EVENING BULLETIN WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1864.

TEE NEXT PRESIDENCY. Secretary Chase should beg his friends to ruin him. People will lose sight of his high talents and his great services to the country, when they find him rudely thurst forward as an antagonist of the President, to whom he owes his present position. The circular (by some said to be a hoax) signed "S. C. Pomeroy, Chairman of the Executive National Committee," which has been made public, is calculated to do very great damage to Mr. Chase's political prospects. At the same time, it must place him in an uncomfortable and embarrassing position as a member of Mr. Lincoln's cabinet. In a remarkable manner, and without any efforts being made by himself, Mr. Lincoln has been put forward for re-election by the people of nearly every loyal State. Within a few days the Union State Conventions of three States, Connecticut, Maryland and Indiana, have re-nominated him by acclamation, and in many other States the Legislatures have expressed their preference for him with unexampled unanimity. These expressions of opinion come directly from the representatives of the people, and they are of infinitely more weight than the cunningly devised schemes of profesional politicians like Mr. Pomeroy. They are of far greater weight, too, than the specious arguments of Mr. Horace Greely, who has undertaken to prove to the people that they are wrong, and that he is right. One of his principal reasons for opposing the re-nomination of Mr. Lincoln is that it is wrong to give a President a second term. There is such a total want of common sense in this, that we are surprised to see it urged by an intelligent editor. If a man makes a satisfactory President, there is every reason in the world for re-electing him, rather than incur the risk of a new and untried man. The country has never made as good progress under single-term Presidents as it did under Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Jackson, each of whom was elected to a second term. As a matter of party policy alone, it is unwise to lay aside a good President at the end of four years. The Democrats understood this, and, in every case but two, we believe, re-nominated the Presidents they had elected. They thus ment for so long a period. The Republicans should follow their example, though from the bigher motive of patriotism. We have no idea that the opposition of James Gordon Bennett, Horace Greely and S. C. Pomeroy is going to have any influence against the numerous popular demonstrations in favor of Mr. Lincoln's second nomination. But there are nervous people who get easily disturbed upon very trifling provocation, and it is to quiet their apprehensions that we have alluded to the subject at the present

A NEW YORK SNAKE IN THE LEGISLATURE. The Pennsylvania Coal Company is a rich and powerful New York corporation, owning and operating coal mines in Pennsylva-It has, at various times, obtained special privileges from our Legislature, and now it is seeking for others. The following extraordinary bill has lately been introduced into the House:

A supplement to an Act to incorporate the Washingion Coal Company, etc.

'That the Pennsylvania Coal Company, incorporated in pursuance of an act of the General Assembly passed April 16, 1838, and the Supplement thereto, be and they are hereby authorized to PURCHASE COAL and also to hold. by purchase or lease, for the purpose of carrying on their operations, an additional quantity of land in the county of Luzerne, not exceeding three thousand acres."

There is a deception in the very title of this bill; for people generally would not imagine that a supplement to the charter of an unknown company could refer to a well known and wealthy corporation like the Pennsylvania Coal Company; and when the various stages of the bill, as it passes through the Legislature, are reported, little or nothing will be thought of it, unless the public are made familiar with its character. It proposes to give to this foreign corporation privileges which are denied to other coal mining and carrying companies. The right to purchase coal, and to purchase a lease of three thousand additional acres of land, should not be granted to this company with. out very good reasons, which should be made known to the public. If such right is given the Pennsylvania Coal Company, a similar right may be demanded by every other coal company. We trust the honest members of the Legislature, who recognize the rights of our own citizens, will look into this matter. If the reports are true about the cheap rate at which votes may be bought this winter, we fear that this rich New York corporation may be able to purchase. any privileges it may desire. But it mustnot be done without some show of opposition on the part of honest men.

WHAT IS AN ANNIVERSARY!

The Press takes the BULLETIN, in com, mon with some other of its contemporariesto task for calling Monday last "the one hundred and thirty-first anniversary of the birth of Washington." That illustrious patriot was born February 22d, 1732, and had he lived until Monday last, he would have been one hundred and thirty-two years old upon that day. From this our neighbor argues that Monday last was the one hundred and thirty-second anniversary of his birth, and not the one hundred and thirty-first. We cannot see it in that light. The anniversary of an event is the yearly return of the day upon which it occurred. The 22d of February, 1732, was Washington's birthday, and not the anniversary of that event. His first anniversary consequently came around on the 22d of February, 1733, and "by the same token" Feb ruary 22d, 1864, was the one hundred and thirty-first anniversary of the event, although Washington would have been one hundred and thirty-two years old, had he lived until that day.

