EVENING BULLETIN

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1864.

PRESIDENTIAL TERMS. Those journals which oppose the re-election of President Lincoln are clamoring about the "one term principle," and make a grand point of the fact that since the days of Jackson no President has been re-elected.

ROOK MAURY. Matthew P. Maury, who was so long petted and indulged by the United States Government, while better naval officers than he ever was had hard duty imposed upon them, is compelled to resort to the silkiest kind of lies, in his endeavor to bring odium upon the Government to which he owes all the money and all the reputation he ever possessed.

cities. Now he tells the English people that "the Yankees" fabricated the lately published report of the rebel Secretary of the Navy! Below is a note from him, which, under the head of "Yankee Tricks," appeared in a recent number of the London Herald:

"To the Editor—Sir: Soon after the commencement of the American war the Yankees resorted to the trick of getting up facsimiles of Richmond papers, in type, paper, and size, of copying their advertisements, and then filling up with reading matter of Northern manufacture. These papers were then put into the mails, received, copied from, and circulated without suspicion as Southern utterances."

"The English press is now the victim of another 'trick' of the same sort. A document, copied from the Northern papers, is now going the rounds of the Continental and English press, which purports to be the official report of Mr. Mallory, the Confederate Secretary of the Navy to the Congress in Richmond. (It is a take in, it bears internal evidence of a hoax, and I know many of its statements to be false. Please, therefore, assure your readers that no such document has ever been uttered by the Secretary of the Confederate Navy, and do help me to 'nail to the counter' the spurious thing also. Yours truly, M. F. MAURY."

It is a pitiable thing to see a man, who once was considered a gentleman and a man of truth, driven to such a course of silly falsehood as this note indicates. The rebel yankee report referred to appeared in every Southern newspaper, and its authenticity was never questioned till Maury, in London, declared it was a forgery. His note declares that Secretary Mallory is a liar; that is, Maury says of his report, "I know many of its statements to be false."

OUR CITY JUDICIARY. As the Judiciary was intrusted with the administration of justice, it interferes more visibly and uniformly than any other part of government, with all the interesting concerns of social life. Personal security and private property rest entirely upon the wisdom, the stability and the integrity of the courts of justice.

It was feared, at the time of the repeal of the law which gave to the Governor of the State the power of appointing judges, that the system of electing the judiciary by popular ballot, then adopted, would lessen the dignity of the bench, and give occasion for intrigue, party prejudice and local interests, and prevent the judges so elected from acting with that independence of party politics, so much desired and so necessary in the administration of the laws. Fortunately for us in Philadelphia, the fears expressed at that time have proved groundless. We have lost nothing by the change; the people with wonderful unanimity selected as able and intelligent men for the bench, as have, perhaps, ever in the history of the State filled the judicial chair.

That the people sometimes make a mistake in the choice of their judges, under the elective system, the late election for judges in the city of New York most sadly proves. May we never, in that respect, follow New York's example.

It is requisite that the courts of justice should be able at all times to present a determined front against all wrongful acts, and to deal impartially and truly, according to law, between suitors of every description, or whether the cause, the question, or the party be popular or unpopular. To give them the courage and firmness to do it, the judges ought to be confident of their salaries and station.

The provision for the permanent support of the judges is well calculated, in addition to the tenure of their office, to give them the requisite independence. It tends also to secure a succession of learned men on the bench who, in consequence of a certain, undiminished adequate support, are enabled and induced to quit the lucrative pursuits of private business for the duties of that important station.

The Constitution of Massachusetts provides that "permanent and honorable salaries should be established by law for the judges." In our own State the judges of the different courts, by the Constitution and acts of Assembly, are to receive at stated times "an adequate compensation for their services," to be fixed by law and not to be diminished during their continuance in office. That the spirit of our law has not been carried out in this respect, a list of the salaries paid our judges will plainly show. The salaries of the Judges of the Supreme Court and Chief Justice, $3,400; Associate Judges, $3,200 per annum. The Judges of the District Court receive $3,000 per year, and the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, who also sit as a Court of Equity, as well as in the Orphans' Court and Court of Quarter Sessions, are paid $3,000 per annum.

