TXXVIIITH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION. CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCERDINGS.

SENATE

Sommer (Mass.) presented the petitions of ditizens of Ohio, praying for the repeal of the Fug litive Slave Law, and to amend the Constitution so that it cannot be construed to the constitution so cannot be construed to favor slavery.

e Senate then proceeded to consider the House The Senate then proceeded to consider the mouse bill, No. 285, authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to borrow not exceeding $200,000,000 during the current fiscal year, and for the issue of additional five-twenty bonds to provide for the Arranse of $11,000,000 additional five-twenty bonds to provide for the excess of $11.000,000.

Mr. Powell (Ky.) moved to strike out the second section. He said the persons who subscribed knew the limit of the $500,000,000 loan, and the Government is not bound to issue more than that amount? He thought the Government had better pay them back their money, because these bonds are really worth seven per cent.

Mr. Sherman (Ohio) explained that numerous banks, scattered all over the country, from Maine to California were agents for the sale of the boan, and when it was mearly, exhausted it was impossible to ascertain the exact amount that had been taken. The eleven million excess was paid into the Treasury Department and had been expended He thought it manifestly proper that the Government should authorize the eleven millions to provide for this excess.

2.Inteply to a question of Mr. Hendricks, Mr. Sherman said no loan the Government ever negotiated had been obtained on more economical terms than the $500,000,000 loan by Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co. After a few explanations by Messrs. Johnson, Fessenden and Conness, the Senate refused to strike out the second section by a vote of

Mr. Hendricks moved to strike out the word six as the rate of interest on the two hundred million bonds, and insert five in the first section. He thought if the maximum was inserted it would be It to get a loan. enden thought it unwise to say to the difficult to get a loan.

Mr. Fessenden thought it unwise to say to the Secretary of the Treasury that he was not authorized to give the ordinary rate of interest in the market. He believed the Secretary was of the opinion that he could not obtain a loan at less than six per cent. He knew that if he could do so he would. No one had done more to keep down the late of interest than the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Hendricks said that if the banks of the country could use their money in loans at six per cent. Interest, payable in depreciated currency, why should the Secretary pay the equivalent of nine per cent. in paper, in gold.

Mr. Hatlan charged that the party with whom the gentleman (Mr. Hendricks) acted had in peace times yoted one per cent. per month in gold.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. Morgan introduced an additional section in lieu of the second, providing that the Secretary of the Treasury issue bonds to the amount of eleven willions and sell them in open market at the highest rates, to satisfy the excess in the loan of five hundred millions. Rejected.

Mr. Davis (Ky.) renewed the motion of Mr. Hendricks, to strike out six and insert five. Mr. Davis thought that at this maximum rate of six per cent. the moneyed men would combine against the Treasury and force the Secretary to come up to their standard. Rejected.

Mr. Anthony moved an amerdment, requiring their standard. Rejected.

Mr. Anthony moved an amendment, requiring the principal upon the bonds to be paid in gold. Adopted.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee of Conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the Revenue bill, presented the report of the Senate Committee, announcing a disagreement. On his motion the Senate insisted on its amendments, and agreed to submit the matter again to the House for final action.

On motion of Mr. Howard, a resolution was

On motion of Mr. Howard, a resolution was adopted, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish copies of the reports of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, or any other mentioned in the twentieth section of the Pacific railroad resolution, and requesting the President to inform the Senate if he has fixed the points of commencement of the Union Pacific Railroad or its branches at the eastern termini.

At a quarter to three the Senate went into executive session, and soon adjourned,

HOUSE.

Mr. Wathburne (Ill.) caused to be read a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, saying it is ascertained from authentic sources that many rescaled employed in the cod fisheries obtain salt to cure their fish from the British Provinces, thereby avoiding the payment of duty on salt incorporated with their fish and claimancy bounties, the same as if they had procured salt which had paid a duty in our own ports. To prevent this there appear to be no provision of law; therefore, the Secretary requested that an act be passed to the effect that hereafter no fishing bounties be allowed unless the claimants satisfactorily show that the salt which they have used because. they have used has paid a duty to the United Objection was made to the introduction of such a bill.

On motion of Mr. Driggs (Mich.) the Committee of Ways and Mears were instructed to inquire into the justice and expediency of levying tencents a bushel on salt imported into the United

Mr. Freeman Clark (N. Y.) offered a resolution as follows, which was passed:

Resolved, That the Committee of Ways and Means be instructed to inquire into the expediency of establishing a transfer office in the city of New York, under the direction of the Assistant Treasurer of the Uzited States in that city, for the transfer of Government bonds. And also as to the expediency of authorizing the exchange of coupon and registered bonds, one for the other as holders desire, and report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Brandegee (Conn.) offered a resolution that, the Senate concurring, both Houses adjourn on the 30th April next.

Mr. Stevens (Pa.) suggested the 31st of May instead of April.

stead of April.

Mr. Brandegee accepted the modification, remarking that he desired to fix a time in order that Congress may work up to it.
Mr. Ho man (Ind.) said that extraordinary attempts were made to prevent discussion, and being unwilling to encourage the continuation of such a practice, he moved to lay the resolution on the table. I.This was disagreed to, and the resolution was l'This was disagreed to, and the resolution was passed—yeas 93; noes not counted.

On motion of Mr. Fenton (N. Y.), it was resolved that the Committee on Military Affairs be requested to ascertain what legislation, if any, is recessary to authorize and require the payment of the certificates issued by the Second Auditor and Second Controller of the Treasury for arrears of pay and bounty due deceased soldiers, on presentation thereof to any paymaster of the army in the city of Washington, as well as in the district where the claimant resides.

The House then resumed the consideration of the bill to establish a bureau for freedmen's affairs, when fairs, when Mr. Knapp (Ill.) expressed his views against the measure.

Mr. Price (Iowa) advocated the bill on the ground that it merely proposed to direct into the proper channel the physical energies of those whom the fortunes of war have made free. He foresaw great benefits to result from such a lin reau, rather than the evils which its enemies predicted.

Mr. Pendleton (Ohio) commenced his remarks against the bill, but was interrupted by a message from the Sanate stating that the Committee of Conference on the whiskey bill had been unable sage from the Senate stating that the Committee of Conference on the whiskey bill had been unable to agree.

Mr. Washburne (Ill.), without reference to what occurred in committee, was free to state that he did not think the committee would have any difficulty in coming to an agreement on the subject. The gentlemen from Pennsylvania (Mr Dawson) was of the opinion that in order to adjust the difference between the two Houses a tax of twenty cents might be laid upon the stock of spirits on hand. This was the material point of the controversy.

Mr. Stevens said his colleague (Mr. Dawson), who was on the committee, did not represent the majority of the House.

Mr. Washburne replied that he believed that Mr. Dawson voted with the gentleman (Mr. Stevens) in the House against taxing the stock on hand. It was insisted by a part of the Committee of Conference that the House had decided against a tax of forty cents per gallan. In order to test the sense of the House.

Mr. Washburne offered a resolution: That the House insist on its disagreement to the Senate amendments, and request of the Senate another conference. And it is hereby declared as the judgment of the House that, in that ar justment of the mot less than twenty nor more than farty cents per Mr. Pendleton (Shio) moved that the House recede from its disagreement to the Senate's amendments.
