XXXVIIITH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION. CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE. Mr. Nesmith introduced a bill to grant lands to

Mr. Nesmith introduced a bill to grant lands to aid in the construction of a military road and telegraph line from Portland city to Dalles, in Oregon. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands Mr. Pomeroy offered the joint resolutions of the Kansas Legislature in favor of a donation of money and bonds to aid in the construction of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa ke Railroad. Referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee of Conference on the disagreeing volgs of the two houses on the Revenue bill, stated that, after a full and free conference, they had been unable to agree. The disagreement, he said, seemed to be permanent, and an adherence on the part of the Senate to its amendments would cause the failure of the bill, and they would thus have to wait until a new bill was matured and passed by the House or appoint another committee of conference, from which nothing would result. The committee on the part of the Senate therefore recommend that the Senate recede from its amendments. The bill then would impose a tax of sixty cents upon all domestic liquors manufactured after its passage up to July next, leaving any tax after that time to be provided for by tubure legislation. This recession of the Senate would also leave in the bill an additional tax of 40 cents per gallon on spirits on hand. This was incongruous, and was only to be remedied by inture legislation.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the Senate receded from its amendments.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the Senate receded On motion of Mr. Sherman, the Sendte receded from its amendments—yeas 25, nays il, as follows: YEAS—Messrs. Anchony, Carlile, Clark, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Foot, Foster, Harding, Harris, Hendricks, Howard, Johnson, Laue (Ind.), Lane (Kan.), Morgan, Morrill, Nesmith, Pomeroy, Sherman, Sumner, Van Winkle, Wade, Wilkinson, Willey

NAYS—Messrs. [Brown, Buckalew, Chandler, Doolittle, Grimes, Harlan, Howe, Powell, Ramsey, Saulsbury, Wilson.
Mr. Brown called up his bill directing an additional classified census of the population and resources of certain portions of the country.
Mr. Grimes opposed the passage of the bill at present, and moved its ref-rence to the Finance Committee. Mr. Grimes's motion prevailed.
The special order being called, Mr. Powell resumed his speech commenced yesterday. He resumed his speech commenced yesterday. He re-ferred at length to the last elections in Maryland and Delaware. In the latter state, he said it was

sumed his speech commenced yesterday: He referred at length to the last elections in Maryland and Delaware. In the latter state, he said it was clear that the Demecrats were in the majority, and could have carried the election, but for the interference of the military authorities. He denied that there was any necessity for military interference at the polls at the late elections in Delaware to preserve order, and notwithstanding this, solciers were placed immediately at the polls. While General Burnside controls elections in Kentucky, Edwin M. Stanton and his subordinates run the machine in Maryland and Delaware.

He (Mr. Powell) introduced a resolution in the Senate three weeks ago, requesting the Secretary of War to send copies of the instructions given to Proyost Marshals and Commanders concerning elections. Three weeks had elapsed, and yet the Secretary had not complied with the request, thus treating the Senate resolution with contempt. He does not tell us even whether he will reply to our request or not. He said the power claimed in taking these extraordinary steps was that it was a military necessity taken in behalf of a Union struggling for its life. He considered that obedience to the constitution and laws was the very essential essence of the life of the Union.

The melancholy fact was now presented of a President who is sworn to support the Constitution and laws invading the statutes and rights of the States. He (Powell) did not think the Government so much in danger from the rebels as from the machinations of these; traitors, who would violate every principle of the Constitution at home. The chief reason why the people have quietly submitted to those enormous usurpations of power is, that in a very short time they will have the privilege to change the Executive.

For the first time in the history of the country the military had taken charge of elections in the Salutary laws upon the subject as would pass such salutary laws upon the subject as would prevent a recurrence of the same state of things.

salutary laws upon the subject as would prevent a recurrence of the same state of things. There was not a Senator upon the floor but knew that the President was using the military force of the country to promote his succession. His amnesty proclamation was a move in that direction. This proclamation was a move in that direction. This proclamation he considered unwise, uncalled for, and revolutionary. He called it revolutionary because it overthrew the Constitution on which our Government was based. What right has the President to dictate who shall or who shall not be a qualified elector of a State, as he has done in the State of Arkansas recently in his instructions to General Steele!

Mr. Powell proceeded at length to comment upon the orders issued by Gen. Banks, in reference to elections regulating labor. He (Mr. Powell) believed that no honest man could take the oath prescribed by Gen Banks, as it extended to his future actions, and would bind him to supports policy in the future which would allow negroes, and no one else, to vote, provided, it was recommended by the President. He believed that this was a government for the white men, and that a white man was better than a negro. It would always a standing army in each State to carry out a white man was a start of the provisions of the President's amnesty proclamation, which would place nine-tenths of the people of a State under one-tenth. This pine-tenths of the population, if they were to be reduced to such an absolute slavery, must be reduced at to such an absolute slavery, must be reduced at the point of the bayonet. The President was not clothed, under the Constitution, with the power he had been exercising. If States were in the Union, what right had he to annul and override their constitutions or fix the qualifications of voters by military power? Our government was founded upon the principle that the military should be subordinate to the civil power. The President, in his opinion, had frampled upon this great principle. He said Washington, whom some people yet considered to have been equal to Abraham Lincoln, did not consider it necessary to subordinate the civil to the military power in the great seven years' struggle in which he and his compatriots were engaged. He would be glad if the weak and vacillating man now in the White House were imbued with a particle of the spirit which animated Washington when he resigned his commission at Annapolis in 1783. After animadvertung severely on the course 1783. After animad verting severely on the course of Secretary Stanton and General Butler in relation to interference with ministers of the gospel in the performance of their functions, Mr. Powell concluded, and motion of Mr. Foot, the Senate adjourned until Monday.

NOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House of Representatives.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the Massachusetts contested election case of Mr. John S. Sleeper against Alexander H. Rice. The Committee on Elections reported in favor of Mr. Rice, the sitting member.

Mr. Donnelly (Minn.), presented a memorial of the Legislature of that State for the establishment of a semi-weekly mail route from St. Cloud, Minnesota, by way of Fort Abercrombie, Dakota Territory, and Bannock city, Idaho Territory, to Fort Walla Walla, Washington Territory.

Shortly after four o'clock the House adjourned.
