

Mr. Gladstone explained that the promise of Englished to stand by Denmark was given under circumstances different from those which control the present war.

Mr. Layard read despatches from Austria and Prussia, stating that whatever arrangements might be made relative to Schleswig and Holstein, the Great Powers would be consuited.

After some other speeches, the address to the Queen was agreed to.

Ein the course of his remarks, Mr. D'Israeli contended that the Queen's speech should have made some reference to American affairs, and complained of its silence on this and other important subjects. Lord Palmerston replied that the Government

Lord Palmerston replied that the Government could only have repeated what has often been said before, and he could see no necessity for that. Earl Derby, in the House of Lords, repudiated the idea or British responsibility for the doings of the Alabama. He trusted that the Ministers had given such an answer to the claim of the Federal Government as would put an end to such monstrous demands in future. Stroug demands in future.

The debate on the Danish question generally inspired more confidence in commercial circles in England, but it was felt that it by no means defined what ultimate shape the policy of England would also would take.

In the House of Commons, on the 5th instant,
Mr. Whiteside called attention to the distress in Ireland, and the consequent emigration of fighting men to America.

Lord G. Manners expressed the hope that the Government would lose no opportunity of giving friendly advice to the American beligerents, with the view of ending the bloody contest.

The Parliamentary papers relative to Japan estimate the destruction of property at Kagasima at one million sterling, and fifteen hundred killed.

The steamer Alabama, on the 5th of January, The steamer Alabama, on the 5th of January, was fifty miles south of Rangoon, on the Aracan coast, watshing the rice ports. Her position was also threatening to American vessels at Calcutta.

THE WAR IN SCHLESWIG.

Additional details of the attack on Alissunde give the following particulars:

The loss of the Danes in the attack on Missunde was from 150 to 200 men. The Prussian loss is variously estimated at from 150 to 300 killed and wounded. Some accounts say that the Prussian loss was much greater than this. The Prussian loss was much greater than this. The Prussian loss was much greater than this. force numbered 9000, and that of the Danes about 2000. Two stormings were attempted by the Prussians, but they were repulsed, the Danes maintaining a heavy fire against the storming party. According to one account, one Prussian regiment was totally destroyed by the fire of the Danes. The Prussians retired to Eickenforde.

A Hamburg despatch of the thinstant, says that Prince Frederick Carl is reported wounded in the arm.

An attack on the whole Danish line, from Missunde to Iagel, was expected to take place on the 4th instant.

The Prussian headquarters were at Kiopp.

The war has already created a suspension of shipping between England and the Baltic.

A semi-official Vienna paper expresses the hope hat the explanations just sent by Austria and Prussia to England will avoid all further complications.

The London Times says: "The British Govern

The London Times says: "The British Govern, ment, a few days since, made to the two German Powers a proposition which deprived them of every possible ground for hostilities. England offered to guarantee the fulfillment of the required conditions, and to embody German principles as to the governmentorSchleswigHolstein, in the protocol to be signed by the signers of the treaty of 1852.

"When, therefore, the troops of the two German Powers passed the Eider, those Governments knew that all they had demanded had been conceded, and not only conceded, but warranted by a first-rate Power, which had been the chief adviser of Denmark and possessed the power of enforcing out its own opinion. Can it then be said that the war on which they have entered is other than useless carnage? But with the antagonism between the Dane and German, heat d by mutual slaughter, we have little hope that moderate counsels will be listened to by either side."

The proceedings on the 3d inst., against Schleswig are reported as follows in an official despatch from the Prussian headquarters.

"The Austrian van-guard, led by General Yon Gablenz in person, with the van-guard of the Prussian Guards, advanced against Schleswig. At the third charge with the bayonet the allies repulsed the Danes posted between Lottorf and Gottorp, and stormed Konigsberg and Oberselk. The attacking force captured a rifled gun and penetrated onward until beneath the fire of the cannon arming the Dannerwerke. The losses are inconsiderable."

Another account asserts that the German loss was very great.

The attack was continued on the 4th instant, without making much impression on the Danish lines.

One grenade fell into the town of Schleswig, but the town itself was bear readed against a series.

One grenade fell into the town of Schleswig, but the town itself was barricaded against a coup de moin. de moin.

A false guide conducted the Prussians and the Austrians, and they fired upon each other.

On the 5th instant a fall of snow prevented much activity among the opposing forces, but there was random firing in the vicinity of Schleswig.

The Faris correspondent of the London Times The Faris correspondent of the London says:

"At a ball on the 3d inst., the Emperor Napoleon said to a group of Marshals and Generals:
"It appears they have begun the exchange of cannon shot in the North. Let them go on, gentlemen; let them go on. It is no affair of ours. Our policy should be non-intervention."

Those whom he addressed seemed to agree with him.
