nassage of Mr. Hoover and other members possess knowledge concerning the corrupt inflaences" employed in behalf of this measure which they ought to give to the public; for the sake of their own credit, as well as for the credit of the Legislature and the State. We have heard it intimated that as high as $250 was offered for a vote in favor of the bill. If the bill were as meritorious as its friends claim that it is, there could scarcely be a nccessity for so large an outlay for votes in its favor. The members of the Legislature, the lobbyites and their defenders know a great deal-more about the "corrupt influences used to secure the passage of the bill" than has yet been made public, and the true and honest members should exert themselves to have them exposed.

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL GRANT.

Ever since the question of the appointment of a Lieutenant-General has been mentioned in the present Congress, the people have thought only of Ulysses S. Grant as the man for the post. The President could not, if he would, have appointed would if he could. The Senate would have confirmed no one else, and the people would have been dissatisfied with any one else. There is a feeling that the office was created for Grant, as a reward for the great services he has rendered to the nation. We are, therefore, glad that the appointment has been made without any delay.

The law under which General Grant is appointed does not make him commanderin-chief of the armies. It authorizes the President to assign him to such command, but we have not heard that the President has exercised this authority. We presume, therefore, that, for the present, at least. Lieutenant-General Grant will remain in Tennessee. He has a great and important work on hand, with grand strategic plans not vet executed; and it would scarcely be safe to leave these to another general just at the beginning of a campaign. But, as soon as it can be safely done, we should like to have him at Washington, exercising supreme command as to all grand military movements. The necessity of a wise and experienced military man, who has planned and executed great campaigns, and carried on sieges and assaults victoriously, has been long felt in our war administration. With a man like Grant directing all the campaigns, we believe there would be a grand plan grandly executed. There would be no waste of our forces, no useless raids, no deplorable sacrifices like that made lately in Florida. The people will have renewed hope of an early extinction of the rebellion, as soon as General Grant is made the head of all our armies.

PHILADELPHIA AND THE DRAFT. At the meeting of the delegates from the ward exemption associations, last evening, it was stated that the following wards have

THE KNELL OF THE STATE HOUSE BELL Mayor Henry yesterday issued an order that will meet with the approbation of every lover. of quiet. He directed that hereafter the State House bell shall not be struck on the occasion of fires, except at such times as the ringing of a general alarm would be requisite. In the days when the Fire Department was entirely a volunteer association, and when there was no Fire Alarm Telegraph in existence, there was a necessity for striking the State House bellwhenever a fire broke out; but circumstances alter cases. We have now a local magnetic telegraph system in operation which ramifics in every part of the city, and communicates directly with every police station and with every, or nearly every, engine and hose house in Philadelphia. At all the steam fire-engine houses there are certain men who are under pay. and whose duty it is to be always on the alert They also have horses ready harnessed, and upon the first click over the magnetic wire

they are not only ready for a start, but in a moment the instrument gives them almost the exact location of the conflagration. The Station house bell of the district in which the fire is burning is quite sufficient to give the alarm to the firemen and citizens of the locality, and the striking of the State House bell, when any one else; and we do not believe that he | the fire is in Richmond, Kensington or West Philadelphia, is about as wise as the conduct of the tipsy individual who at midnight clattered away upon his neighbor's door-knocker to arouse his own wife who was asleep a square off. Every body knows the scenes of confusion which invariably follow the striking of the State House bell in daylight; men and boys run helter skelter, the streets are in an uproar while the striking continues, business is interrupted, and the timid are alarmed, and all for the purpose of conveying a bit of police information that has already been far better done by the telegraph and the bell of the district in which the fire is burning. At night the entire city is disturbed by the doleful sounds. It would not be thought very sagacious in the general government to give notice of a movement of Lee's army by burning beacons upon all the hill-tops in the old English style, or of sending on a requisition for a regiment of men by means of some fleet-footed Malise, armed with a charred stick, while the telegraph and the mails were doing the same work a good deal better. The ringing of the State House bell for every fire that occurs is about as superfluous and as ridiculous.

The BULLETIN has urged this reform ever since the first introduction of the Fire Alarm telegraph, and we are glad that Mayor Henry has determined to test practically the new system, and to give us "a few brilliant flashes of silence" upon the State House bell upon occasions of ordinary fires.

EVENING BULLETIN WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2, 1864.

LEGISLATIVE CORBUPTION.

The defenders of corruption in our Legislature are driven to desperate expedients. One of them publishes a long and elaborate article in the Harrisburg Telegraph in favor of the proposed new railroad down the Lehigh Valley and into New Jersey, in which he charges the BULLETIN as aiming at "shielding the Reading and Lehigh Valley railroads from a fair competition." As we never thought of either of these roads, in connection with this subject, and as we never spoke with any one belonging or related to either company, in reference to it, the labored attack seems ridiculous. We should like very well to see another, or ments are aware. The Seventeenth Ward a dozen other railroads, running from the wants money badly ; not half its quota was coal region. But we objected, and still filled at the last return. The Eighteenth object, to the course pursued by those men in Ward has a somewhat better look-out, and out of the Legislature who were most though it was stated that 135 men were conspicuous in advocating the new bill. wanted at last-advices, and only $1,600

The scandalous scenes in Third street, were on hand. About half the quota of the Nineteenth Ward has been where members of the State Senate were busy "bulling" a certain stock, declaring mustered in. In the Twentieth ward great that it would soon go up to par, as the Leexertions have been made; at last accounts gislature would be sure to pass the proposed 436 men had been mustered in, and 218 bill, first excited our suspicions. Then the more were wanted ; subscriptions enough indecent haste with which the bill was have been raised. We have no report from put through the House, a fortnight before the Twenty-second ward, but from the fact the Senate was organized, satisfied us that that there is a large amount of wealth, and there was something more in it than a a hearty and zealous public spirit in that desire to do a public good. . In the course section, it cannot be doubted that active of the debate on the bill, Mr. Labar said : labor is going on. From the extensive rural of the debate on the bill, Mr. Labar Said: "I am opposed, Mr. Speaker, to the manner in which this bill is introduced into this House, more especially in view of the earnestness manifested by the gentleman. who has this bill in charge; and other members upon this floor, in urging its passage before it is generally un-deratood by the House. I have great reserve territory of the Twenty-third ward, no report was furnished, but it cannot be doubted that our friends at Frankford and the regions round about are awake to their derstood by the House. I have great reason to own interests. The Twenty-fifth ward suspect that the bill is not a just one, from the does not know its quota ; 135 men have fact that I have, for several days, seen upon this been mustered in, and the parties in charge floor borers button holing members. I have seen them yesterday and to-day running round of the bounty fund state that they want this hall button holing members to support this bill. If this be an honorable bill, and if the money very badly, and cannot obtain it within the limits of the ward. company be justly entitled to its paasage, why should it be necessary to introduce the measur above facts partly from the reports made in the manner in which it has been brought forlast evening. There may be errors in one Why should not the bill have been pre sented from the proper source? Why should it not have been offered by the gentleman from for have been offered by the gentleman from Carbon county, who should properly represent that company upon this floor? All these things, Mr. Speaker, cause me to believe that there is a wrong involved in the bill. I know that there is such a wrong."

There was a good deal more in the same strain, for which we have no room. On taking the vote on the final passage of the bill, Mr. Hoover desired to place on the Journal the following statement of his reasons for voting against it:

neglected, but one working week remains, "I have always been opposed to the passage of any bill in behalf of which I had reason to believe corrupt influences were used and believing Boription. and their citizens must bestir themselves to the utmost if they would escape the con-