We cannot agree with the Press in another of its conclusions, to wit, that if Monspare him. They are urging his claims to day last was the one hundred and thirtythe Presidency in a way that bids fair to first anniversary of Washington's birthday, the wrong day will be celebrated in April next, when the ter-centenary of Shakspeare will be observed. The word centenary is defined to mean a hundred years, or anything that relates to a hundred years. As Shakspeare was born in 1564, his ter-centenary will be properly celebrated in 1864; it will be the three hundredth birthday of the great poet; but not the three hundredth anniversary of his birthday.

KENTUCKY. Since the waning fortunes of the rebels have become apparent to the world, we have been accustomed to see all kinds of demonstrations in the border States, in favor of emancipation. West Virginia first raised the standard of freedom to all; Maryland followed; Missouri is bravely struggling to bear it aloft; Arkansas has freed herself from the pollution of slavery, and in Tennessee and Louisiana the emancipation tendencies grow stronger every day. In Kentucky alone has there been a dogged determination, apparently in all parties, to hold on to slavery, dead or alive, lawful or unlawful. Governors, legislators, journalists all have united in resisting the free spirit of the age, and in denouncing President Lincoln for interfering with their darling institution. With the exception of Gen. Rousseau, Cassius M. Clay, and Geo. D. Blakey, we can scarcely recall a solitary Kentuckian of prominence who is not an outspoken pro-slavery man. Yet, in spite of all this, an emancipation convention has just closed its sessions at Louisville, which we hope will let in a little light on the darkened minds of the natives of the "dark and bloody ground." The Kentuckians are fighting against fate, and sooner or later they must yield the fruitless conflict. They are rebels against their own best interests, and they are false to the teachings of the times; so they might as well ground arms before inevitable destiny, and allow their gallant Commonwealth to be enrolled n the steadily increasing number of States now forever free.

The Louisville Convention was comprised of delegates from several Western and maintained their ascendancy in the govern- Southwestern States, Resolutions were adopted in favor of emancipation, and in favor of the enlistment of black troops. It was declared that the question of the abolition of slavery was a National and not a State affair, and there were other expressions of opinion which were scarcely relevant to the object for which the body assembled. Still, the matter is now fairly before the citizens of Kentucky, and as it is too late to prevent free discussion, even there, we have no doubt that good will result from the assemblage of the delegates.

SMOKING ON BAILROAD CARS. The man who smoked in an omnibus having been left in the lurch by the retirement from their field of service of these lumbering vehicles, has taken to the city railway cars for the indulgence of his fumous propensities. Under a delusion that cigar smoke puffed upon the front platform of a car does not reach the interior, smoking is allowed there, and the consequence is that in mild weather, when the doors are open, the car is converted into a sort of horizontal smoke stack, with a good draft from the front, and in winter every time the front door of the car is opened a supply of tobacco smoke is obtained to further vitiate the confined air of the vehicle. There are many persons, particularly females, to whom the smell of tobacco smoke is very offensive, and no thoughtful or considerate man would annoy another simply for his own gratification. For those who are neither thoughtful nor considerate, the railway companies should have rules which would abate what has become a nuisance.

WELCOME TO GEN. HANCOCK .- Maj. Gen. Hancock, who is now in this city, and to whom the Councils have tendered the use of Indepencence Hall for the reception of his friends, will be welcomed to the city in that timehonored place on Thursday next, at half-past two o'clock. The Mayor and Councils will be present on the occasion, and a cordial reception will be extended to the gallant here.

GERMAN OPERA. -This evening Weber's fine opera of Der Freyschutz will be produced at the Academy of Music by the German Company, with an excellent cast. To-morrow evening, a grand extra performance will take place, for the benefit of Carl Anschütz, to whom we are indebted for the many rich treats that the German opera has afforded us. Mme. Rotter has been engaged for this occasion, and Kreutzer's charming opera, A Nightin Grenada, is to be played. It was in this opera that this fine artist most distinguished herself in former seasons, and we doubt not that her old admirers will turn out by thousands to hear her in it again.

MR. Wolfsonn will give another of his classical soirees in the the Foyer of the Academy of Music on Saturday evening. The programme is one of the best of the series. In addition to the instrumental music, we shall have the "Adelaide" of Beethoven and a song by Abt, sung by Herr Ha-