Any Alderman's cash receipts in the city would show a larger income than what our Judges are paid by law. Can any reasonable person imagine for a moment that these salaries are adequate or honorable, or that they compensate the Judges for the duties they perform? In New York the City Judges receive five thousand dollars per annum, and yet there is now a petition (signed by some of the most prominent men of that city) before the Albany Legislature to increase these salaries to seven thousand dollars. In our own State the Legislature has repeatedly asked to increase the salaries of the Supreme Court, the District Court and Court of Common Pleas Judges, but without effect; owing, we have been informed, to the opposition of some of the court members, who apparently imagine the Judges of the various Courts of the great city of Philadelphia have as little to do as the Judges of their own County Courts, who generally have three sessions during the year, each session lasting about two weeks. Here the District, Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions Courts are open all the time. It is true, the District Courts have a breathing spell of not more than one month during the summer; but the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, during the vacation of the Civil Courts, are obliged to hold Court in the Quarter Sessions, even in the hottest season of the year. If any one of our readers has ever stopped in the Quarter Sessions Court-room, during the month of August, he no doubt has been glad to get out again as soon as he could. And yet the Judge must sit there week after week, with no relaxation from his duties. It is well known that the health of our Judges has been materially affected by their close confinement and their increasing labors. For the last twenty years our Judges have not been paid an adequate salary for one of the duties imposed upon them, and for the last two years, they have not, as we believe, received sufficient to pay their yearly expenses, owing to the rise in the price of all articles necessary for comfort and support. That this is so, is a crying shame upon our Commonwealth, and we call upon our members in the Legislature to urge upon the attention of their fellow-members the claims of those whose positions and characters entitle them, in the words of the Constitution and the Laws, to "an adequate and honorable compensation," which they certainly do not receive now.

THE GREAT CENTRAL FAIR. On Thursday evening a meeting will be held in the Academy of Music, on behalf of the Great Central Fair for the United States Sanitary Commission, which is to be held in June. Addresses explanatory of the object of the Fair will be delivered by Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island, Rev. Dr. Bellows, of New York, Judge Skinner, of Chicago, and others. We hope our citizens will show their interest in this great beneficent enterprise by filling the Academy completely. The wants of the Sanitary Commission, during the coming summer, will, we fear, be far greater than they have ever yet been. It is the general belief that the great decisive battles of the war are to be fought this spring, or in the course of the summer. There will be thousands of wounded and sick patriots in every military department, who will be entitled to the tenderest care and the most generous treatment. We who stay at home must provide for our brave brethren and for their families, and this cannot be better done than by supplying ample means to well organized associations, which have their agents and their supplies distributed in every part of the country. Let us resolve that the Great Central Fair of Philadelphia shall be a splendid success, and let us have a crowded meeting on Thursday evening as one of the preliminaries.

MR. GOTTSCHALK'S FIRST CONCERT, at Concert Hall, last evening, was well attended, and the performance gave great satisfaction. A second and final concert will be given this evening, with a superior programme. Mme. D'Angri, Carlo Patti, Simon Hassler, and Charles M. Schmitt, will assist, Mr. S. Behrens being the director and conductor.

IMMENSE SALE OF REAL ESTATE. Mr. James A. Freeman's sale of Real Estate, at the City and County of Philadelphia, of an amount of valuable property rarely found at any one sale. The Estates of Elizabeth Boudoin, deceased; Nicholas P. Clark, deceased; and Nicholas Rittenhouse, deceased. Peter Wagner, deceased, and several others of less extent are included. There are upwards of one million dollars of Real Estate to be sold at this sale. Catalogues will be ready on Saturday.

DR. M. SHARP'S CELEBRATED DYSPEPSIA PILL. Dr. M. Sharp's Celebrated Dyspepsia Pill, has been used by thousands of persons, and for the most part with the most successful results. It is a simple, safe, and efficacious remedy, and is the only one of its kind that has been tried by thousands of persons, and for the most part with the most successful results.

DR. M. SHARP'S CELEBRATED DYSPEPSIA PILL. The diet of a Dyspeptic should be plainly cooked, and seasoned with salt, from animals that have arrived at their maturity. For example—good beef, mutton, and poultry, and not that which is boiled, broiled, or fried. Eat nothing that is fried, and avoid all those dishes in which the skill of the cook has been exhausted. Eat slowly—chew well, and wash for the first time the stomach gives that it has enough, and then quit. Drink water—avoid alcohol in every form. Eat bread a day or two old. Do not eat little and often, but a fair allowance twice a day, at the regular hours of the day. This treatment, and you will soon say of all other pills—'Sat me lausit, lodi. Efficacis alios.'

DR. M. SHARP'S CELEBRATED DYSPEPSIA PILL. READ SOME OF THE TESTIMONIALS! This is to certify that after suffering from Dyspepsia for a period of two years, I have been cured by the use of Dr. M. Sharp's Celebrated Dyspepsia Pill, prepared and sold by T. J. SHERMAN, N. J. I had previously tried a variety of remedies without result.

DR. M. SHARP'S CELEBRATED DYSPEPSIA PILL. JOHN SOUDER. Mr. T. M. Sharp—Sir: It affords me pleasure to refer to the public attention to the Pills for the cure of Dyspepsia. I was a most miserable victim to that painful affection for the period of two years, and it was not until I had used your Pills, that I was cured. I am now well, and most gratefully acknowledge it, and would recommend them to a number of my friends, and cured in every case.
